By BILL STAVDAL
Colonist Education Reporter

● UBC students end occupation of Faculty Club; London School of Economics invaded. Page 38.

"Students have a right to take an active part in the decisions that affect them during their years at university. Students will be involved here on a basis of equality with faculty, and at once."

This is not the statement of a torch-waving campus revolutionary. It was uttered this week by Dr. Frank C. Peters, president of Waterloo Lutheran University in Ontario.

He made the statement as Waterloo Lutheran moved to include students at nearly all decision-making levels, giving them a voice in curriculum, planning, admissions and examinations.

Dr. Peters' statement reflects the opinion of a growing body in the Canadian university community — perhaps a majority. In the next two or three years the principle will be accepted universally.

Nevertheless, the sound of a university student calling for change on the campus still rouses a fearful and often nasty reaction among a large segment of the public.

We hear calls to kick them out of school if they won't stay in line, demands for police suppression of protest and threats to fire professors who support students. One would think Attila was on the horizon, judging by panic and hatred some people exhibit toward students.

So let's get a few things straight about responsible students, particularly at the University of Victoria.

Trudeau Reminds Atlantic Liberals

Patronage Is Dead

By RICHARD JACKSON

HALIFAX (Special) — Prime Minister Trudeau has come down to the job-hungry, contract-anxious, subsidy-needy Maritimes and told Nova Scotia Liberals that political patronage is dead.

The drive, he says, and they cheered him for saying it, must be for the best man for the job, the lowest bid for the contract — and forget about the patronage.

It was his first post-election appearance at a political rally — a $25-a-plate fund-raising dinner for the Nova Scotia Liberals.

And it was his first major speech since his June victory with the subject pure politics.

He said that in time past, federal party politics in between elections had been a matter mostly of jobs and contracts for the faithful.

But that kind of thing wouldn't do any more.

Quality was the key-word. Quality of mind and of performance, for the taxpayers' interest must prevail.

It was "only right," he conceded, that the "hard core" of the party faithful should expect reward for their efforts. But only up to a point. And that point must neither predudice the overall interest of the nation nor the individual stake of the taxpayer.

And he spoke of the students-for-Biafra who greeted him in a picket line when he leaped, in his leather coat, from the motorcade to enter the Lord Nelson Hotel after a foggy touchdown at nearby Shearwater armed forces air base.

"I told them we may be wrong the way we are trying to handle the problem" he related, "but I told them too, that it was a better way than getting involved in a civil war — and that I hadn't yet heard of any better way."

One of the students had cried that the war was genocidal.

"Genocide — that's the only important question," Trudeau said. "If it was genocide, the United Nations could act. But,

Nigerian Flights Up to Red Cross

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minster Trudeau told the Commons Friday it is up to the International Red Cross to obtain the necessary permission from Nigeria for Canadian planes to fly relief supplies into its breakaway province of Biafra.

For more than an hour the prime minister defended his government's policy of trying to help the starving people of the rebel province without infringing Nigerian sovereignty.

Trudeau also assured David Lewis, the NDP parliamentary leader, that the three Canadian Hercules planes at the disposal of the Red Cross will not be returning to Canada as has been feared.

Replying to Opposition Leader Stanfield, Trudeau said he is discussing with External Affairs Minister Mitchell Sharp the idea of Canada making direct representation to Nigeria to help the Red Cross obtain the necessary clearance to get the Hercules planes into Biafra.

The prime minister and Sharp met privately after the Commons question period Friday to talk about Biafra but aides to both men refused to say what decisions, if any, were reached.

Trudeau said Canada has encouraged Canadians to act generously as individuals to relieve the suffering in Biafra.

"As far as the Government of Canada's action is concerned, we only consented to put our aircraft, our official planes and our air force apparatus at the disposition of the Red Cross when the Nigerian government said that was all right, that it would not be interpreted as a hostile act," he said.

If similar Nigerian permission for church supply mission is given, then the Canadian aircraft would be turned over to them.

Opposition Speeches

Marshmallows Finish Fast

The food broke a fast begun Wednesday by the demonstrators to support their demand that Canada seek a United Nations ceasefire in the war between Nigeria and breakaway Biafra.

Three Opposition MPs each took their turn on the ledge of the centennial flame to speak to the crowd of about 75 demonstrators and sympathizers gathered to mark the end of the protest.

David Lewis (NDP-York South) said the Canadian government has a clear duty to save lives when it is possible to save them.

He said he did not understand why three Canadian Hercules transport planes should be allowed to "sit there doing nothing" instead of completing their mission to take relief supplies to Biafra.

★ ★ ★

Referring to the eviction Wednesday of demonstrators from External Affairs Minister Sharp's office where they had staged a three-hour sit-in, he said:

"It might have been better if the minister had been carried out."

Andrew Brewin (NDP-Toronto Greenwood) said the future of individual human beings, of Africa and of international order is at stake.

New Hampshire: 32 Die

10 Survive Crash Of Propjet

HANOVER, N.H. (AP) — A Northeast Airlines plane on a flight from Boston to Lebanon, N.H., and Montpelier, Vt., crashed and burned in fog on Moose Mountain near Hanover Friday night.

Reports from the scene indicated as many as 32 of the 42 persons aboard were killed.

A helicopter bearing medics and rescue personnel from Pease Air Force Base at Portsmouth, N.H., was at the scene to assist in rescue operations. State police called for "all medical aid possible."

Mary Hitchcock Hospital reported one survivor there and two others were at a nearby home. No information was available on their identities and condition.

HEAVY WOODS, ROCK

Persons near the scene said the plane crashed about 60 feet below the mountaintop, in an area of heavy woods and rock ledge.

A number of those aboard were reported badly burned, but four were able to walk down the mountain. The plane was still burning more than three hours after it crashed.

Northeast said a passenger list was being prepared but probably would not be complete until early morning.

Saigon Firm: No Cong

SAIGON (AP) — South Vietnamese President Nguyen Van Thieu was reported firm Friday in his refusal to let the South Vietnam National Liberation Front, political arm of the Viet Cong, have a separate role in the Vietnam peace talks.

This would set back prospects for an early breakthrough in United States efforts to get the preliminary peace talks in Paris moving.

Hanoi radio emphasized Friday North Vietnam had not accepted any U.S. conditions in exchange for a halt to the U.S. bombing of the North.

In Paris, meanwhile, Asian diplomatic sources said North Vietnam is hopeful an accord on the bombing halt will be arranged before the Nov. 5 presidential elections restrict the Johnson administration's freedom of action.

★ ★ ★

Hanoi diplomats, believed to be engaged in a new round of hard bargaining on a "peace package" with Washington, said they will study with great care a Laos statement that Washington planned to halt all bombing raids.

German Disclosure Fuels Spy Drama

Red Agents Flee Over Border

BONN (AP) — New reports added fuel Friday to speculation about a major spy case in the wake of a wave of suicides or violent death involving three senior West German officers and two government employees.

One was a statement by Conrad Ahlers, deputy chief government spokesman, that six communist East German agents were pulled quickly out of West Germany early this month.

Ahlers told a news conference two of the six left because of disagreements among their East Berlin bosses and two others fled fearing betrayal after the arrest of an accomplice.

Ahlers gave no details, but the latter two were believed to have quit the country after the arrest of an employee in a nuclear research centre at Karlsruhe earlier this month. He did not say why the other two left.

In another incident, the defence ministry reported fragments of an exploded U.S.-designed Hawk ground-to-air missile has been found on a public refuse heap in the Eifel Mountains.

The possibility of espionage first arose with the disclosure that Rear Admiral Hermann Luedke, 57, who retired as deputy chief of NATO's logistic department Sept. 30, had microfilm of secret NATO documents. He was found dead of a gunshot wound in an Eifel forest Oct. 8.

Eduard Adorno, defence ministry state secretary, told Parliament that Luedke's early retirement from NATO had nothing to do with the finding of the microfilm. He said Luedke had requested early release for health reasons last March.

★ ★ ★

Adorno said investigators so far have found no connection between Luedke's mysterious death and the suicides of two other military officers and two civil service officials.

He referred to the recent deaths of Maj.-Gen. Horst Wendland, deputy chief of the federal intelligence service; Lt.-Col. Johannes Grimm of the defence ministry, and Edeltraud Grupentin, librarian in the federal press office.

★ ★ ★

Cushing

In Wake of Publicity, 'Gutter' Mail

Jackie Defender Quits

BOSTON (UPI) — Cardinal Richard J. Cushing, Roman Catholic archbishop of Boston, said Friday he will resign at the end of this year as a result of the "gutter" mail and adverse publicity he received following his defence of Mrs. Jacqueline Kennedy's marriage to Aristotle Onassis.

The 73-year-old cardinal said he had intended to retire in mid-1970 but was prompted to quit this year because of the furor.

Cushing had condemned as "a lot of nonsense" statements that Mrs. Onassis is living in sin and would be excommunicated.

The cardinal, a long-time Kennedy family friend, said:

"Many letters I have received condemning me for asking charity for Jacqueline Kennedy have stated that I am only interested in money. Let me tell them all, please, that I entered the Catholic priesthood without a penny and I shall leave it without a penny, for I made a solemn vow of poverty many years ago as a Franciscan and I would never take for myself one cent."

ANDY CAPP

UVic's Revolution: Reason, Not Riot

ducted by Sir James Duff, formerly vice-chancellor of the University of Durham in England, and Prof. Robert Berdahl, a political scientist and specialist in university government at San Francisco State College.

They recommended student participation on both boards of governors and senates of Canadian universities.

On campus the senate is a group largely composed of faculty and administration representatives, who decide academic matters. The board of governors is supreme, making money decisions and composed mostly of successful lawyers and businessmen appointed by the provincial government.

The Duff-Berdahl Report said much campus unrest existed because senates were little more than rubber stamps for boards of governors.

Without increased student participation, said Duff-Berdahl, Canadian universities might experience Berkeley-type rioting in future.

Despite the astonishing slowness with which university administrations move, at least 14 Canadian campuses — including UVic — had students on senate this September. More such decisions are being announced almost weekly.

Two campuses — Western at London, Ont., and St. Francis Xavier at Antigonish, N.S. — have one student each on their boards of governors.

Considering events in other parts of the world, change at the University of Victoria is happening in a particularly civilized manner. There have been no ultimatums, no violence, no clubs, no fire.

TWO OVERT ACTS

There have been only two overt acts of protest, if such they can be called.

In the early spring of 1967, during the faculty-firing crisis, students staged a 24-hour sit-in on one floor of the McLaurin Building. Instead of calling the police, the then president, Malcolm Taylor, opened a faculty lounge to the students. He promised an investigation which has since resulted in changes in hiring and tenure policies.

The other protest was a copycat version of the University of Toronto's campus tent-in, dramatizing the shortage of student housing.

NO INTERFERENCE

In Toronto there were calls to evict the students and a confrontation nearly occurred. At UVic the students camped without interference until they were damp enough, then packed up.

In addition there is a study in contrasts over a noteworthy article titled The Student as Nigger, by California English professor Jerry Farber.

Farber's thesis is that students are "niggers" — meaning they are treated with contempt by impersonal university machines, and are willing to go along with the system.

WITHOUT RIPPLE

Farber employs some needless, disgusting word pictures to make his point. Publication of the article in student papers elsewhere has resulted in at least one student editor being fired through administration pressure.

But at UVic the student newspaper has published Farber's article twice without a ripple of excitement.

Last summer student leaders presented a series of proposals for change in the various workings of the university. (They could be called demands, but it hasn't got down to that yet.)

THREATS AVOIDED

The response of the senate committees — all with student representation — to study the proposals. Deadlines have been set for reports.

Frank Friketich, president of the student Representative Assembly, has avoided threats and ultimatums. He has said privately that a year is not too long to wait for changes to come into effect.

INCITING MILITANCY

CUS this winter is following a deliberate policy of inciting students to more militant action. It portrays the issue as a struggle between social reform and a rigid, brutal Establishment.

A new CUS publication begun this fall has a cover photo of a bloodied student being dragged away by club-wielding police.

Inside, an editorial says: "... We will be increasingly subjected to police force and violence. And when we resist that force because of its illegitimate basis we will be accused of violent acts and arrested."

Violence is inevitable, according to CUS, which appears to relish the prospect.

At UVic last week, students were circulating a petition to withdraw from CUS. A plebiscite on CUS membership is already scheduled for February.

The independent good sense of UVic students was clearly demonstrated last week during the two-hour speech of U.S. Yippie leader Jerry Rubin. A likeable anarchist, Rubin preached approximately equal parts of truth, sharp social criticism and nonsense.

More than 1,000 UVic students applauded Rubin when they thought he was making sense, and jeered when he blathered. In other words they made up their own minds as they went along.

So far nobody at UVic has advocated burning down anything. The students have exhibited a healthy restlessness with an outdated system of education and their academic elders consider them worthy of a hearing.

GORDE HUNTER Reports

VICTORIA IS the beauty of trees, of roses, of shrubs of all hues. It's the joy of balmy weather when the rest of the land is in the deep freeze and of the splendid grandeur of the sea. It's the magnificence of opulent homes and it's the scarring ugliness of man-made hovels that aren't advertised in the "follow-the-birds" brochures.

The scale is smaller, but it's the runaway youngsters of any big city ghetto. It's the filth of many hippie pads and if you deny this, you're a head-in-sand dreamer.

The beauty of Beacon Hill Park is obvious. Yet, across the street, a disgraceful hovel, a crash pad for hippies until a few short weeks ago when it was finally closed down for sanitary reasons. Dozens of young people lived there—lived there long after the water supply was cut off. Every room was a miniature garbage dump, the bathroom smelled like an outfall. That's if you had the stomach to get close enough.

RECENTLY I toured our city by night. Toured it with the police juvenile squad and was sickened at some of the sights. The night was spent tracking down two runaway girls, ages 13 and 14. Yes, they came from unfortunate homes. Both are currently wards of the court. But don't think for one minute the problem is the exclusive property of broken homes. Check the records, as I did, and be amazed at the number of runaways from the affluent society.

"Some of the richer parents," the constable said, "haven't the time for their youngsters. They think a five-dollar bill will take care of anything."

YOU START looking in places like the Youth Centre on Broad. This is no YMCA recreation area. It's dilapidated and not the cleanest place in the world. It's a hangout for the opt-outs, maybe 30 of them there when I visited. I hope my youngsters can find better places to spend their time, but don't knock it altogether. To the opt-outs it's a place to be, a place of friendship, however drab and dreary. The runaways in question had been there earlier.

Check out the restaurants of the area, ask the occupants if they'd seen the girls. No luck so wander over to Centennial Square. It was the hustle of people going to listen to Gordon Lightfoot at MacPherson, but the odd straggler hung around the square. More questions, same negative replies.

NEXT PORT of call, Cool-Aid—an old two-storey house on Quadra. I've seen tider battlefields, but at least Cool-Aid director Charles Barber was making an attempt to clean it up. He was spattered, head to toe, with paint because the roller he was using had seen better days—years ago. Barber made a phone call or two in an attempt to trace the missing youngsters. His contacts failed him.

"WE DON'T allow runaway girls here," was the matter-of-fact reply.

Then, a call on the car radio—a tip that the two girls had grabbed a ride to Nanaimo. A phone call to the RCMP and now it was out of City Police hands. Why Nanaimo?

"Maybe they'll try to get a few bucks together," the policeman said, "and get across to Vancouver."

★ ★ ★

AN ISOLATED incident? No, an everyday occurence. The police files are fat with them. From Oak Bay, Victoria, Saanich, Esquimalt—you name the area, it happens there.

It adds up to parent failure. It adds up to an ugly mark on a beautiful city. Manicured lawns and formal gardens can't hide it.

Trudeau

observers have found no evidence of genocide. It's just a dirty, lousy, civil war. It should be ended."

★ ★ ★

He said there was nothing to stop the demonstrators from going to Nigeria and helping out.

"If people like you had your pockets where your mouths were ..." Trudeau said, the words sputtering out in the noisy confrontation.

The demonstrators said Canada should stop British sales of arms to Nigeria.

"Sure. I'll tell Harold Wilson what the Canadian socialists told him — not to ship arms. He told them to go jump in the lake."

The prime minister emphasized to the dinner guests it was urgent that political leaders talk to this kind of "protestor."

Otherwise, he said, they would be convinced we were wrong and they were right. And that way real trouble could start.

"So we have to talk. We have to listen. We have to be interested. We have to respond and explain."

He was at pains to stress how urgent was this need of new communication — "Open and free" — between the politicians and the people.

It was a new age, he conceded, an age of "electronics, television, the press, radio," of instant communication.

But if communication was "left to the media," he warned, and if politicians didn't get into the action of dialogue, "it will be the end of parliamentary democracy and the beginning of something cold — of mass democracy and mob rule."

Plane Down Flyers Safe

FORT NELSON (CP) — Two Alaska men reported to authorities Friday that they were unharmed when they landed their light aircraft in a field near here because of bad weather. An air search had been started when pilot Martin Hudson and passenger Tyson Whitlock were reported overdue on a flight to here.

Your Good Health

Glue Hard on Liver

By JOSEPH MOLNER, MD

Dear Dr. Molner: I am a glue-sniffer. I would like to know whether sniffing can hurt you in any way at all. I have been sniffing for about two months and have had no after-effects. People tell me it destroys brain cells.

Is there any danger of hurting myself? I enjoy the glue trips and don't want to give them up. I am 15 and take a trip about once a week.—B.M.

Maybe you haven't harmed yourself so far and I hope not, but you must have been on a "trip" the times I wrote about this before.

The foremost dangers are damage to the liver and to the blood, and by the time you begin to notice any symptoms, there will have been permanent damage that cannot be repaired medically.

A few months of glue-sniffing can wreck the liver worse than years of hard drinking. It's as simple as that.

Dear Dr. Molner: I have a very noticeable mole above my right eye and would like to have it removed surgically but have been told that mole removal would cause cancer. Will it?—N.H.

Nonsense. Removal of a mole will no more cause cancer than any other surgical procedure—having your appendix out, a wart removed, a tooth pulled. If you want the mole off, go to a dermatologist or a plastic surgeon, since because of its position you would want to leave as little scar as possible. In less conspicuous places your regular physician can easily remove moles.

Dear Dr. Molner: I am a male, 46, in good physical condition except that two years ago a blood vessel burst in my eye. It has happened twice since then. Each time I called the doctor, but he advised me not to worry and said no treatment was necessary.

Since there was no apparent cause for this to happen, I wonder if it is a sign of vascular weakness or deterioration. Can anything be done to prevent recurrence? — M.W.M.

This sort of thing does happen to some people, and as a rule they get the same correct advice you did. Ordinarily the explanation is a fragility of the tiny capillary blood vessels in the outer eyeball.

Deficiency of Vitamin C and calcium can contribute to such bleeding, so be sure you get ample Vitamin C (from citrus or tomato juices) and calcium from milk.

Dubcek Conciliatory

Red Cracks Cemented

PRAGUE (UPI) — Communist leader Alexander Dubcek broke two weeks of public silence Friday and said the Czechoslovak party must move quickly to meet Soviet demands for restoring normalcy in this occupied country.

"The sooner we realize what must be done, the faster shall we create conditions for the further advance, creative activity and upsurge of the life of our (Czech and Slovak) nations," Dubcek said.

Dubcek also said Friday the Czechoslovak party will not hold its long-planned 14th party congress. The announcement dashed reformers' hopes of ousting old-line Stalinists from the nation's leadership.

Meanwhile, the nation blossomed with red, white and blue banners and late-season flowers for what some feared might be a troubled celebration of its 50th year as a republic this weekend.

OFFICIAL CONCERN

There was evidence of increasing official concern over possible anti-Soviet outbreaks in connection with the anniversary, and harsh Soviet repression that could result.

Dubcek also spoke of the need for improving relations with East Germany and accused the Western press of using "slander and semi-truths" to divide the communist world.

AT THEIR SIDE

Speaking of the East Germans, Dubcek said the interests of this country "require that we stand at the side of the German Democratic Republic, that we unequivocally and uncompromisingly defend its integrity and sovereignty with the knowledge that its existance is an important factor of the overall struggle against the revenge-seeking course of militaristic West German forces."

STRONG SUPPORT

It was an unusally strong statement of support for the East Germans whose relations with Czechoslovakia have been worse than any of the other Warsaw Pact nations, including the Soviet Union.

The entire Czechoslovak leadership released an open letter to the youth of the nation Friday expressing appreciation to "the young generation which responded to the present complicated reality with prudence and reason."

STILL THERE

The letter marking the 50th anniversary appeared to stress the leaders' hopes that youth would continue to show restraint.

Soviet troops still were in evidence in the city. Suburban dwellers said there had been no significant change noticed in the deployment of a "steel ring" of troops and armor placed around Prague.

Rebels On Trial

BERLIN (AP) — East Germany has launched a series of secret trials of persons who objected to the Soviet invasion of Czechoslovakia in which East German forces took part, authoritative sources reported Friday.

The sources said that Horst Bonnet, stage director at the East Berlin Comic Opera, had been sentenced to 2½ years in prison for distributing leaflets protesting the invasion.

They said additional trials might involve 20 or more persons, among them the 16-year-old and 19-year-old sons of scientist Robert Havemann. The father lost his membership in the Communist party and his post at East Berlin's Humboldt University in 1964 for his independent views on how socialism should develop.

Sources in the Czechoslovak embassy in East Berlin say the Aug. 21 Warsaw Pact blitz on Prague produced a wave of sympathy and other demonstrations of support by individual East Germans for the cause of liberalism in Czechoslovakia.

Walter Ulbricht, East Germany's communist leader, was in the forefront of those demanding that the liberalization drive in Czechoslovakia be halted. He feared it would spread to the East German people.

Ulbricht declared that a cultural liberalization such as occurred in Czechoslovakia would not be tolerated in East Germany.

Havemann and poet-singer Wolf Biermann, both dedicated communists, were the first prominent East German intellectuals to feel the sting of party displeasure in recent years for criticizing the policies laid down by Ulbricht and other party leaders.

Culture minister Klaus Gysi told a recent meeting of the state council Havemann and Biermann were "politically and intellectually defeated and isolated."

Partnership Rejected

CANADA'S REJECTION of a suggestion that it join a consortium of nations to design and build a multi-role military aircraft is explained by Defence Minister Leo Cadieux on the grounds that "we do not like to be put in a position in which equipment dictates policy."

This is hardly convincing. If Canada had a hand in the planning and production of such an aircraft surely it would be policy which would dictate the type of equipment acceptable. In other words, Canada would have something to say about specifications.

The government, in the past, has been quick to defend the so-called defence production sharing program to which Canada and the United States subscribe. But there are doubts in this country that the arrangement is as beneficial as the government would have us believe, and the fact that the defence department even debated the advisability of joining the consortium of Great Britain, West Germany, Italy, Belgium and The Netherlands gives rise to the suspicion it would like to escape it.

Canada is committed to the purchase of the CF-5, a modified version of the Northrop F-5 close-support fighter. But in the selection of this aircraft Canada was obliged to look for the best American product adaptable to its needs.

Canadian engineers had nothing whatever to do with it original design.

In the consortium Canada, as a partner, would have had a chance to be heard in the planning stages. In other words, we should have been in a position to have Canadian requirements considered before the machine went into production.

Mr. Cadieux says the defence department may purchase the consortium's combination of fighter-bomber-close-support aircraft in any event. In that case his government has lost an opportunity for invaluable participation.

Canadians have shown in the past that they possess certain skills and special knowledge when it comes to the designing of military aircraft. There is the example of the CF-100, a two-engined, long-range jet fighter unique in its time. And there was the CF-105, a supersonic fighter of the same type acknowledged by international experts as the best in the world.

With retirement from the consortium idea, Canada remains in a position where it will have to shop around for acceptable air force equipment which promises small encouragement to Canadian engineers and very possibly no participation whatever in production.

Stiffer Tests

THE YOUTH DIVISION of the British Columbia Safety Council, after a 16-month study of drivers' examinations and licensing, goes farther than the royal commission on car insurance in its proposals for keeping poorly-qualified drivers off the road. The division's report may or may not receive the endorsement of the council itself, but as it stands it adds pressure on the government to consider tighter regulation of the driving privilege.

The report of the royal commission under the chairmanship of Mr. Justice R. A. B. Wootton suggested that all beginner-drivers should be required to obtain qualifying certification from private driving schools in order to gain their licences. They would be compensated for the cost of instruction, it said, by a lower insurance premium.

The Wootton study found inadequate as a safeguard the current testing by the Motor Vehicle Branch. The test could be passed by memorizing a booklet on theory and successfully taking "a short drive around a few blocks in which the important feature is knowledge of how to park the vehicle and how to give the required turning and stopping signals. The applicant is not tested under conditions of traffic congestion or of highway driving."

The youth division of the safety council finds the same: "... anyone who can pass a simple written exam and a road test can obtain a licence. Little is said in tests about emergency situations, entering and driving on freeways, correct ways to stop at stop signs and driving under adverse conditions."

Its solution, however, would go beyond the royal commission's. Every driver would have to take a defensive driving course, beginners before receiving a licence, and licence-holders on re-examination. And "to eliminate those who cannot be trained to have the right attitude toward driving, psychological tests should be devised, and administered to every new applicant for a licence."

It seems doubtful that the public would support going this far. But if compulsory courses in defensive driving are not to be the answer, more thorough testing certainly is to be seen as a needful alternative. As for the psychologically unfit to drive, the demerit-points system leading to suspension will surely take its toll of them.

Dangerous Vandalism

SUCH IS THE EXTENT of crazy vandalism in the Alberni area that the RCMP and civic authorities have appealed to the public to co-operate in putting an end to it.

City council has posted a reward for information leading to the conviction of vandals damaging municipal property, but the chief target is a group of "motorized maniacs", as they were described by Mayor Fred Bishop, believed responsible for the removal of stop signs at various intersections.

Presumably, the vandals use automobiles to carry away the stop signs, for they would hardly dare to take them very far if they were afoot.

Obviously, such signs are placed at intersections which would be dangerous without them. Particularly for strangers in the area, their absence could be the cause of disaster.

One alderman, Mr. George McKnight, has called the crime tantamount to murder. And this is not far off the mark if, for example, a child were to die at a normally marked crossing.

This sort of hoodlumism cannot be classified as simple mischief, or the result of youthful exuberance or drink-inspired practical joking. It is too dangerous a practice to be brushed aside as a prank. It involves a risk to life and property of very serious dimension and the culprits, if ever they are caught, invite the stiffest penalties.

Normally, the general public is reluctant — reward or not — to give information in such cases. An informer's role is always repugnant. But in this instance it might be said to be a civic duty to assist the police. Vigilance is recommended to the citizens.

Independence Anniversary

Despondent Jubilee for the Czechs

By ROY PERROTT from Prague

ON Sunday mornings nowadays the old and picturesque streets of Prague show a big influx of sight-seeing Russian soldiers. As they stroll along in their compact little groups, darting curious eyes right and left at the patrician monuments of the past, or pose for camera-clicking comrades to take a snapshot for the family album, these unseasonable visitors must be viewed with mixed feelings by the Czechs.

They find the Russian presence on their soil a sadly ironic turn of the screw in a week in which they would normally be holding high-spirited celebrations of the founding of Czechoslovakia as an independent state. (The anniversary occurs on October 28.)

When In 1918 the state acquired its freedom from alien rule with the crack-up of the Hapsburg Austro-Hungarian Empire, the country greeted it with an outburst of enthusiasm. But in the last half-century it cannot be said that Czechoslovak history has changed much. As a small Central European buffer state, the country seems fated to be the victim of the imperialist pressures of outsiders, particularly from Germany in the west and Russia to the east.

It is a history which has moulded the well-defined Czech character: phlegmatic, adjustable, not over-ambitious or pushful about anything, and prone to take refuge from events in a cocoon of wry humor (they produce excellent cartoonists). The people are going to need all these qualities in the next phase of their relationship with the Soviet Union.

The treaty recently signed between the Czech government and the Russians provides for the "temporary" stationing of troops here, a force probably around 80,000-strong. When they reflect that Soviet troops have also been garrisoned in Hungary for 12 years on a "temporary" basis, Czechs suspect that simple words are getting a new meaning.

For the moment they are bearing up under the military presence rather better than could have been expected two months ago when the tanks came rolling in.

When a group of Soviet officers, cameras swinging at the shoulder, stride past us as we take our morning stroll across the beautiful Charles Bridge, the two Czech friends I am with can still register a sort of ironic amusement at the scene: can marvel at the way soldiers turn so readily into smiling tourists. And by the way, they joke, don't those Russian sergeants know that the statue they are posing under was erected by a most terribly despotic and right-wing emperor?

Striking an anniversary balance sheet of Czech gains and losses, one would have to say that their leaders have so far managed to hold on to some important things. There have been no arbitrary political arrests so far. The Czechoslovak Communist Party, which still has the support of the vast majority of the people, has kept most of its unity and a fair amount of its progressive character. The "action program" of party chief Alexander Dubcek and his colleagues — which was intended to democratize national institutions from the bottom upwards, besides giving the national economy a more prosperous, Western look — has had much of the life knocked out of it by the need to conform to Soviet demands. But Czech politicians still seem convinced they can hold on to some of the forward-looking elements of the program.

On the other hand, the new obligations of censorship have seriously blanketed the press and, despite the unflagging efforts of Czech journalists to find ways of writing honestly, have left a once keenly interested readership in a state of doubt and apathy about what is happening in their country.

Is there any hope that the Czechs can rediscover some of the upsurge of new spirit they found in the excited months before the tanks came? In the long term (and they must almost certainly think in terms of years) most Czech observers cling to some vague idea that the more progressive "doves" at the Kremlin will some day outvote the more dogmatically-minded "hawks" and that this will automatically mean more freedom for Czechoslovakia. This horizon may be a distant one.

On the other hand, it is hard to believe that the Czechs' strong desire for more independence and democratic rights, while still remaining socialist, has been stifled for good. The student generation is certainly unlikely to forget the breath of new life of the post-January phase. While the Czechs retain their freedom to travel abroad they will go on absorbing Western ideas that are largely denied to ordinary people in the other satellites.

Most important of all is that Czech industry badly needs Western technology on a very large scale and the Russians know this well. They also know that to deny this sort of contact with the West is to injure the rest of the Eastern bloc also. And this too may well give the buried stream of Czech individuality a chance to surface again.

Education Experiment

The Bitter Battle of Brownsville

By JOYCE EGGINGTON from New York

THE Brownsville section of Brooklyn in New York City is a dreary district to which few of its inhabitants really belong. Predominantly Negro and Puerto Rican, they are crowded into a neighborhood which is old, ugly and decaying. Here and there is a tall new apartment house, a street whose residents retain a pride in keeping the homes clean and trim. The rest is dirt and disinterest, overflowing garbage cans, broken bottles, mouldering tenements — a landscape which is repeated countless times in large cities of the United States.

This year Brownsville was chosen as one of three New York districts where an experiment in school government was to be tried. Instead of total control from the city's board of education, the schools in the experimental districts were to be largely run by locally-elected officials. The move was recommended in a Ford Foundation study which felt that the special needs of the Negro slums were not being met in New York schools; that the education there was still geared to middle-class whites, ignoring the reality that most of the children in the city's elementary and high schools are now black and under-privileged. Consequently, the illiteracy rate of Negro school-leavers was shockingly high.

The Brownsville experiment has now become an educational battleground: the focal point of the third city-wide teachers' strike in six weeks. The victims are the one million city schoolchildren who have had virtually no education since the summer recess began in June, and who will be lucky if they get any before Christmas. And, as the strike continues helplessly, feelings become more bitter on either side.

The trouble began in the spring when the new Brownsville board, headed by a militant Negro administrator Rhody McCoy, summarily fired 19 white teachers. When reinstatement was refused the United Federation of Teachers struck in sympathy, declining to return until given firm guarantees by the board of education that their job security would not be affected by the growing trend toward school decentralization.

Twice they returned to work when they thought they had the guarantees, then struck again when they felt they had not. Positions on both sides have hardened — New York's Mayor John Lindsay being committed to extending decentralization — and the city seems set for a long, tough strike.

Taking a middle-of the road view of all this, it would seem that the Brownsville board acted stupidly in firing the teachers, treating them with undeserved contempt. But, sensitively handled by the union and teachers, the dispute could have been kept to Brownsville and settled long since.

Instead, the teachers closed ranks, lost their liberalism overnight, and with all the union power at their command (which has turned out to be considerable) are now firmly set against the decentralization experiment which, earlier, they might have aided. Most of them now feel that their only assurance of security is in having New York schools run the old bureaucratic way, with city hall their boss. Thus the battle has long since ceased to be about education and now is almost entirely about race.

During most of the strike, the John M. Coleman Junior High School in Brownsville — centre of the dispute — is one of the few which has remained open, staffed by non-union teachers appointed by Mr. McCoy's board. These teachers are either Negroes or young whites enthusiasts, fresh from college.

The children straggle to school through barricades of police — so many police that Brownsville looks like a neighborhood permanently under siege. The school gates are the scene of frequent "Black Power" demonstrations, with bands of Negroes carrying signs demanding, "We want community control," and chanting a lot of unprintable obscenities. For, just as the teacher's position has become inflexible, so has that of the Negro leadership.

What the Negroes now want is not the partial school control envisaged for Brownsville, but total power to run schools independently of the board of education. Seeing this, other more powerful unions are supporting the teachers, fearful that Negro control of schools may lead to Negro control of other services.

The events in Brownsville are being closely watched by city administrations and teachers across the country. In other major cities it was beginning to be recognized that Negro communities must be given a hand in running the schools. The Brownsville experiment was therefore a test case for them all — and if it fails, then the chances for millions more urban Negro children may suffer for years.

Today In History

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

A small force of British and Canadian soldiers — 90 per cent of them French-speaking — defeated an advance party of 1,500 Americans 155 years ago today — in 1813 — at the battle of Chateauguay. This engagement, successfully led by Charles de Salaberry, halted the march of about 7,500 Americans on Montreal.

Second World War: Twenty-five years ago today — in 1943 — Ottawa announced the promotion of Lt.-Col. Herbert Sparling to brigadier and his appointment as commander, Royal Canadian Artillery; RAF Wellington bombers attacked the strategic rail centre of Sagaing in western Burma and the port of Akyab; British 8th Army units captured Acquaviva and Civita Camporarano, seven miles south of the Trigno River, near Italy's Adriatic coats.

Equatorial Guinea Will Find

Independence Carries a Stiff Price

By H. AUGUST DEBELIUS from Madrid

LIKE many a grown-up child who decides to live on his own, the newly sovereign nation of Equatorial Guinea is going to find out it is expensive to be independent.

The prosperous former Spanish African colony, which is off the coast of Cameroon, was caught up in a wave of euphoria from the moment the red and gold Spanish flag was hauled down in front of the government offices in the capital of Santa Isabel, Oct. 12, and the green, white, red and blue flag of its independent democratic government took its place.

There were no hard feelings toward the mother country, Spain, which kept its promise of granting independence and which was responsible for launching the island nation in far better economic conditions than most of its African neighbors.

But Guinean President Francisco Macias and his cabinet know that their national prosperity is in part due to the fact that in recent years Spain has invested much more in Guinea than it has received.

The over-all rate of taxation there, under Spanish colonial rule, was 14.5 per cent of total earnings, compared with 23.7 per cent for Spaniards on the European mainland. Yet the Spanish budget allowed for an annual expenditure of 6,600 pesetas per inhabitant in Equatorial Guinea, as compared with only 5,420 pesetas per person in Iberian Spain.

To continue leading Africa in terms of prosperity, Equatorial Guinea will certainly have to increase its tax rates and devise bold economic development plans. But it has what it takes for that.

Much of its 11,000 square miles of land is fertile, its small population of 263,000 allows for considerable expansion, it already has a profitable cocoa and timber export trade, and its literacy rate is high not only for Africa but for the rest of the world as well, with an 89 per cent primary school attendance.

One stumbling block in the way of further economic development, however, might arise from a political problem. The constitution which was approved in a popular referendum last August denies the vote to about 10,000 white settlers, who control a considerable part of the agriculture potential of the rich island of Fernando Po. Only native-born African adults are allowed to vote.

While there is no racial friction evident in the new nation at the moment, it could arise if the government had to press the European settlers for further taxation without representation.

President Macias hopes to make Equatorial Guinea the 125th member of the United Nations, and to steer a middle course between East and West in international politics. But as if that proposal were not difficult enough to realize without more complications, Equatorial Guinea's next door neighbor is Nigeria, a country shattered by civil war.

The Nigerian government claims that some of the planes flying into rebel Biafra from Santa Isabel in Fernando Po have been carrying arms rather than food and medicine.

With Britain, Russia and France now involved in the Nigeria-Biafra dispute, Equatorial Guinea will find it hard to avoid involvement with the big powers unless it can enforce a policy of absolute neutrality with regard to the struggle in Nigeria.

Emotionally speaking, that will not be easy, since labor-short Fernando Po is the home of thousands of Biafran migrant farm workers.

When the drums thumped out the proclamation of independence throughout Fernando Po, Rio Muni and the small islands in the Bight of Biafra that make up the new nation, Spain's stock went up considerably among African rulers.

The smooth transition to independence that Spain provided for Equatorial Guinea gave added emphasis to the official claims here in Madrid that modern Spain is an anti-colonial power.

It also closed the ranks among African nations represented in the United Nations behind Spain's own claim for recovery of Gibraltar at the southern tip of the Iberian peninsula.

The first African member of the Spanish-speaking community of nations, whose citizens are predominantly Roman Catholic by religion, Equatorial Guinea selected its independence day with good reason.

Oct. 12 is celebrated throughout the Spanish-speaking world as "El dia de Hispanidad," a day of nostalgic remembrance for the mother country. It is also the feast day of the Virgin of Pilar, one of Spain's national patron saints.

J. Enoch Powell

Conservative Goad

By GORDON C. MURRAY from London

WHAT'S wrong with the British? The blunt, almost rude question was aimed at J. Enoch Powell, Tory member of Parliament from Wolverhampton South-West. The man who is emerging as the United Kingdom's Mr. Conservative answered in an interview with characteristic directness.

"Britain has undergone a vast transformation, not in itself but in its situation with respect to the rest of the world," he said.

"She has severe problems of adjustment to the new realities. It has not helped that there are dilametrical differences of opinion as to what constitutes reality."

The first step in the recovery of British self-esteem, and subsequently to world esteem, is for the people to understand the truth. For example, Powell stresses that the post-war delusion of empire must be dispelled.

"The episode linking us to India is over," he said. "There is no sense in yearning to be where we used to be—we have been kicked out."

Britain's worker bees have been enticed to the wax flowers of socialsim, Powell feels. He has gained no great amount of affection from his own Conservative Party leadership by reminding it constantly of the duty to reveal the synthetic nature of these blossoms.

"We must tell the government to give us a money system which will tell us the truth about the consequences of our choices and decisions, about the true cost of importing, the true profit of export, the true return upon investment," he said.

"If Britain would force her politicians to fulfil that demand, we should hear no more about a weak economy or about being 'the sick man of Europe.'

"We should no longer have to suffer the insult of seeing the prime minister come on television to inform the world that 'we are a proud people.' What we are would speak for itself."

Powell blames "the same political mismanagement which decreed an external policy by which everybody's business is ours except our own" for accepting a policy of "overvaluing the pound to oblige our creditors.

"At a time when Germany has been piling up surpluses and gold and dollars, we have been lurching from one currency crisis to another. This hasn't been because of our relative rates of inflation, or growth, or competitiveness. It is because their money has been undervalued while ours has been overvalued.

"The national totem of the dollar parity of the pound sterling was defaced last November by devaluation," Powell said. "It must be demolished. The pound must be tied to the market. Attempting to keep it stuck to anything else requires sacrifices, particularly by the ordinary people.

"We must say to the world: 'Value the pound yourselves. It's not worth more than you're willing to pay for it.' This means the price at which demand to sell sterling and buy other currencies balances demand to buy sterling and sell other currences. It goes for Britons and foreigners alike."

This illustrated not only Powell's distrust of overwhelming socialistic central planning but also his dedication to the personal freedom that he believes is implicit only in the free market.

The consequences of this planning have been disastrous, Powell concludes. But the fault that is really the leftist government's has been shifted to the ordinary people.

"They have been argued into a guilt complex in which they are ready to let themselves be told that they are feckless, do not work hard enough, do not save and invest enough, imagine that the rest of the country owes them a living, and are no match for the other Western nations," he said.

"In this process, we have gone low down in the league tables. The world's rating, which preceded our own understanding, saw us as a nation with a split personality.

"The people are frustrated. There has been a disappearance of self-confidence — once, possibly we had a bit too much of this quality. Now we have reached a point beyond letting other people walk over us, a point of flagellation.

"That the world's diagnosis of our schizophrenia was correct must not be allowed to hide an incorrect assessment too broadly held," Powell said.

"This, in the most violent injustice, confuses the character of the people with the situation into which they have been thrust.

"Now, as the first step in liberating ourselves from living spellbound by surroundings that have ceased to exist, we must ask ourselves: What sort of people do we think we are?

"No matter how unflattering the image we see in the mirror, we must recognize the truth," Powell said. "I have accepted as my job the smashing of distortions.

"I am saying to the British people: Stand on your own feet and look other nations in the face. Throw away your socialist crutches. You can do for yourselves better than the government can do for you. What is government, to be trusted more than you trust yourselves?

"You should be free to get the best price you can for your labor, or your goods, or your produce."

To Powell, there is nothing wrong with the British that the truth can't furnish the basis for correcting.

Saucy Signs Showing U.S. Disenchantment

* * *

By THOMAS FOLEY
Los Angeles Times

ST. LOUIS — Never before have political signs, a standard part of campaign trivia, been so imaginative, saucy and interesting as those of 1968.

In the past, campaign signs almost invariably were mass-produced and favorable to the candidate. But this year it may be a measure of the disaffection abroad and in the land that there are almost as many signs against a candidate as for him. And they are obviously homemade.

* * *

By their very nature, the "anti" signs are the most imaginative, the most impertinent and the most interesting.

Nixon's The One, for example, is the basic pro-Nixon sign, and one sees it everywhere when the GOP candidate is in town.

But in St. Louis, a supporter of Hubert Humphrey had a variation, Nixon's The Wrong One. On Wall Street, another had scrawled Humphrey's The Better One, and in Chicago it was Nixon's The One And Agnew's Another.

* * *

Still another variation had it Rosemary's Baby — Nixon's The One. And a variation of this popped up in the George Wallace campaign, Wallace Is Rosemary's Baby.

Beat On Drums, Not Heads and Vietnam, Chicago; The Politics Of Joy, said two signs greeting Humphrey in St. Louis.

An obviously pregnant woman was seen carrying a sign during the Indiana primary that said McCarthy Is The Dominant Gene.

* * *

Sometimes, the signs take an intellectual turn, one student showed up at a Nixon rally in Hartford, Conn., with a sign that said Nixon-Agnew; Kafka Lives.

A student next to him held one that said God's The One. When he put that down, he raised another that declared Nixon-Agnew; Neuroses American.

Outside were two that said The Fascist Gun in the West and Nixon Is A Polack — Spiro T. Agnew. Another, referring to the engagement of Nixon's daughter Julie to David Eisenhower, said Dave And Julie — Made In Heaven; Dick and Spiro — Made In Japan.

Another in Hartford, referring to Agnew, said: Why Rob Maryland Of Its Mediocrity?

* * *

When Nixon toured Long Island, two signs said Nixon-Agnew Is A Social Disease and No Milhous In The White House.

Humphrey ran into several "anti" signs in Detroit, two of which said Happiness Is Dumping The Hump and, in a reference to the vice-president's advocacy of President Johnson's policies, Don't Trade The Ventriloquist For The Dummy.

* * *

However, not all of the signs that Humphrey has seen are unfavorable. In St. Louis, several signs appeared acknowledging that the bearers were supporters of McCarthy and now were for Humphrey. They said, Gene's Gone, It's Up to You.

Some signs are quite direct. Nixon Is A Fake read one in Erie. Wallace Is A Racist S.O.B. declared a sign when the third-party candidate appeared in Milwaukee.

The Wallace campaign has found a number of imaginative signs.

In Almagordo, N.M., a high school youth held up a sign that read, Forget The Bomb, Drop The LeMay.

* * *

Wallace For President — What A Riot and Hitler Is Alive And Running For President greet Wallace at nearly every stop. If you liked Hitler, You'll Love Wallace is also popular.

A sign in a Philadelphia suburb exhorted Nixon, Do It Like You Did In '60, Dick. Another said, Nixon And Harold Stassen — Keep Trying.

But the epitome of the signs and possibly of the campaign itself showed up in St. Louis. One voter held up a huge sign that bore the single word, No.

Humphrey Getting McCarthy Support

From UPI

The Washington correspondent of The Times of London said Friday Sen. Eugene McCarthy told him he will announce his formal support for Hubert Humphrey's Presidential candidacy next Wednesday.

"He apparently believes that Mr. Humphrey would make an adequate president; that, in spite of his prolixity, he is capable of defining issues and making decisions," Times correspondent Louis Heren wrote.

"Late, but certainly better late than never, the Democratic Party will go to the polls more or less united," Heren wrote. "The senator remains unenthusiastic about the vice-president's candidacy but has finally decided that he cannot avoid making a choice.

"I gather that Mr. McCarthy delayed his own decision because he was not certain how it would be receeived by his followers. He is still not certain but hopes that they will understand the necessity of his choice."

Clifford on Missiles:

Soviets Narrow Gap U.S. Still Superior

From Wire Reports

Defence Secretary Clark Clifford acknowledged in Washington Friday that the Soviet Union has narrowed the nuclear missile gap but claimed "we have today a substantial military superiority over the Soviet Union."

He replied to charges by Republican presidential candidate Richard Nixon that Democratic administrations Democratic administrations had created a "security gap" by following what Nixon called a doctrine of arms parity.

Clifford read to a news conference previously secret figures showing the Soviet Union now has 900 intercontinental ballistic missiles. This is 154 fewer than the U.S. arsenal and a Soviet increase of 180 since a year ago.

* * *

At the same time, Clifford said the Soviet Union has 75 to 80 submarine-launched nuclear missiles compared with 656 U.S. Polaris submarine missiles.

Although the Soviet total is still far behind the American forces, the Soviet Union has more than doubled its sub-launched missiles in the last year, he said.

But Clifford contended the real test of relative U.S.-Soviet nuclear power lies in the number of nuclear weapons that can be delivered on target.

* * *

In this area, he said, the United States outstrips the Soviet Union 4,206 to approximately 1,200.

Clifford said it is too early to attach special significance to the reduced scale of fighting in South Vietnam.

He said the U.S. knows 30,000 to 40,000 North Vietnamese troops have moved out of South Vietnam. Some have gone to Laos, others to North Vietnam.

But some 80,000 North Vietnamese troops still remain in the South, he said.

* * *

Clifford also said he has ordered the navy to push ahead with development of a super-quiet submarine, an expensive project favored by the navy but which lower Pentagon officials nearly killed last July.

Clifford's order came after a new study of the project and after both top navy officials and senior congressional leaders demanded that the silent submarine project be continued.

Existence of the silent submarine project was disclosed last July 2 when plans of the Pentagon's research and development staff to terminate the program as an economy move came to light.

On July 3 Clifford said a final decision had not been made. A new series of studies was then ordered to see if the quiet submarine should be built as the navy strenuously advocated.

The submarine had first been authorized by Congress a year earlier. Of $125,000,000 authorized, $50,000,000 had already been obligated.

Both types would use nuclear power. But the silent submarine, with an electric turbine drive instead of the usual gear type, would have features of various types aimed not so much at increasing underwater speed as at cutting underwater noise, hence decreasing the possibility of detection by other submarines or surface anti-submarine ships.

Russia is known to be pursuing development of both types of submarines — super-quiet and advanced high-speed.

Johnson Politicking With War? Nixon Can't See It

From UPI

Richard Nixon said Friday he had been told President Johnson was trying to achieve a pre-election break in the deadlock over Vietnam in a "cynical, last-minute" bid to salvage the candidacy of Hubert Humphrey. He said he did not believe it.

The Republican presidential candidate said he was convinced Johnson was above playing politics with the war.

Nixon publicly aired the rumor in a written statement handed to newsmen here shortly before noon Friday. It was his latest response to week-long reports that Johnson was about to order a total halt in the U.S. bombing of North Vietnam.

* * *

"In the last 36 hours I have been advised of a flurry of meetings in the White House and elsewhere on Vietnam," the statement said. "I am told that top officials in the administration have been driving very hard for an agreement on a bombing halt, accompanied possibly by a ceasefire, in the immediate future. I have since learned these reports are true.

"I am told also that this spurt of activity is a cynical, last-minute attempt by President Johnson to salvage the candidacy for Mr. Humphrey. This I do not believe.

"This latest suggestion of presidential politicking with the Vietnam war is but one of many similar rumors and press speculation in recent weeks. I think it is only appropriate, therefore, to reiterate statements on this subject that I have repeatedly made in this campaign.

* * *

"At no time in the campaign have I found the president anything but impartial and candid in his dealings with the major presidential contenders about Vietnam. I know this has not been easy for him. Beginning long before the Republican convention in early August, influential elements within and outside his party have subjected him to intense pressure to contrive what he has aptly described as fake peace. It is to his credit that he has withstood these pressures."

Observer Sees No Quick End

Christmas in Nigeria

From CP

Maj.-Gen. William Milroy, Canada's observer in the Nigerian civil war, said Friday he does not expect to be home for Christmas.

His remark, made during a brief stop in London before flying to the federal Nigerian capital of Lagos, appeared to confirm opinion in other quarters that despite the overwhelming strength of the federal forces, there is no likelihood of a quick end to the war.

Except for a few days in Ottawa, where he testified before a parliamentary committee, Milroy, a native of Brownlee, Sask., has been in the field since mid-September.

Milroy's position in Nigeria, where he is one of a team of observers from Britain, Poland, Sweden, the United Nations and the Organization for African Unity, is that of a person invited by the federal Nigerian government. He has not seen the situation from the secessionist Biafran side.

He reiterated that neither he nor other observers had found any evidence of deliberate genocide or massacre on the part of federal troops. He said the observers had been in the general battle area, mostly at divisional, brigade and battalion headquarters and in civilian centres where fighting had previously taken place.

He said he found that the federal forces had a system for feeding, transporting and caring for displaced persons and that this system was working. He found no evidence of deliberate attempts to exterminate the Ibo tribal members.

All liquor stores will be closed on Christmas Day, Boxing and New Year's Days, but will be open as usual Friday and Saturday, Dec. 27 and 28.

Postal Bill Altered For Third Reading

OTTAWA (CP) — The Commons virtually completed passage Friday of the post office bill after wrangling all week over the move to raise postal rates.

Members finally put the bill clause by clause through committee stage, their approval extending to a government amendment to space out increases in postage charges for newspapers and other periodicals—a prime issue in the drawn-out debate.

THREE STAGES

The amendment affecting publications will introduce increases in rates in three stages —April 1, 1969, Oct. 1, 1969, and April 1, 1970.

The biggest increase would come first, with two smaller, equal raises at six-month intervals.

The amendment introduced by Solicitor-General George McIlraith during clause-by-clause study of the bill preceding final reading, retains the full amounts of the increases proposed in the bill's original draft but spreads out the impact as promised Thursday by Postmaster-General Eric Kierans.

ALL PAPERS

For all daily newspapers—a category to include papers published twice or three times a week—the rate for non-advertising matter rises to four cents a pound next April 1, to 4½ cents Oct. 1 and by another one-half cent to the full five cents the following April 1.

For the advertising portion of dailies, the rate goes to nine cents a pound April 1, to 12 cents Oct. 1 and finally to 15 cents six months later.

Present rates for dailies with circulations of 10,000 or more are 2½ cents a pound for the non-advertising portion and four cents for the advertising part.

Thus the smaller dailies face bigger increases, because they will be subject to the heavier rates for the advertising portion for the first time.

The increases in the non-advertising-portion rates are 1½ cents a pound to four cents next April 1. Two one-half-cent increases follow Oct. 1 and the following April 1 to reach the full five-cent rate.

Advertising-portion rates for the bigger papers move up by five cents a pound to nine cents in the first stage, then by three cents a pound in each successive stage to the full 15 cents.

The dailies with circulations of less than 10,000, now paying 2½ cents a pound on the advertising portion, face a jump of 7½ cents a pound on that portion next April 1, then the two three-cent boosts.

For weekly newspapers, which now pay between 1½ and three cents a pound depending on the nature and circulation of the publication, the heaviest increase also comes next April 1 —by one to 2½ cents to four cents a pound. Two half-cent boosts at subsequent six-month intervals brings the rate to the full five cents a pound.

Worker Output Higher

OTTAWA (CP) — The Dominion Bureau of Statistics issued new productivity figures Friday showing Canada's output per worker across the broad field of commercial industry improved more last year than originally reported.

The new figures, however, show poorer performance in manufacturing.

The revised productivity figures are indexes of output per person employed and output per man-hour worked, based on 1961 performance equalling 100. The previous figures were based on 1949.

The move to a 1961 base for the DBS indexes is in line with the bureau's policy of periodically bringing its major statistics in line with more up-to-date standards.

The new figures, on a 1961 base, show output per man-hour rose nine-tenths of 1 per cent to 124.4 from 123.3.

Three Tournaments Close Chess Year

By RAY KERR

Although the chess Olympiad in Switzerland is keeping Pacific Northwest chess enthusiasts well occupied, they're still keeping their eyes open for tournaments in their own back yard.

And there are three good ones coming up next month.

During the Nov. 9-10 Remembrance Day weekend, there are the Klamath Falls open in Oregon and the Spokane open in Washington.

ENTRY FEE

The Klamath Falls event will be held at Winema motor hotel, with registrations accepted until 9:30 a.m. Nov. 9. Entry fee is $5.50, with three rounds Nov. 9 and two the following day.

The Spokane tournament is a similar five-round affair, to be played at Carnation Hostess House. Registrations close at 10 a.m. Nov. 9, with a $5 entry fee.

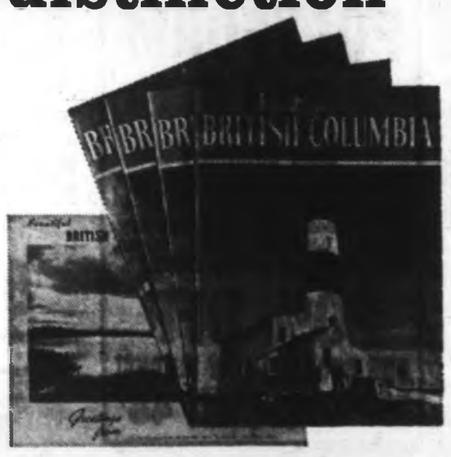

Perhaps the best of the three is the Northwest open, scheduled for Seattle Nov. 29 and 30 and Dec. 1.

This one will be played in the spacious surroundings of Seattle Chess Club, 35th and Freemont, with registrations closing at 7:30 p.m. Nov. 29 and the first round following afterward.

There's a $6 entry fee, but information about inexpensive accommodation can be obtained from tournament director Sally Swedine, 4299 12th N.E., Seattle, Wash. 98105.

The three tournaments will close the Northwest chess season for 1968, with the next big event being Washington open in Seattle Jan. 4 and 5.

New York Apprehensive

Strikes Menace Vote

NEW YORK (UPI) — New York City election officials said Friday they were powerless against the labor strikes threatening election day chaos which could affect the choice of the nation's 37th president.

"We don't know what we will do," elections commissioner Thomas Mallee said following an emergency meeting of the city's board of elections.

The threat to an orderly election in this city of 3,500,000 voters was posed by a teacher strike which has shut down schools used as polling places and a work slowdown by police seeking higher pay.

Commissioner Maurice O'Rourke said a teacher picket line outside the polls would open the way for court challenges of the election by every loser.

Losers could protest on grounds that persons who normally would have voted for them could not because they did not want to cross the picket lines. O'Rourke said voters have a "constitutional right" not to cross picket lines as well as the right to vote.

Mallee said earlier it was "a possibility but not a probability" that the election might be delayed. He said it also was "a possibility" that the national guard might be called in to transport voting records and guard the polls in place of police.

Plant Planned

GENEVA (UPI)—Dow Chemical (Europe) has announced plans to build a $100,000,000 complex to manufacture chlorine-caustic chemicals at Stade, west of Hamburg.

Kamloops Given 48-Hour Notice

KAMLOOPS (CP)—The Canadian Union of Public Employees served 48-hour strike notice on the city Friday after voting 112 to 48 in favor of strike action to support wage demands.

Bill Ferguson, president of the Kamloops local, said a strike could be averted if a meeting can be arranged between union executives and Mayor Peter Wing.

The local will meet today to discuss further moves.

CUPE members in Vernon and Kelowna have already struck in their dispute with the 13-member Okanagan - Mainline Municipal Association which is trying to negotiate a master contract with the CUPE locals.

The Vernon strike has continued for a month and the Kelowna walkout of 150 workers began Thursday.

The strike was called after both sides refused to accept each other's suggestions for a method of resuming negotiations at a meeting Wednesday in Vernon.

Civic and CUPE officials in Kelowna said Friday there appeared to be no break in the strike. Both sides said there were no immediate plans to return to the bargaining table.

Supervisory personnel continued to operate key city hall departments but city employees in family and magistrate's court were at work as were city employed guards at RCMP headquarters.

Teamster Warns Builders

HARRISON HOT SPRINGS (CP) — Ed Lawson, Teamsters Union regional president, Friday warned British Columbia contractors that unions will continue to enjoy and exploit management's weakness in the building industry.

Speaking to the annual meeting of the Amalgamated Construction Association of B.C., he said he could see no valid reason why there could not be a single set of labor negotiations for the entire building industry.

"If you organized your construction jobs on the same basis as your labor relations, you'd be bankrupt sooner than you're going to be," he said.

He also said he could see no reason why a single set of fringe benefits should not prevail.

"When you give a particular fringe benefit to one union be prepared to give it to all unions sooner or later."

De Gaulle Tries Encouraging Turkey

ANKARA (AP) — President de Gaulle came to Turkey on Friday for a five-day visit in which he is expected to try to exert French influence on the key NATO country.

"Understanding Turkey's wish for independence and importance in a key area of the world," the French president told an airport crowd, "we are ready to bring our policy closer to Turkey's."

Officials estimated 100,000 persons lined the streets of the capital to see de Gaulle pass in a motorcade.

De Gaulle is the first French head of state ever to visit Turkey, where influence of France was supreme before the First World War.

Turkish President Cevdet Sunay in his first speech for his visitor said Turkey had always joined the West in its efforts toward an East-West detente.

However, in a reference to the invasion of Czechoslovakia, Sunay said it "showed it is still early to be completely optimistic."

Once one of the Soviet Union's fiercest traditional enemies, Turkey is undergoing a change of attitude, dramatized by visits of Soviet leaders and closer Turk-Soviet economic links.

At the same time the once close regard for the United States seems to be diminishing in Turkey. Many Turks accuse the U.S. of favoring Greece over Cyprus.

★ ★ ★

King Fisherman Awards Follow Big Coho Month

The Daily Colonist King Fisherman Contest saw a fantastic total of 7,627 coho entered for the month of September. That compares with 4,088 coho from May to the end of August and is almost double the first four months combined.

This beats the run of 5,204 pinks in August, 1967.

Mrs. Mary Rawnsley, special events co-ordinator from the T. Eaton Co., made the September draw from a total of 9,278 entries of which 964 were women.

★ ★ ★

The T. Eaton Co. donates a special monthly scrip for women as well as an Elizabeth Arden fitted cosmetic case as a contest-long hiddenweight prize for a lady angler and a three-horsepower Viking outboard motor for the Colonist subscriber with the heaviest coho.

Rawnsley

Mrs. R. Duncan, 1019 Wollaston, has won the Eaton $10 scrip for the month of September with a 6.0-pound coho from Pedder Bay.

B.C. Stocks Make A Strong Showing

VANCOUVER — Industrials and mines were strong in active trading. Calico Silver and Copper Ridge each added .14 to .92 and 1.17 respectively. North American Rare up .20 at .99 was another big winner. Also higher were Kimberly, Magnum, and Northlode. Coast Silver dipped .14.

Strong among industrials were the Doman issues with preferred at 17, comon at 12 and warrants at 7¾. EDP rallied to 23¼ for a gain of 1¼, and Fields was up ¾ at a new high of 18. Capital Estates added .50 at 4.00. Block, Cunningham and Mac-Millan were other strong spots.

Oils Fare Best

TORONTO (CP)—Western oils and base metals posted firm gains although industrial prices were mixed.

Bow Valley fell 1⅞ to 23⅛, Fleetwood 1½ to 20½, Canada Bread 1¼ to 16⅞, Neon Products 1 to 33 and Imperial Oil ⅜ to 78⅞.

Two life insurance stocks recovered from the budget plunge. Imperial Life gained 9 to 165 and Great West Life 3½ to 70½.

BA Oil closed unchanged at 47½ after touching 48½ and Royalite jumped 5 to 26 on a proposed amalgamation scheme with BA.

Montreal Weakens

MONTREAL (CP)—The overall price trend moved moderately lower.

CPR dropped 1⅛ to 70⅞, Fleetwood 1 to 20½ and Wajax 1 to 29. Radio Engineering and Levy added 1 each to 43½ and 33½ respectively.

Canadian Breweries, the most active industrial, lost ⅜ to 9⅝.

In mines, Denison dropped 1½ to 73½ with Hudson Bay Mining posting a similar loss to 71½. Noranda lost ⅜ to 56⅞ and Cominco ⅛ to 32⅛.

Texaco edged up ⅛ to 34, B-A ½ to 47½ and Husky ¼ to 26¼. Union lost 1 to 50 and Imperial ⅛ to 78⅞.

Late Spurt for Peace

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market once more showed its sensitivity to the idea of peace in Vietnam and spurted late in the session to come out with a pretty fair gain. Trading was active.

Despite the higher market, nine of the 15 most-active stocks were losers, five were winners, and Texas Utilities closed unchanged at 54⅛.

The most-active stock was Imperial Corp. of America, a savings-and-loan holding company, which traded on successive blocks of 374,100 and 20,000 shares at 15⅛. The stock closed at 16, up ⅝, on total volume of 425,700 shares.

Brewing Nuptials Go Up in Smoke

The nuptial ceremonies they will have to be content between Rothmans of Pal Mall of Canada and Canadian Breweries have been cancelled. Now with a long-arm relationship. An official announcement from Rothmans Friday said it had abandoned its plans to buy additional shares in Canadian Breweries and to operate the brewing and cigarettes businesses as one.

The original plan was a complex one that would have involved the purchase of part of the Canadian Breweries outstanding shares in exchange for a new convertible preferred offering of Rothmans.

FEW DAYS

Opposition to the move came from shareholders of Canadian Breweries, and within the last few days boards of the two companies have met to consider alternatives.

Rothmans announcement indicates that the two boards had failed to agree.

Despite this Rothmans will continue to hold its 2,400,000 common shares of Canadian Breweries purchased last June from Argus Corp. This represents 11 per cent of the outstanding shares.

NEW POST

It is also assumed that John Devlin, president of Rothmans, will continue in his new post as chairman of Canadian Breweries and that Rothmans nominees will remain on the board of directors.

The depth at which the two firms will work together, however, has not been disclosed.

Rothmans plan to acquire more than 50 per cent of Canadian Breweries stock so that it might have full control, and enable it to bring into Canbrew's sales operations the verve and aggressiveness that has stood Rothmans in such good stead in recent years.

BA — NO LONGER

The old and honored name of British-American is to disappear out of the oil business.

Not that the company does not like the British tag, but it explains with some care that as it is controlled by Gulf Oil (owners of 69 per cent of B-A stock), it is a market advantage that the company's brands should have the same names both in Canada and the U.S.

B-A Oil will become Gulf Oil Canada, despite what the minority shareholders may think about the Americanization.

Also the new Gulf Canada will completely submerge its two subsidiaries Royalite Oil, of which it owns 98 per cent, and Shawinigan Chemical, of which it is the sole shareholder.

To relieve nostalgic pains of its Canadian shareholders, B.A. is going to offer a two-for-one stock split and an increased rate of dividend to 15 cents a quarter on the new, a rate that compares with 12½ cents on the old.

BONDS GO WELL

Consolidated Bathurst, a leading eastern pulp and paper maker, has marketed to insitutions $10,000,000 serials, and has offered to the public $15,000,000 8-per-cent 25-year debentures at 99. With each $1,000 debenture are 15 warrants entitling the holder to purchase Consolidated-Bathurst common shares at $10 for a period of 10 years.

Present market value of Consolidated Bathurst is $17.

Hellyer:

Superport Meeting Experiment

VANCOUVER (CP) — Transport Minister Paul Hellyer emerged from a meeting with officials concerned with the Roberts Bank port development project Friday and described it as "an experiment in improving communications."

He said he hoped the meeting, attended by National Harbors Board officials, area members of parliament and members of the Vancouver Port Development Committee would assist in setting federal policy toward the project, 20 miles south of Vancouver.

FIRST PHASE

At the same time, he said the first phase of a government study of Canada's port development should be completed by December.

The study, to determine the best method of port management, would hopefully be turned over to a parliamentary committee.

Mr. Hellyer, here to officially open Vancouver International Airport's new passenger terminal, said there are several bodies involved in the administration of Canada's ports, and the study was concerned with finding out if "there is one form of port administration which is substantially better than others."

But Fewer Houses

Upswing Registered In Mortgage Field

OTTAWA (CP) — There was an unusual upsurge in mortage lending activity for new housing last month, but the actual number of houses and apartments on which construction started was down, Central Mortgage and Housing Corp. reported Friday.

The crown-owned housing agency said applications in September to private financial institutions for loans under the National Housing Act covered 14,127 houses and apartments, more than 16 times the number for September last year.

URBAN WORK

But the number of new housing units actually started in urban centres of 10,000 population and more, in September, was 11,602, down 13.9 per cent from September, 1967.

These construction starts in September represented an annual rate of 155,200, compared with 185,700 in August.

CMHC said all types of lenders, including the chartered banks, were busy last month handling loan applications.

NINE MONTHS

The number of housing units covered by applications in the first nine months of this year rose to 48,548 from 21,294 in the same period last year.

Nearly all the September applications were approved in September, bringing the number granted in nine months to 48,875, up 137.9 per cent from the corresponding figure in 1967.

In addition to these figures, applications for direct CMHC mortgage loans, supporting the private market, totalled 6,053 to the end of September. This was down 81.5 per cent from last year.

MOST FUNDS

CMHC this year has been limiting its direct lending for private house construction, in order to put most of its funds into public housing. Starting Oct. 1, however, more direct CMHC loans were to be made for merchant builders.

The upsurge in mortgage-lending activity is expected to be reflected in more actual construction work this winter.

CMHC reported that the average interest rate charged by the private lenders on NHA-guaranteed mortages was 8.71 per cent in September.

New Effort Urged In Housing

VANCOUVER (CP) — Transport Minister Paul Hellyer said Friday more research is needed into Canada's housing problems.

The minister, who was assigned the job of inquiring into the country's housing problems, said the investigation is exploring the unknown.

"We're learning something new, and the most important thing is how little we really know about the subject," said Mr. Hellyer.

"What is emerging is the fact that this problem is one which hasn't been examined in depth.

"I think we're going to conclude that a tremendous increase in research in this field would be a good investment for Canadians."

Elaine Wins Second Medal Hutton in 1500-Metre Final

MEXICO CITY (CP) — Canadian swimmer Elaine Tanner grabbed another Olympic silver medal Friday night, finishing behind United States rival Lillian (Pokey) Watson in the women's 200-metre backstroke.

Miss Tanner was off in front and held the lead through two of the four laps, but could not match Miss Watson's burst of speed in the last 50 metres.

Roland Matthes of East Germany won a close race over two Americans in the men's 200-metre backstroke to become the first European male swimmer ever to capture two races in the same Olympics. He won the 100-metre backstroke earlier.

Miss Tanner, a 17-year-old Vancouver native now living in Winnipeg, was the victim of an upset earlier this week in the women's 100-metre backstroke when she finished second.

But her two silver medals, plus one by Ralph Hutton of Campbell River, in the men's 400-metre freestyle, constitute the finest Olympic performance by a Canadian swimming team in 56 years.

Canada had a triple gold medallist in 1912, when freestyler George Hodgson of Montreal won three races.

WON IN 2:24.8

Miss Watson won the 200-metre backstroke, a new Olympic event for women, in 2:24.8. Miss Tanner was clocked in 2:27.4 considerably off the 2:24.5 she recorded in winning the event in the Pan-American Games in Winnipeg last year.

Kaye Hall of the U.S., winner of the 100-metre backstroke, was third in the longer race in 2:28.9.

KIND OF GOOFED

"I guess I kind of goofed," Elaine said after the race.

"I think I swam a better race than in the 100. I don't know. I'm happy with both medals.

"I tried to go out sort of easy, then pick it up on the next leg. I guess I kind of goofed."

"I felt the pressure more and although I did my best, it wasn't good enough."

She said poor techniques on her turns cost her precious distance against Miss Watson, who was able to propel herself well out into the pool on each turn.

Miss Watson called her victory an "accident." She figured Karen Muir of South Africa, whose country was barred from the Olympics because of its racial-segregation policy, would have won the event if she had been here.

TOPPED RECORD

Matthes took the men's 200-metre backstroke in 2:09.6, beating the Olympic mark of 2:10.3 posted by 1964 winner Jed Graef of the U.S.

Mitchell Ivey of the U.S. was second in 2:10.5, Jack Horsley of the U.S. third in 2:10.9.

The United States raised its total of gold medals to 20 in swimming and diving when Claudia Kolb breezed home the winner in the women's 400-metre individual medley.

PREVENTS U.S. SWEEP

Miss Kolb was timed in 5:08.5. Lynn Vidalo of the U.S. was second in 5:22.0. Sabine Steinbach of East Germany prevented a U.S. sweep by touching ahead of Sue Pedersen in 5:25.3.

Klaus Dibiasi of Italy put on a brilliant performance in the men's platform diving competition to wrest the lead from Mexico's Alvaro Gaxiola.

With seven dives completed, Dibiasi heads into tonight's final three dives with 108.04 points. Gaxiola has 103.33. Keith Russell of the U.S. 101.38.

HUTTON QUALIFIES

Ralph Hutton was the only other Canadian swimmer to advance in Friday's heats. Although he lost his 1500-metre freestyle heat to Mike Burton of the U.S. by a wide margin, he was second in 17:35.9 and qualified easily for Saturday's final.

Burton took an early lead and coasted home ahead of Hutton in 17:27.2. Hutton had no trouble holding second place over Hans Fassnacht of West Germany, third in 17:40.2.

Graham White of Australia and Mexico's Guillermo Echevarria staged a furious duel in the fastests heat of the 1500-metre freestyle. White won by a touch in 17:10.1, while Echevarria was caught in 17:11.0.

Hutton was sixth fastest among the eighth qualifiers in the 1500 metres, longest Olympic swimming event. To be in the best shape for it, he stayed out of the 200-metre backstroke Friday, an event in which he won the gold medal at the Pan-American Games in Winnipeg last year.

PROVES SUPERIORITY

She won gold medals in the long horse vault and the uneven bars, to go with the gold medal for individual all-around honors that she captured earlier and also won the silver meal in the balanced beam and shared a gold in floor exercises with Russia's Larissa Petrick.

Her four gold and one silver medal make her tops in the Games. Debbie Meyer, U.S. swimmer, is runnerup with three golds.

GOLD FOR RUSSIA

Ivan Kizimov gave Russia its first gold medal in the equestrian events by winning the individual dressage.

West German millionaire Josef Neckermann and Reinert Klinke, also of West Germany, won the silver and bronze medals, respectively.

INEXPERIENCE SHOWS

On the Olympic canoe course, Chris Hook of Dartmouth, N.S., fought a valiant battle as he held the lead in the Canadian singles event for half the 1,000-metre distance. But his inexperience in top-flight world competition showed as he faded badly and fell to ninth and last place.

Tibor Tatal of Hungary, whom Hook had tabbed as the man to beat, won the event. Detlef Lewe of West Germany was second, and Vitaly Galkov of Russia, whom Hook had beaten in the heats, finished third.

U.S. Retains Basketball Supremacy

MEXICO CITY (CP) — The United States won the Olympic basketball gold medal Friday night, defeating a Cinderella Yugoslavian team, 65-50, and keeping its record intact of never having lost an Olympic basketball contest.

It was the 75th consecutive victory for the U.S., but this time the Russians, who were dumped in the semi-finals by the surprising Yugoslavian team, were not the opponents for the first time in four Olympics.

The Russians won a bronze medal in an earlier match Friday night by defeating Brazil 70-53.

Bulgarian wrestler Hristo Traikov was thrown out of the Greco-Roman wrestling competition for breathing smelling salts from his towel during a bout with David Hazewinkel of U.S. "You know it is not allowed to eat, drink or even breathe stimulants during these games," a Swedish doctor said.

IT BEATS ME

By Jim Tang

Staged in buildings and arenas probably more magnificent than any in the history of the event, another Olympic Games comes to an end tomorrow proving again the Games command more world-wide interest than any other sports event and that they are something less than they should be.

The Mexicans did a great job of providing facilities and hospitality, and the unmatched record-setting in the rarified Mexico City air testified eloquently to the increasing physical prowess of the human race, but the 1968 Games were still beset with the problems of Olympiads throughout history.

Born in antiquity—some say as far back as 1453 BC—and banned in 392 AD, the Games were revived in 1896 through the efforts of a young French baron named Pierre de Coubertin.

Baron de Coubertin had this dream that revival of the Games would bring a better understanding among men of all nations. Seventy-two years later it's still a dream. Every Olympiad opens and closes with two of the most inspiring ceremonies of any kind but in between every one has been marked by political turmoils and personal frustrations.

This one has been little different from the others. We have had the Black Power demonstration on the victory stand by U.S. athletes and open evidence of support from some athletes of other nations. There has been the spectacle of Mexican fans booing their soccer team because it failed in its quest for a medal. A field hockey team was yanked out of a game because of a decision as one of many protests over officiating which continues to be often so bad that it staggers the imagination.

And Canadians continue to writhe at the lack of gold medals as if winning one would prove that they belong in the human race but a couple of silvers means only that they are stone-age residents of the nuclear age.

* * *

Just as familiar are the charges of professionalism. This time we have the alleged payoffs made by equipment manufacturers to athletes for using their products. Some say it may become the biggest scandal in Olympic history, but it is really no more than another good argument that it is well past the time that it should be realized that the amateur athletic code has outlived its time.

In this material age the line between amateurism and professionalism has long since been erased. What it boils down to in many sports is that a professional is an honest athlete and an amateur is a dishonest athlete who doesn't pay income tax on what his athletic ability brings him and retains the amateur label which to some is still a status thing.

No longer holding water is the old argument that money corrupts in sport, that athletic values become all out of proportion when commercialism creeps into a sport and that there is something finer about an athlete playing a game, or running and jumping, for love of his sport than an athlete who openly competes for money.

It's so much nonsense. Professional baseball, for instance, hasn't had a scandal in 50 years to compare with the one brewing in Mexico City. Is a Johnny Unitas less of a person drawing $100,000 or so a season from Baltimore Colts than a college football star getting his tuition, books and board paid and driving around in a new convertible with pocket money he didn't earn while his school extracts hundreds of thousands of dollars from fans who come out to see him play?

* * *

The outmoded amateur code, as Charles Maher of the Los Angeles Times points out, is also discriminatory.

"The argument that a young man should participate in sports for the sheer love of it strikes me as being absurdly discriminatory," Maher writes.

"A boy born with exceptional musical talent may start cutting records when he's 15 years old. He doesn't do it for sheer enjoyment. He does it for money. And who complains? A boy born with dramatic ability may start making pictures at the age of five and accumulate a fortune before he gets out of high school. Does anybody suggest he ought to be arrested?"

Musicians, actors and athletes all perform before paying audiences. Why, Maher asks, when it comes to money should an athlete, among all the people born with special gifts, be forbidden to use his talents to make money.

"The rule that makes this so is unreal. And when you have an unreal rule you've got a real problem." Maher concludes.

The amateur code is unreal today, and for the Avery Brundages, the Russians and the others who insist on it from reasons ranging from fuddy-duddy thinking to plain politics, it was unreal 2,000 years or more ago.

The expression "Olympic Games" was put into use as early as 776 BC. For a long time, sports-historian Frank Menke says in his Encyclopedia of Sports, they were conducted in reasonably amicable fashion but discord crept in some time before the birth of Christ when the Greeks charged that the Roman champions had capitalized on their fame by going on tours and accepting cash.

Matters continued to simmer for some time but when the Romans, angered at the Greek charges of professionalism, set fire to buildings used to house athletes and wrecked about everything that was wreckable in the stadium during an Olympiad, Emperor Theodosius of Rome decreed that the Games be abolished after the 392 AD event.

That ended an uninterrupted span of 1100 years, and it took almost 1500 years before the Games were revived. There is a message there, and it says that if the Olympic Games are to continue as the greatest spectacle in sport that no athlete should be barred for reasons to do with a cloudy definition of amateurism.

All Four Teams Tied for Lead

	P	W	L	T	F	A	Pts
QOR	3	1	1	1	9	8	3
Stockers	3	1	1	1	5	4	3
Butler Bros	3	1	1	1	8	8	3
Vikings	3	1	1	1	8	10	3

Next games: Friday — Queen's Own Rifles vs. Victoria Cougars (exhibition) at 7:45; Butler Brothers vs. Stockers at 9:15.

Balance is one thing the Vancouver Island Hockey League appears to have this season.

Two games at Esquimalt Municipal Centre last night perpetuated the four-team tie for first place as Stockers played to a 2-2 tie with Queen's Own Rifles and Butler Brothers and University of Victoria Vikings shared eight goals in a game which erupted into some interesting action for the 1385 fans in the second period.

Pet O'Kopfki and Ivan McPhee scored for QOR in the first game and Sandy George and Ken Walz, whose unassisted effort early in the third period was the 2-2 goal, scored for Stockers.

HEADS COMEBACK

Ray Gregoire led a comeback for Butlers just as it appeared that they were in for a sound trouncing.

After first-period goals by Carl Naso and Paul Bion and a scoring shot by Terry Foreman early in the second period had given Vikings a 3-0 lead, Gregoire brought Butlers back even within 55 seconds of playing time.

He scored at 8:30, set up Frank Colburn for a goal at 9:10 and then tied it at 9:25.

Gregoire's first goal and his last actually came several minutes apart, being interrupted by a spirited fracas which seemed to start when Butlers' Ed Hastings skated over to get a new stick after Gregoire's first goal.

TRAINER, COACH OUSTED

All of a sudden, Hastings was involved in some lively action in front of the UVic bench. When officials finally got things settled down, they imposed a major penalty on Hastings, gave Vikings a bench minor and sent Viking-trainer Fraser East packing with a game misconduct for getting into the fight and also handed Butler-coach Bill Schvetz a game misconduct for stepping onto the ice.

Foreman got his second goal before the period ended to put Vikings ahead but Walt Evanchiew produced the tying goal in the third period.

Dick Tiger Wins Brawl

NEW YORK (AP) — Aging Dick Tiger survived two early knockdowns and then came back to win by unanimous decision a two-man war that was billed as a 10-round light heavyweight fight with Frank DePaula Friday night.

A Madison Square Garden crowd of 13,301 was continuously on its feet as each fighter hit the deck twice in the first four rounds.

Montreal Canadiens, forced to play their first eight games away from home but having that balanced by playing most of them against the expansion division, took the lead in the National Hockey League's Eastern Division last night by defeating Oakland Seals, 4-2.

It was the fifth victory in six games for the unbeaten Canadiens, who are now one point ahead of Chicago Black Hawks. Canadiens have four wins and a tie against Western Division clubs, defeated Boston Bruins in the only game they have played against more-established opposition.

Canadiens did it the simple way last night, striking for three goals in less than two minutes on the way to taking a 4-0 lead in the first period.

They sort of eased in from there, holding on without undue trouble as Rogatien Vachon allowed a second-period goal by Joe Szura and a third-period power-play goal by Ted Hampson.

Jean Beliveau again led the Montreal attack, setting up Serge Savard for the first goal and then scoring the 4-0 goal as triggerman on a power play.

Next games: Tonight — Vernon at Penticton; Kelowna at Victoria.

Penticton Broncos scored three unanswered goals in the third period Friday at Vernon for a 5-4 win over Vernon Essos, their fifth straight win in the B.C. Junior Hockey League. The victory put Broncos alone in first place.

Kelowna and Kamloops fought to a 2-2 tie at Kelowna to remain tied for third place.

Ken Conner scored two goals and assisted on one by Ed Hayes to pace the Broncos who also got goals from Pat Laughton and Red Cherenko. Jack Marsh with two, Larry Quechuk and Bill Tarnow scored for Vernon.

Marv Ferg and Bill Bannatyne scored for Kamloops while Butch Deadmarsh, who later drew a game misconduct, and Cliff McKay scored for Kelowna.

Phoenix	6	3	2	1	18	19	7
Seattle	7	3	3	2	14	15	6

Former NHLer Andy Bathgate scored two goals and assisted on the third Friday night to lead Vancouver Canucks to a 3-2 win over Denver Spurs in Western Hockey League action at Vancouver.

John Gofton, who assisted on both of Bathgate's goals, scored his sixth goal of the season to give Canucks a 1-0 lead in the first period and Bathgate made it 2-0 in the second period before Roger Picard scored for Denver. Bathgate built Vancouver's lead at 3-1 early in the third period and the best Denver efforts to rally could produce only a goal by John Schella.

TIP-IN FOR TIE

Bruce Carmichael tipped in Willie O'Ree's slap shot with less than two minutes remaining to earn San Diego a 4-4 tie with the Roadrunners at Phoenix

Dave Richardson, Al Nicholson and Fred Hilts were the other San Diego scorers, while Bob Kabel, Dick Lamoureaux, Bob Charlebois and Tom McVie scored for Phoenix.

Defection by Popular Czech Stars 'Unthinkable'

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Mexican wedding bells ring Saturday for Vera Caslavska, Olympic queen of gymnastics, and Josef Odlozil, silver medallist in the 1,500 metres four years ago in Tokyo, but the honeymoon must wait for the two Czechoslovaks.

"We must show the people at home that our hearts are with them," said Miss Caslavska, 26, who repeated as the all-around women's gymnastics champion of the Olympic Games.

"We will return to Prague next Monday and then maybe on the following Monday we will have our honeymoon."

"Yes, perhaps, somewhere in Europe," said the prospective groom. "Perhaps in Italy or on the French coast where it is warm."

SENT HOME QUICKLY

Czechoslovak team members, 124 in number, are being dispatched back to their homeland as soon as their competitions are completed. The track team already has left.

The purpose, the Czechoslovaks say, is to show the Soviet Union's occupying forces that the backbone of the little nation is still like iron.

"Every Czech athlete will be in Prague by the night of Oct. 29," said the delegation's chef de mission, Oldrich Hradec. "Defections? They are unthinkable.

MATINEE IDOLS

"There is no compulsion on the government's part—we have no strongarm secret police with us. This is an act of free will. All of our athletes are anxious to get home to prove their love for their country and their determination to make it free."

The Czechoslovaks have been the matinee idols of these 19th Olympic Games—cheered wildly by the Mexicans and the international galleries in every venue. The cheers became thunderous when the Czechoslovaks were pitted against the Russians.

OPPOSITION BOOED

The first occasion was in the opening-day parade when the salute to the red-and-blue clad athletes from behind the Iron Curtain matched in volume the cheers for host Mexico.

Early in the Games, the Czechoslovak women's volleyball team met the heavily favored Russians and every Czechoslovak scorer was cheered by the crowd of 7,500. The Russians won, three sets to one, and were booed.

The Russian coach, visibly upset, later told repoters his players were not bothered by the reaction. "They are mature," he said.

SHOOK THE POOL

The Olympic swimming pool shook from the ovation given Milena Dickhova, 16, who won the gold medal in women's platform diving by overtaking Russia's Natalia Labanova and America's Ann Peterson.

"It was wonderful to hear so many cheers," said Milena. "I felt the cheers were for my country. I was inspired."

SAME FOR GYMNAST

The same ear-splitting ovation carried over to the auditorium where Miss Caslavska tied up in a gripping gold medal duel with two talented Russians, Zinaida Voronina and Natalia Kuchinskaya.

The walls trembled when Miss Caslavska won, with Miss Voronina second and Miss Kuchinskaya third. The Russians won the ladies' team title.

"We were not psychologically ready for the Olympics, we could not train for two weeks," Miss Caslavska said, referring to the Russian invasion. "Our nerves suffered."

But Vera's nerves quickly were restored by the warm support from the Mexican gallery.

"The reception was wonderful," she said. "I felt I was lifted off the ground and could perform with ease, defying all gravity."

	P	W	L	D	F	A	Pts
Mount View	11	10	1	0	39	10	20
Claremont	11	9	2	0	40	12	18
Victoria	11	8	2	1	38	13	17

Oak Bay	12	2	8	2	10	33	6
Mt. Douglas	11	2	6	3	15	34	7

Final games: Monday—Mount View at Victoria; Belmont vs. Mt. Douglas at Carnarvon Park; Esquimalt vs. Claremont (site unknown).

Odds that Victoria can qualify for the Colonist Cup playoff shortened yesterday when Claremont did the expected and trounced winless Belmont, 6-1, to hold its one-point edge over third-place Victoria in the Senior Inter-High School Soccer League.

Tyees, who kept their chances alive with a hard-fought 3-2 win over Esquimalt Dockers, need to defeat leading Mount View in the final matches on Monday and have Esquimalt defeat Claremont.

However it ends, the Colonist Cup match will be played at Centennial Stadium next Friday starting at 2:30 with the winning team earning the right to carry on in the quest for the provincial title.

Tyees got quite a tussle from Dockers yesterday, barely making a 3-1 first-half lead stand up.

Bruce Twamley, on an indirect free kick, gave Esquimalt the lead but Jan Bentley led Victoria back by scoring the tying and go-ahead goals and then setting up Barry Moen for what was to be the winning goal.

Esquimalt pressed hard in the second half but could get no more than the goal Leroy Williams booted in five minutes from time.

In yesterday's other game, Mt. Douglas moved ahead of their opponents into fifth place by blanking Oak Bay, 3-0. Charlie Dilba scored a goal in each half with Gary Linford sandwiching a second-half scoring shot.

Injuries Plague Oak Bay

Injuries could spell the difference in playoff positions as the Vancouver Island Juvenile Football league comes down to the last two weeks of play.

Oak Bay Farmer Construction, needing a win to keep their playoff hopes alive, will be without first string quarterback Terry Karpiuk, halfbacks Dan Wallis and Jim Blades and possibly Ray Ginniver, because of injuries when they play Mustangs Sunday. Lee Doney will replace Karpiuk. Game time, at Carnarvon Park, is 2 p.m.

Builder Plans $20,000 Turbine Car

LOS ANGELES (Reuters) — Racing car builder Andy Granatelli Thursday announced plans to market a custom-built, turbine-powered passenger car.

Granatelli, president of the STP division of the Studebaker Corp., said his firm has no intention of mass-producing a turbine car.

Granatelli said the cars will cost about $20,000.

Kathy in Lead

CONROE, Tex. (AP)—Kathy Whitworth shot a four-under-par 67 Friday to lead opening play in the $12,500 first annual River Plantation women's golf tournament. Sandra Post of Oakville, Ont., had a 73.

Dickson Nine-Under-Par

Rookie Pro in Lead

COSTA MESA, Calif. (AP) — Rookie professional Bob Dickson, an amateur champion in 1967, fashioned a sparkling six-under-par 65 Friday to take a two-stroke lead at the midway point of the $110,000 Haig National open golf tournament.

The strapping 24-year-old Dickson, from Tulsa, Okla., the first man to win both the U.S. and British Amateur titles in the same year since the late Lawson Little did it in 1935, turned in a 34-31—65 round for a 36-hole score of 133.

NINE UNDER PAR

This was nine under par for the distance in play at the Mesa Verde County Club, 6,650 yards and par 36-35—71.

Tied at 135 were Australian Bruce Crampton, 70; Bill Collins and young Dick Rhyan Jr., each with a 66.

Favored Billy Casper, with his second straight 68, was at 136 in a group that included Chi Chi Rodriguez, 69; Ken Still, 65; George Knudson of Toronto, 66, and Dean Beman, who led the field with a 64 in the first round and shot a 72 Friday.

Dudley Wysong, Al Geiberger, Dave Gumlia and Crampton began with first round 65s. Wysong and Geiberger each shot 72 for 137, and Gumlia 71 for 136.

STILL CARDS 65

Beman, in contrast to his Thursday 33-31—64, played 37-35—72, while Still, the lanky pro from Tacoma, Wash., bagged four straight birdies and went on to his 31-34—65.

Al Balding of Toronto was far down the list with 72-68—140.

Scores of 143 and under qualified—99 in all—for the final two rounds. This was in line with the new PGA regulation that permits players within 10 strokes of the leader to play the last 36 holes.

Course Record Set For Jack Nicklaus

PERTH, Australia (AP) — Jack Nicklaus of the United States, collecting eight birdies and an eagle, fired a course-record 64 Friday and pulled into a tie for the lead in the Australian open golf championship with a 36-hole total of 135.

While Nicklaus moved into a tie with Australia's Billy Dunk, who added a four-under 68 to his previous 67, Arnold Palmer of the U.S. fell into a tie with Kel Nagle of Australia for fifth place Palmer had 69-70—139 and Nagle 67-72—139.

Nicklaus' eight-under-par round broke the course record of 65 by Peter Thomson of Australia. Nicklaus went out in 33, and came back in 31.

Trailing the two leaders were Gary Player of South Africa, 67-69—136, and Ted Ball of Australia at 70-67—137.

Decision Riles Fight Manager

ROME (AP) — Italy's Sandro Mazzinghi retained his world junior middleweight boxing title Friday night in a "no contest" decision against U.S. challenger Freddie Little that left Little's manager screaming—"international scandal."

"I am going to protest this to every boxing board in the world," said Joe Klerman, Little's manager.

"I could not do otherwise," said Tomser, the sole judge in the fight before a shouting Italian crowd of 15,000.

The Associated Press had the fight 7-1 for Little, a wiry 32-year-old who knocked down the taller Mazinghi for a bloody nose and a quick count in the fifth round and kept up steady jabs to the Italian's jaw and forehead.

Badminton Stars Play Here Today

A few first-round matches were played Friday night but main action is slated today and Sunday in the 13th annual Invitational Badminton Tournament at the Victoria Racquet Club.

Designated by the Canadian Badminton Association as a "must" for western Canadian players seeking berths on the national Uber Cup team, the tournament has drawn several highly-ranked performers.

Former Victorians, Sharon Whittaker and Alison Daysmith, currently No. 1 and No. 2 in Canada, five-time Canadian men's champion, Wayne Macdonnell, present open champion Bruce Rollick, and Canadian junior doubles champions Barbara Nash and Jane Dubord are among those entered.

Finals will be played Sunday.

Disappointed Coach Says Matches Thrown

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Charges that Olympic freestyle wrestling matches were "thrown" has been made by a disappointed and disenchanted Tom Evans, head coach of the U.S. freestyle wrestling squad.

"Countries — but I won't name them — threw matches to each other. Coaches were making deals in the third round to take care of each other in different weight classes."

Evans, a silver medallist for the U.S. in the 1952 Olympics and fifth-place finisher in 1956 in the lightweight class, said he was never involved in any deals with other coaches, nor was he ever approached. "This is not sour grapes, because freestyle wrestling is wrapped up," Evans said.

For the third time in the last four Olympics, the United States failed to produce a single winner in the eight weight divisions in freestyle wrestling.

Evans charged the wrestlers have "outsmarted" the rules. He said a general re-evaluation and overhaul of Olympic and world amateur wrestling is needed before the 1970 world championships in Edmonton.

"It got so bad there at one stage that I saw a wrestler who was on the bottom pat the man on top on the back," Evans said. "The guy on top then put his arm back and the man on the bottom simply reached around, tossed him over and pinned him. That was a most obvious fix."

but when it comes to museums...

Mexico is the sun, shining endlessly on the golden-sugar sands of Acapulco, bursting pink hibiscus into bloom, turning huge avocados plump and green — burning memories into your mind of a winter holiday you'll never forget. Yet never far away are the joys of Mexico's other treasures, its archaeological discoveries, its magnificent art, its vibrant capital city, with its new Museum of Anthropology, considered without peer in the world today. The sun waits for you now in Mexico, shining as brightly on its perfect beaches as on the cathedral towers of its beautiful colonial towns. Life is going by so quickly. Isn't this your year for Mexico?
TOUR PACKAGES

Tips You Off

SAN FRANCISCO — The "off-season" with lower rates has just about disappeared from the world's resorts. But from now until Christmas they are less crowded.

I called a friend in Honolulu who said: "Rooms are OK on all the islands and at Waikiki up to Christmas and New Year's."

The Virgin Islands: "All right now. But we expect the tourist rush to be heavy early in December."

Air fares to Europe are down for the winter. Icelandic Airlines, for instance, will fly you round trip New York-Europe for $215.

"Would Christmas be a good time for two single, working girls to go to Hawaii?"

The holidays are swingy times at Waikiki. (Not so much in the Outer Islands.) Plenty of tourists. You might read a new paperback, Bachelor's Hawaii, $2. Supposed to be a bachelor's guide to the islands, but reads like a survival course for girl visitors.

"Any advice you could give us on how to dress at Christmas time in Mexico City?"

This is a modern world capital, and you dress as you would in any big city. Cocktail dresses for evening. Dark suits for men. (I never see dinner jackets.) Women should carry a scarf to wear when you sight-see in the old churches. (If you forget, a man's handkerchief will do. It's the token covering that counts.)

You need a coat for nights. It turns chilly. Days are usually in the 60s. But Mexico City gets several day cold snaps. The temperature goes down to freezing, miserable 30s.

I just get out of town. Go one hour down to Cuernavaca into spring until the weather gets better in the capital. Which it will in three to five days.

"Another girl and I will be 18 and ready for college next summer. Our parents think this is too young to go to Europe alone. They read you and would be impressed with what you say . . ."

Europe was absolutely jammed with young tourists when I was there this summer. (I don't know the exact ages. Everybody under 25 looks 18 to me.) A lot of them were on tours that didn't seem to tie them down too much. And I think you both would have more fun this way.

There's a completely new tourist route opening up. Where we used to exchange our small, good hotels and restaurants, this young crowd finds new good, rock-bottom places. The informal exchange goes on at sidewalk cafes.

A good book for you: Where the Fun Is, from Pan American World Airways. Travel in Europe, Hawaii and the Caribbean written by 28 students who made the trips. Full of information I never heard of. And wish I had.

Easiest is from the travel desk in any of the big tourist hotels. The seats you want are the shady side (sombra) and halfway up (premer tendido). The front row (barrera) is too close to the killing. Starts at 4 p.m. Ends about 6. Take an overcoat. The afternoon begins warm and turns cold.

An usher shows you to your seat and rents you a cushion — two pesos last time I was there, probably five now. Take the cushion. Those stone seats are hard and cold.

If you wait until the end — the sixth bull — cabs will be hard to get. Leave after the fifth bull, and you've got it made.

LSD Case Heard Soon

An 18-year-old youth charged on two counts of possessing LSD was remanded until Monday when he pleaded not guilty Friday before Magistrate William Ostler in Central Magistrate's Court.

Ronald Weir, charged with possessing LSD in Oak Bay and Victoria, is listed as living in a Gorge Road motel.

Crown counsel Cory Stolte asked for adjournment because "the substance hasn't been analysed yet." Magistrate Ostler said, "It makes me wonder about the basis for the charge."

This year's crop has been described as "terrific" by one local grower and shipments to Ontario, Quebec and the Maritimes is expected to exceed last year's mark of more than 100,000 pounds. Cutting begins in mid-November on Vancouver Island's 10 acres of holly farms where the climate is ideal.

A Freedom Bus will go into action in the Victoria area at 10 a.m. today.

The van, belonging to the Norman Bethune Club, has signs calling for an end to the Vietnam war and U.S. investment in Canada. It will tour downtown Victoria selling and distributing literature.

An advocate of student takeover of university campuses will address the University of Victoria's political forum in the Student Union Building at 12:30 p.m. Monday. Mark Rudd led last year's student revolt at New York's Columbia University and is leader of Students for a Democratic Society.

□

The intermediate section of the junior branch of the Victoria Natural History Society will meet at 1:30 p.m. today at Douglas and Hillside. Members will go to Francis Park where Ted Underhill of the B.C. Parks Branch will give a slide show on things to do in parks.

□

Alan Kallberg, 3174 Rutledge, has won a silver medal for highest standing in B.C. intermediate examinations conducted by the Canadian Institute of Chartered Accountants.

Now, P&O offers two scenic routes to the Orient.

1. Sail on Canberra to Japan and Hong Kong and dine with chopsticks on succulent Kobe beef. Everything's arranged and everything's included on P&O's Far East in the Spring Sea/Air Holiday.

Take P&O's 35-day, fully escorted Orient holiday this February and you sail the short, scenic route to Hong Kong. Call at Honolulu, Yokohama, Kobe, and Nagasaki. Soak up sun and sea breezes while Canberra's crew of 800 spoils you with service.

You leave Canberra in Hong Kong. After four days in this bargain hunter's heaven, fly to Taipei, Formosa's friendly capital. See Ami Tribal dances. Explore the serene countryside. Then fly to Osaka for a 9-day tour of Japan. You visit the Hall of 1001 Buddhas, Nijo Cast'e, the Gold Pavilion. Watch Pearl Island's divers harvest their crop. And ride the Bullet Train past Mt. Fuji before you jet home on Japan Air Lines.

P&O's price includes the works. Ship trip with all meals aboard, air fares, all land arrangements, and escorts to smooth every step. First Class starts at $1592, Tourist $1321 (U.S. dollars). Canberra sails from Vancouver February 20.

You can take a short, 2-week ship trip to Japan and make your own arrangements. The price, including all meals aboard, from $653 First Class, $364 Tourist (U.S. dollars).

2. Or sail on Oriana via the summer-warmed world "down under". See koalas, or whatever you like. Make your own plans on P&O's longer, even more scenic route.

This winter P&O's great white liner sails the long scenic route to Hong Kong in four lazy weeks. On the way you stop in Honolulu. Sample Fiji's easy life. Have time to browse Auckland's quaint shops and spend four days in bustling Sydney.

Oriana sails from Vancouver January 19. Including all meals on board, First Class starts at $1285, Tourist $680 (U.S. dollars). Good accommodations are still available.

See your travel agent for arrangements. Or mail the coupon.

Orient Special! Passengers boarding Oriana or Canberra in Vancouver will have time to explore two of California's great cities—San Francisco and Los Angeles—before sailing on to Hawaii.

NEW WESTMINSTER (CP) — A family of three convicted earlier this year of counselling to have their house burned down won the right to a new trial when their lawyer told the B.C. Court of Appeal he wanted to introduce new evidence.

Richard Madison, his wife Ann and their daughter Shirley were found guilty earlier when evidence showed Madison had offered a used car as a reward to the arsonists, who were given jail terms and fines.

Death Wish Granted To Husband Killer

STOKE, England — An inquest jury ruled the deaths of Mr. and Mrs. Eric MacKenzie as murder and natural death after hearing a detective testify Mrs. MacKenzie told him:

"I killed him. I hit him with a hammer. We had a tiff. I am a murderer. I want to die."

Mrs. MacKenzie, 69, hit her husband more than 100 times on the head with the hammer. Six days later, she died in hospital from natural causes.

Picasso Out as Usual On 87th Birthday

CANNES, France (UPI) — Pablo Diego Jose Francisco de Paula Juan Nepomuceno Crispin Crispiniano de la Santisima Trinidad Ruiz Picasso observed his 87th birthday Friday as he usually does. By trying to forget it.

The artist the world knows as Pablo Picasso lives in seclusion in a Riviera villa behind locked gates. As on past birthdays, newsmen were simply told Picasso was out.

Picasso spends his days painting — sometimes as many as four pictures at the same time. He has already produced more than 10,000 paintings and 5,000 etchings and lithographs.

Henry Moore Gift

Canada May Get Sculptures

MUCH HADHAM, England (CP)—Sculptor Henry Moore, 70, said Friday that "if things work out properly it may happen that I shall give my work" to an art centre in Canada.

"It's only a suggestion yet," said Moore, who would not confirm one report that such a donation might go to Toronto.

"It's all only preliminary as far as I know" he added.

The sculptor, whose rounded works in the modernist manner are known throughout the world, said that any possible contribution of his work to Canada or elsewhere would in no way effect his plans for a bequest of sculpture to the Tate Gallery here.

Moore said that any further comment about a possible gift to Canada would have to come from the Canadian side.

"But whatever may be afoot with Canada," he told a reporter," please tell the public that Mr. Moore has confirmed that his original intention of leaving an important body of his work to the Tate still stands."

Bond Rides Ancient Lines

By BILL THOMAS

Believe it or not, James Bond in buckskin! Agent 007 with a 30-30 surrounded by Indians.

This is a massive technicolor epic starring Sean Connery and Brigitte Bardot. It also has Jack Hawkins, Stephen Boyd and Honor Blackman in the supporting spots.

This is a jewel of a film. It has all the ingredients that go with the traditional Western epic. The dialogue is also familiar to those who like this type of fare.

There is the traditional scene where the fleeing whites are encamped and the heroine, naturally the former sex kitten Bardot, stumbles over the rough, tough cowboy who is rescuing her party, James Bond or rather Connery, and they clinch after she utters the immortal line, "I couldn't sleep."

By now any gourmet of the popcorn circuit will have assumed the film ends with the couple riding off into the sunset. This film has a twist ending. The couple trots off into the breaking dawn.

To be fair, Shalako is a good western. It has action, predictable action, but it does move along at a good clip. Sean Connery does the duel to death thing with the Indian chief's son but spares him at the last minute.

The chief then decrees "there has been too much blood." It's that kind of film. All the characters who look like they will not make journey's end in the first reel are killed off in short order by bullet, speer or arrow.

There was only one omission—at no point in the film did the cavalry come riding over the hill to rescue the crowd.

Shalako is not great art but it certainly is great fun.

Driver Tests Compulsory?

VANCOUVER (CP)—A report prepared by the British Columbia Safety Council urges psychological tests and a defensive driving course be made compulsory for every holder of a driver's licence in B.C. The report was sent to R. A. Hadfield, superintendent of motor vehicles.

Youth Section Filled With Avid Readers

By A. H. MURPHY

Many young Victorians are finding that the youth section of the public library is not such a "square" place as they thought, according to a report prepared for the information of the library board.

The past year has brought an upsurge in use, according to the section head, Mrs. Margaret Toakley.

And, in the opinion of Librarian John Lort, a service has been developed for secondary school students which is superior to that provided by any other library in the Pacific Northwest.

"Voracious readers have their own methods of selecting books," states Mrs. Toakley's report.

"One boy is simply working his way, shelf by shelf, around the department. Another aims to read all the books written by one writer while still another wants to read everything written since the Second World War."

New Canadians from several countries are making good use of the library as are dropouts, sickly students and pregnant girls. With help from the library staff, these young people are educating themselves by correspondence courses.

One deaf boy who lagged behind in school has been able to catch up with his classmates with the assistance of an individual reading program.

A book entitled Allergy was snapped up by a Chinese boy "who regularly wheezes in — a chronic asthma sufferer."

"Your Handicap — Don't Let it Handicap You," was just as speedily borrowed by a girl with a polio-withered arm.

SPECIAL EFFORT

Mrs. Toakley's report said slow readers are given help and a special effort is made to find something to interest them.

Some headway is being made with "reluctant readers" and back issues of sports and mechanical magazines are directed their way. From these they graduate to more sophisticated reading and often to books.

WIDE VARIETY

"With the trend toward more independent study in the school system there is a need for a wide variety of background material relating to the school curriculum, the report stated.

Books on health and personality development, sex education, careers, social problems, integration and race issues are in wide demand.

MODERN NOVELS

"There is a definite trend in modern novels for teenagers toward the problems which many young people themselves have to face — divorced parents, the alcoholic father, the retarded child in the family, teen marriages, the unwed mother and family conflict.

"Comments made by youngsters about this type of book indicate that they fill a real need, give reassurance and often solve problems," the report stated.

IDOLS NEEDED

Although young people were "very realistic today," Mrs. Toakley added, they still needed idols to worship and examples to follow and they were not so advanced that they ignored books about Tom Dooley, Roger Arnett, Helen Keller, Karen (who had cerebral palsy), John Kennedy and Ann Frank.

As one young woman said after reading the biography of El Cordobes, the Spanish bullfighter:

"He is so wonderful, I cried."

Campbell's Budget Warning:

Long-Term Loans Harder

Municipalities across Canada will find it tougher to obtain long-term debenture loans for essential works like sewers as a result of the federal budget, Municipal Affairs Minister Campbell said Friday.

B.C. local governments are expected to feel the effects of the budget, but they won't be so hard hit, the minister said, due to the fact the province can finance some schools and hospitals out of its own pension funds.

Mr. Campbell said on his return from the annual round of meetings between municipal affairs officials and financial institutions in Toronto and Montreal that Finance Minister Benson's budget last Tuesday "left Bay Street and St. James St. in tears up to everybody's armpits."

Those most seriously affected represented the long-term debenture bond market, he said. Because of the "incredible" federal deficit of $675,000,000 and comments by Mr. Benson, financial circles in Canada which deal in long-term financing have "the sword of Damocles hanging over their head."

The deficit alone is enough to have a depressing effect on the bond market, Mr. Campbell said.

This bad effect will undoubtedly be worsened as a result of uncertainty arising from Mr. Benson's budget. Mr. Campbell said financial institutions won't be anxious to issue long term debentures at 8 per cent when they feel they might get 9 per cent or higher 18 months from now.

"An individual cannot live outside his income and neither can a government," the minister said.

Denturists, Minister Meet

Welfare Minister Dan Campbell said Friday he will meet with the Public Denturists of British Columbia Nov. 18 to discuss their request for the right to serve welfare recipients.

But he said there was no connection between the talk and a current withdrawal by dentists of all but emergency services for welfare patients as a result of a fee dispute with the government.

The minister refused to endorse comments of L. E. Lewis, president of the denturists, who said the 100 licensed dental mechanics in B.C. could provide denture sets cheaper and better than dentists who he accused of rendering "second class" service to welfare patients.

"I don't agree that dentists give second-class service," Mr. Campbell said. "At the moment they're just not giving service but I'm not linking that at all to the Nov. 18 talks which we had scheduled anyway."

LSD Trafficking Law

U.S. Police Given Weapon

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Johnson signed into law Friday a stiff measure designed to outlaw traffic in LSD and similar mind-bending drugs.

The bill makes it illegal to manufacture, sell or distribute LSD or similar drugs with the penalty for conviction being a felony — punishable with prison sentences up to five years and a $10,000 fine. Illegal possession of the drug would be a misdemeanor carrying a maximum penalty of one year in prison and $1,000 fine.

"All Americans interested in effective law enforcement will take satisfaction at this needed bill," Johnson said in a statement.

"It is measures like this — and not talk about crime — that strengthen the hand of our police and give our families protection."

Johnson said the new law should "put the drug peddler in jail." But, Johnson added, "to put him and his kind permanently out of business we need the active support and understanding of every adult and young citizen of the nation."

For a first offender, it gives a judge discretionary power to order treatment and eventually to wipe the user's record clean.

For manufacturing, selling or distributing dangerous drugs, the bill sets penalties of up to five years in prison and $10,000 for first and later offences. However, where a sale is made to a minor, penalties can go as high as 10 years and $15,000 for a first offence and rise to 15 years and $20,000 for additional offences.

Writhing, Clawing Hippies Rescued

TORONTO (CP) — Six young persons, one a girl, were taken to hospital early Friday after taking an asthma drug at a party. Two were in critical condition.

Hospital attendants used restraining straps as the six writhed and clawed at needles being used to inject counter-agents to the drug stramonium.

The patients were identified to police as Gerald N. Sharon, 20, of Atlanta, Ga.; Jack Heath, 20, of Columbia, S.C.; and four others of unkown address: Ralph Thompson, 18; Margaret Krizman, 17; Ronald Craig, 20; and Elvis Meiners, 18.

Police, told by other residents of a hippie rooming house that the party was out of hand, arrived to find one youth unconscious, another swatting imaginary flies on the wall and the rest "babbling like idiots."

Three were in convulsions when taken to hospital.

Stramonium, available in crystals at drugstores without a prescription, is harmless when burned and inhaled by asthma sufferers, but potentially lethal when mixed with water and swallowed.

Police said it produced a "high" effect similar to hallucinatory drugs like LSD. Its use is not illegal.

Violinist Aids Charity

Violinist Jacqueline Terry, with Robin Wood at the piano, will be featured at a concert in aid of United Church Women's charity projects at 8 p.m. Nov. 13.

Also featured will be the woodwind and brass ensembles of Mount View high school band; Dawn Benoit, soprano; Jack Baines, tenor, and the Sanctuary Choir conducted by Frank Tupman.

The concert will be held in Metropolitan United Church.

International Counts

Drug Companies Indicted in U.S.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A U.S. federal grand jury Friday indicted 15 companies and eight of their executives on criminal charges stemming from an alleged international conspiracy involving quinine and related drugs.

Named were 12 foreign companies and three U.S. manufacturers. The American firms are Rexall Drug and Chemical Co., Meade, Johnson and Co., and R. W. Greeff and Co., of New York City.

The companies are accused of three violations of the Sherman anti-trust act involving restraint of trade and monopolization, violation of the Wilson tariff act, and conspiracy to defraud the government in the purchase of quinine from federal stockpiles.

Six Dutch and three West German firms were among the foreign companies indicted.

Named co-conspirators were S. S. T. Corp., New York City; Walker Chemicals Inc., Mt. Huisking and Co., New York City.

The companies are accused of engaging in an unlawful conspiracy in unreasonable restraint of both foreign and interstate trade. The indictment says it started about 10 years ago and continued until at least the summer of 1966.

They all were accused of conspiracy to fix, stabilize and raise the bulk prices of quinine, quinidine and other Cinchona products to allocate territorial markets for their sale and to establish sales quotas.

Sermon of Season

Hundreds Aid Handicapped

By REV. TONY ROBERTS

Somebody in The Colonist other day was asking the question, "Why don't they preach it the way it is?"

I am glad to write about the way it is in Victoria at this particular time of the year.

Every day — and all the day long — a man, a woman, a child fights his way back to health assisted by the skilful and warm-hearted ministrations of doctors and nurses, and — blood supplied by the citizens of this community through the agency of the Red Cross.

That is the way it is. People who want to be where the action is (I think that is one of the slogans of some of our young people) give both blood and money to save lives.

If you are not motivated to give because of the claims of humanity upon you, perhaps you may respond to the warning that the life you save may, as a matter of fact, well be your own.

★ ★ ★

There are some great little boys and girls in Victoria. As a matter of fact there are thousands of them.

Every day you can see them running, jumping, playing, going to school, and doing all the wonderful things there are to do in a place as beautiful and well-favored as Victoria.

But there are a few you seldom see. They don't run, they don't jump, they don't walk, and some of them don't even crawl.

Every day a few professional and many volunteer workers take over for a few hours from their harassed parents and through patient effort teach them to do a few things that give them pleasure and bring a little joy into their otherwise dreary lives.

And the people of Victoria, the ones, that is, with a heart, give each year through the United Appeal to make it possible.

But there are some who never see the sun rising out of the straits and setting upon the mountains, or the gardens which are the envy of people who come from the furthest ends of the continent to see them. There are some who have never seen the smile upon the face of a sweetheart or a loved child. These are the blind.

But if they can't see with their eyes they can be taught to see and even to read with their hands. If they can't drive a car at least they can be taken for a ride in the country to feel the beauty of it all.

And most of all they can gather in their own club and recreation rooms to enjoy the company of those who are similarly handicapped.

That's the way it is. And the people of this community make it possible through the Canadian National Institute for the Blind.

There are literally dozens of ways by which this community is made a better place to live. The sick are visited and ministered to, the handicapped are helped, the troubled are aided, and direction and beauty are brought into the lives of young and old alike.

That is the way it is, that is the way it has to be in every community. The handicapped few are helped over the hurdles of life by the more — favored many.

So I say to you, take a great big bill, or an even bigger cheque, and wrap it in love and affection for that man who is fighting for his life on the operating table, for that little boy with the crooked back and the expectant smile, for that old lady who is waiting for the weekly visit of the VON nurse, wrap it up in all the love that is in you and give it to your United Red Feather-Red Cross canvasser.

Communion Edict Passed

AUGUSTA, Ga. (CP) — Canadian Anglican bishops meeting here Thursday granted permission for designated lay persons, men and women, to administer the bread and wine at holy communion.

The 35 bishops from the attending the meeting decided it should be the right of the bishop in each region of Canada to determine who would be allowed to administer the holy sacraments.

Some churchmen said they believe the step is unprecedented in the Anglican communion.

In the United States, licensed lay readers of the Episcopal Church may assist in administering the sacraments but these are not usually women. Lay persons can administer the chalice — the wine cup — but not the paten — the plate on which the wafer is served.

The decision was made at the close of a week-long joint meeting with bishops of the Episcopal Church in the United States — the first meeting of its kind.

RIGHT RECOGNIZED

The Episcopal bishops approved a resolution recognizing the right of a person to object to participating in a particular war "on grounds of conscience."

The resolution read:

"We bishops recognize the right of a man to object, on grounds of conscience, provided he has made every effort to know all of the relevant factors involved, to participation in a particular war, even though he may not embrace a position of pacifism to all war, and urge our government to enshrine such a right in the laws pertaining to Selective Service."

Nazarenes

Missionary Rally Speaker

A Nazarene missionary from Italy — Rev. Paul Wire — will be guest speaker at a missionary rally in First Church of the Nazarene, Quadra and Kings, at 7:30 p.m. Thursday. The Esquimalt church will participate in the event.

Mr. Wire has been field superintendent of missionary work in Italy for several years and is in Canada on furlough conducting deputation tours.

He will show slides and talk about his work in Italy.

AROUND WORLD

The Nazarenes support 537 missionaries and 2,823 national workers in 43 areas around the world. They operate four hospitals, 48 dispensaries, 36 Bible schools, 167 primary and secondary schools and six junior colleges and nurses and teacher training schools.

Its budget for four years is $30,000,000 spread among 450,000 members. Rev. William Bahian of the Victoria church said the two local churches will raise $5,000 for the budget.

Junior Choir Joins Recital

The monthly organ recital at St. Paul's Naval and Garrison Church will be given at 8 p.m. Wednesday by Herman Bergink. Featured at the recital will be St. Paul's junior choir under the direction of Gladys Pearcy, with Penelope Beaven, soprano, and Robyn Powell, flautist.

Hong Kong Teaching

Three Rs on Rooftops

The son and grandson of two local couples have been appointed to supervise rooftop schools in Hong Kong for the Conservative Baptist Foreign Mission Society of Wheaton, Ill.

David Harrison, son of Mr. and Mrs. Barnet Harrison, and grandson of Mr. and Mrs. James Miller of 2540 Blackwood, is a graduate of Prairie Bible Institute in Three Hills, Alta.

He is also a graduate of Seattle Pacific College and taught for the past four years in Port Angeles.

READING COURSE

During the past two months, Mr. Harrison studied remedial reading at Oregon State University under a fellowship.

Originally the space was used for recreation to keep children off the streets but the children preferred the streets because they were cooler.

SUNDAY USE

The Hong Kong government added facilities to counteract the heat and the rooftops were converted to schools. Eight of them are supervised by the Conservative Baptist Foreign Mission Society. They are used as chapels on Sundays for families in the buildings.

Mr. Harrison will also teach in the Hong Kong Baptist College, a Christian liberal arts school.

Mr. and Mrs. Harrison will take their children, Mary and Kathleen, with them when they travel to Hong Kong.

Mr. and Mrs. Harrison

Professor Becomes Priest

A chemistry professor at the University of Victoria will be ordained as a priest at a ceremony in St. Barnabas Anglican Church at 10:30 a.m. Friday. At the same time a lay reader will be ordained as a deacon.

Dr. Kenneth Moss of UVic, who was ordained deacon two years ago, will become the priest. He is attached to St. Barnabas Church.

Ian Macdonald, who will be in charge of Holy Trinity Church in Sooke and will be responsible for services at Port Renfrew and Jordan River, will be made a deacon. He was a lay reader at St. Michael's Royal Oak and has been studying at the Anglican Theological College in Vancouver.

Chicago Ghetto

Minister Witnessed 'Niggers and Cops'

A man who spent four days as a bum in the black ghetto of Chicago will be in Victoria the first week in November.

He is Rev. Donald Raffan, a United Church missionary in Brazil, who spent his furlough studying at Chicago's Urban Training Centre for Christian Mission and working at Christian Action Ministry, an ecumenical organization in the black ghetto.

Mr. Raffan says the new game in the alleys of the ghetto is niggers and cops.

FEAR, HATE

"Almost from the start, I sensed the growing hostility and frustration that has been building up in the black community, and a white racist reaction that unfortunately responded not in love and concern but in fear and hate."

Mr. Raffan will preach at 11 a.m. Nov. 3 in First United Church and at 7:30 p.m. in Fairfield United will address a rally for all Victoria churches.

Mr. Raffan is a native of Lindsay, Ont. His wife was born in Brazil and this is her first visit to Canada.

CHILDREN HELPED

She is a graduate of the University of Campinas where she specialized in work with mentally retarded children. In the mission field she serves as director of primary school and is active in the Sunday school and social action programs.

During their term in Brazil they have been stationed in Minas Gerais state, north of Rio de Janeiro, where Mr. Raffan has been doing evangelism and social projects in an industrial steel centre.

Stroll in the Park For Biafra Relief

Victoria's Salvation Army Sunday School is holding a walkathon in aid of Biafra refugees starting at 10 a.m. today from the world's second tallest totem pole in Beacon Hill Park.

Participants are being sponsored by parents and friends of the Sunday school members and all proceeds will be sent to the Canadian Council of Churches for Biafra.

Participants will begin anytime between 10 a.m. and 2 p.m. and all distances will be tallied and completed by 4 p.m.

Holdup, Two Deaths

Violent Chapter Ends in Prison

By DON COLLINS

A story that had its beginning in the violence of a holdup and two deaths 5½ months ago ended in an atmosphere of quiet concern here Friday when Peter Simpson, 22, was sentenced to five years in penitentiary.

The concern was expressed by Mr. Justice J. S. Aikins in B.C. Supreme Court as he imposed the term on the Toronto man for the May 10 holdup of Ernie's Fine Foods, 1616 Hillside.

He said he had given considerable thought to Simpson's claim that a penitentiary sentence would make rehabilitation difficult. But he was also deeply concerned with the seriousness of the crime and the need to protect society.

FOR THEFT

Simpson was also sentenced to 2½ years concurrent for theft of the car that was used in the $158 holdup.

Both terms will run concurrently with the 15-month sentence Simpson has been serving since Oct. 16 for criminal negligence. He pleaded guilty to the negligence charge which arose from the fatal crash in View Royal of the getaway car.

Two occupants of the car, Robert Rickward, 20, and Roger McEwan, 22, died soon after the crash. Simpson went to hospital with a broken ankle and head injuries.

"I've had enough — I don't want no more," Simpson said from the prisoner's box. "When you go look for a job and say you've got a penitentiary record the employer won't take a chance on it."

He asked the judge for consideration.

Simpson, who has a burglary record in Ontario, was convicted on the robbery and car theft charges earlier by a jury. He was appearing for sentence Friday, an act that took an hour and 40 minutes as Mr. Justice Aikins carefully weighed all arguments concerning punishment.

PROBATION MAN

He called two brief adjournments, one of them to summons probation officer Ronald van Wijk to clear up some points concerning a pre-sentence report.

Mr. Van Wijk spoke against a penitentiary term. "On the basis of calculated risk, this man perhaps deserves another chance at rehabilitation," he said.

He said there was a definite public reaction against men who have served time in penitentiaries as opposed to those who come out of provincial jails looking for a new life.

This aspect caused Mr. Justice Aikins "very great concern" and in passing sentence he told Simpson, "I hope very much you will be able to rehabilitate yourself."

During earlier discussion with crown and defence counsel about the nature of sentence, Mr. Justice Aikins said Simpson "seems to have graduated from theft to armed robbery."

"Now, there isn't anything more dangerous than that — or, perhaps, more cowardly. The public must be protected to some point."

Where to Vote On Hospitals

More than 31,000 owner electors in the Capital District's seven municipalities and seven electoral districts are eligible to vote today on the $9,300,000 regional hospital referendum.

Escaper Given Primary Wish

Concern for the woman in his life and the baby she is soon to have prompted a 22-year-old man to chop his way out of Wilkinson Road Jail with an axe, Central Magistrates Court was told Friday.

Evidence disclosed that Dean Windsor, alias Wayne Henry Plomp, slipped away from a work gang Wednesday and used an axe on the fence around the jail yard. He was captured two miles away.

IT'S FUTILE

Windsor pleaded guilty to escaping custody.

Noting that his record showed another escape from the jail at Haney, B.C. in 1967, Magistrate William Ostler said:

"Why don't you understand futility of such conduct, I don't know. If you attempt to escape each time you will just keep adding to your sentence."

Windsor said he was going to become a father next month and found fault with a penal system that would jail him on Vancouver Island when his loved ones are on the B.C. mainland. It was his understanding, he said, that convicts should be jailed as close to home as possible.

Told by the magitrate that escape was not the answer, he snapped:

"If I have to get over there my way, I will get over there my way."

Windsor, who asked for a penitentiary term, had his wish granted. The magistrate said he felt the young man would be better off in penitentiary and sentenced him to one year.

Windsor was serving a definite term at Wilkinson Jail that was to expire next January and an indefinite term that could run until April, 1970. His parole was revoked last April and he was convicted in July of being unlawfully at large and theft.

Subdivision Stopped by B.C.

Sidney First Island Victim Of Raw Sewage Barrier

By NANCY BROWN

The provincial health department has started to jam subdivision development on Vancouver Island until municipalities are ready to build sewage treatment facilities.

This became apparent Friday when it as learned that plans to extend water and sewage lines to a Sidney subdivision had been returned to the engineers.

The application from Willis, Cunliffe, Tait and Co. was the first to reach the department from Sidney since new provincial regulations came into force.

FIVE LOTS

The proposal was to sewer five lots on Henry Avenue, and copies of the refusal were sent to the Metropolitan Board of Health and to Sidney council.

The letter pointed out that the proposal would create an additional flow of raw sewage into the waters off British Columbia.

It added that approval for service to a limited number of lots would be given when the township has plans to supply sewage treatment within a reasonable length of time.

The letter was first confirmation of Wednesday's warning by Health Minister Ralph Loffmark that health department certificates for new sewer installations will not be issued unless municipalities provide satisfactory evidence of plans to construct and finance treatment plants.

Without the certificates, Mr. Loffmark said, building would come to a stop.

He told representatives of house building and real estate interests that he has to concern himself with health problems arising from discharge of raw sewage into the Fraser River and coastal waters and the installation of faulty septic tanks unloaded onto an unsuspecting public.

CUTOFF DATE

Mr. Loffmark said in cases where municipalites remained stubbornly opposed to sewage treatment consideration would be given only to specific applications for projects launched before new regulations came out Sept. 24.

The Sidney application was sent to the health department Oct. 17.

There have been problems with sewage in Sidney for some time and the township has been waiting for several weeks for a report on a survey of the northern municipalities sewage system.

Clocks Go Back

Clocks will be turned back one hour at 2 a.m. Sunday as British Columbia switches over to standard time for the winter months.

The end of daylight saving time, set by order in council, means one hour extra sleep Sunday and an earlier sunset. Daylight saving time has been in effect since April 28.

Retarded Day Care Next Year

As the first step in a co-ordination program in the treatment of the city's retarded, the Handicapped Children's Clinic will provide special day care for about 25 preschool youngsters early next year.

Mrs. Margaret McClung, clinic administrator, said Friday the children will be taken in and provided with special care and training as soon as the clinic's new building is ready for occupancy—probably in March.

With the influx of preschoolers the total being looked in the clinic will near 130.

Mrs. Winnifred Clark, executive director of the Retarded Children's Association, where the youngsters are being treated, confirmed the March transfer.

Warning Year Old

Why Surprise, Confusion?

B.C. municipalities should neither be surprised nor confused at the tough line which is being taken by the health department on sewage treatment, Municipal Affairs Minister Dan Campbell said Friday.

His own department in August 1967, the minister said, had sent a letter to every municipality in the province asking them to make an examination of local sewage treatment and pollution control programs.

"This, in effect, amounted to a suggestion that they get on with the job," Mr. Campbell said.

Last fall he followed up the letter with a speech to the Union of B.C. Municipalities convention which said local government should give top priority to the "concurrent problems" of sewage treatment and housing.

Mr. Campbell added: "Some municipalities in the past have been very reluctant to take these indications (of government policy) at face value."

He refused, however, to make any direct comment on Health Minister Loffmark's statement earlier this week that construction will cease in municipalities where sewage treatment isn't in the process of being implemented.

Mr. Campbell is the provincial minister with primary responsibility for housing.

Rose-Blanshard Wrangle

Architects Ignore Housing Project

By DESMOND BILL

Professional architects have blacklisted the low-rental housing scheme that is to be built in the Rose-Blanshard area.

But construction of the 180-unit project is unlikely to be delayed.

Architects object to the method used by Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation in calling for design proposals on the project. The CMHC approach is being insisted on by the provincial government.

Municipal Affairs Minister Dan Campbell said Friday the government wants speedy action and added, "We are not in the business of producing monuments to architects. Surely they are not interested only in 6 per cent of the action but in construction of low-rental housing."

But city architect Robert Siddall said that any architect participating in the government's approach would be breaking the law.

THEN TENDERS

Traditionally, architects design a project for their client and tenders are then called on it. But the call-for-proposals system results in various groups of builders and architects submitting alternative design proposals for a project.

One of the main objections by architects to this new procedure is that they may spend a considerable time drawing a design and not be paid one penny for it, unless it is the winner.

LEAST EFFORT

Mr. Siddall said this results in "production of a bunch of designs that were turned out as quickly and inexpensively as possible and with the least effort.

"If a project involves 180 units that is hardly a good basis on which it is to be designed."

He said such an approach is also against the law because architects are prohibited from working without a firm commission. "The Architect's Act flatly prohibits us from that sort of hucksterism," he said.

PRECEDENTS SET

However, B.C. architects have participated in such calls for proposals in the past, notably in the construction of the B.C. Research Council building at University of British Columbia and of a housing project at Simon Fraser University.

Health Minister Ralph Loffmark, who is a member of a cabinet committee on housing, said the approach is not without drawbacks in some cases.

'CLOSE TOUCH'

F. M. Polson, executive director of the Architectural Institute of B.C., said the institute is in "close touch" with CMHC on the Rose-Blanshard project.

He said he was optimistic that the difficulty can be settled but refused to outline what changes in approach would be needed.

Originally, CMHC intended to issue its call for proposals this weekend but the call was delayed because of changes in technical specifications for the project.

DESPITE BAN

City builder George Wheaton said his company would submit a design proposal when one is called, despite the ban on participation of an architect.

He said, "I think that we, and other firms in the province, are quite capable of doing that."

HOUSING NEED

City manager Dennis Young also predicted there would not be a delay in construction because "There are enough contractors with design teams to get the project underway."

He also said it was "unfortunate that a desperately needed low-rental housing scheme should be the issue" on which architects made their stand against the government's approach.

Yarrows Watches Big Bid

What could be the largest timber barge in the world may be built at Yarrows Ltd.

Cecil Cosulich, president of Rivtow Marine, of Vancouver, which is contracting for the 400-foot barge, said his company hopes to take delivery in April.

The massive vessel would cost between $2,000,000 and $3,000,000 and carry about 3,000,000 board feet of logs. It will be used, Mr. Cosulich said, to haul logs from the Kitimat area to Vancouver Island.

Although Yarrows officials would not comment on the deal before the contract is signed, Mr. Cosulich said that a letter of intent would be sent to the shipbuilders Monday and the contract would be formally completed within a week or 10 days.

Construction of the barge, which would be equipped with two cranes, hinged upon a 10-year log hauling contract with MacMillan and Bloedel. Rivtow now has the agreement with the timber company, the tow-company president said.

Neil Hindle, business agent for the International Brotherhood of Boilermakers, said Friday that 16 union members were laid off work on Thursday and 14 more on Friday.

Flare Lights Phone Booth

A unit of the Saanich fire department charged off to a "hot line" call last night when a caller announced the phone booth at Cook and Quadra was on fire — but the line wasn't all that hot. Turned out to be a sparkler placed in the booth by someone starting Halloween early.

Lee

Politics Finished

Silver of Yukon Attracts Mayor

Central Saanich Mayor R. Gordon Lee will retire from municipal politics in December to operate and develop a silver mine in the Yukon.

The 69-year-old Mayor will complete his 10th year on council when he retires. He is finishing his fourth term as mayor.

"I've enjoyed the work," said Mr. Lee, "It's a job that doesn't pay, but it's rewarding.

'ONE AMBITION'

"But," he added, "I've had one ambition all my life — to run and operate a mine of my own. I know mines because I've worked in them."

Mr. Lee staked a mining claim 40 years ago, and two years ago he located rich veins of silver.

"I have in sight $1,000,000 in silver-lead-cadium ore, and I'm optimistic that there's more there," said Mr. Lee.

Mr. Lee was elected international president of the Alaska-Yukon Organization early this year and is an acknowledged expert on the Yukon.

He left England in 1920 after serving in the Royal Navy during the First World War.

SOMEONE ELSE

During his 35 years in the territory he worked as prospector, miner, accountant, government inspector and storekeeper.

He is stepping out of municipal politics, he says, because it's time for someone else to take over.

"I'm not as alert as I was 10 years ago," he explained.

Ratepayers To Talk Merging

Incorporation will be the issue Monday night when Metchosin Ratepayers' Association and Albert Head Ratepayers' Association hold a joint meeting at 8 p.m. in Metchosin Community Hall.

Panel speakers will include Tony Roberts, Capital Planning Board director, representatives from the incorporation study group, which has asked for the December vote, and from groups opposed to making a municipality of Colwood, Langford and Metchosin.

There will be a question period after panel members have made their points.

Gwen Cash is back from what she terms a "gorgeous holiday." She was in Washington, D.C., for the first time and was greatly impressed by the beauty of the place — the wide streets, the wide sweeping curves, the floodlit monuments.

Gwen stayed with an old friend, Dr. Ursula Abbott, who is with the U.S. Scientific Research Council, and when Ursula gave a cocktail party for her Gwen says their friends, the scientific and the newspaper people got along awfully well together.

Former Reuters Man

At the party was Graham Lovell, until recently with Reuters in Paris and now posted in Washington. At one time he was public relations man for the CCF in Victoria.

Gwen was at Long Island and in eastern Canada during her month-long holiday. She also stayed at Champagne College at the new Trent University in Peterborough, Ont.

Now she is busy moving her apartment in Goodacre Towers, from the north to the south side and higher up for a better view. And she's looking forward to a visit from her son and daughter-in-law, Jack and Elva, in their 70-foot cruiser Columbian.

Fairly soon now, sometime around mid-November, a complete set of fine bone china in the new Royal Canadian Rose design will make its appearance on the market.

The Royal Canadian rose is a new deep, rich red color. The initial inspiration for this rose was prompted by Madame Vanier.

Now the Royal Albert China people have dedicated their new line with the rose design to the Vanier Institute of the family to which royalties are paid for its use.

Six Months Longer

He said it had taken the firm six months longer than they thought it would to get the new design out. Had difficulty in getting the deep shade of the rose. The roses on ice, were flown to England so that the company art director Harold Holderoft would have the real thing to work from.

Mr. Steiner had a lot of other information about bone china. First thing he brought out a piece of bone. Did you know that 45 per cent of bone china is actually the knee or leg bone of cattle? He went on, "Most of the bone for china comes from Argentina and any deviation from the 45 per cent spells trouble."

He also explained that the strength comes from the bone and the translucent appearance from the Cornish clay.

When the new rose design comes on the market it will carry a 10-year availability guarantee with it as the firm has taken this new step with all new and current patterns.

This means you will be able to replace a piece of china in the same pattern 10 years from the date you bought it.

They are hoping the new rose pattern will be as popular as say, petit point, which has been going on for 15 years.

Mr. Steiner also had some advice on looking after good china.

First, never, never stack cups. He says the handle is so apt to get a blow, even a slight one, that will cause a hairline crack at the joint. Cups should be hung on cup hooks.

Contrary to general belief, he says hot water really doesn't harm good china. After all it is fired at 1,250 degrees centigrade. But never put a cold cup on direct heat. And excessive heat can be harmful when it comes to gold on china.

He also advocates rinsing cups as soon as possible. Stained cups can be cleaned but need harsh treatment. Harsh detergents should be avoided and bone china should never be washed with aluminum or any soft metal, for fear of marking the china.

Mr. Steiner says although they don't recommend dishwashers for fine china he does so, or at least his wife does without any ill effects.

Another tip he has is about stacking plates. They should have a layer of tissue or other fine paper between as the under-rim of the plate can scratch the surface of the one beneath it.

After all that he ended up by saying that "Royal Albert is made to be used and enjoyed and that no one should become a slave to their possessions."

ERMA BOMBECK's Candidate

Kitchen Cabinet Needs National Bingo Pusher

This is a strange election year. The president was the only one in the country who wanted to be drafted. The peace crusaders nearly wrecked Chicago and two little-known vice presidential nominees have made the names of Furlin Huskie and Spiral Eggnogg household words.

★ ★ ★

People are confused. Can Nixon make the streets safe? Can Humphrey make the White House safe? Can Wallace make the ballots? Can Pat Paulsen make the weight?

It was almost refreshing to receive in the mail a letter from Yetta Bronstein, a housewife who ran for president in 1964 and is trying again in 1968. (How soon we forget greatness.)

Yetta is running on The Best Party ticket for such things as stronger government, fluoridation, better government, national bingo and sex education. (Don't knock it unless you've tried it.)

Her platform is a strong one. What this country needs is a pot for every mother . . . a mother for every pot. She says there will be no more stealing, cheating or arguing among government officials. If they want to insult one another, they will be enlisted in the army, navy or marines.

Her first act as president will be to disband the U.S. Post Office. Instead she will breed 10,000,000 pigeons and train them to carry microfilm to replace conventional mail. (At this moment she is breeding pigeons by the hundreds in Central Park with a new bird food sex stimulant that prevents birth control.)

She will also eliminate zip code. In a test, she mailed two identical letters at the General Post Office. The one with zip code took 39 hours for delivery; the one without zip code took only 26 hours.

★ ★ ★

In her appeal to youth, Yetta asks, "Who is the only person in your life you trust? Your mother. Who really handles the money in your family? Your mother. If the Good Fairy gave you one great wish to come true who would benefit from such a dream? Your mother.

"Pay your mother back for all the washing, ironing, crying and lying she has done for you. Put a parent in the White House."

★ ★ ★

Will anyone take Yetta seriously? Will Margaret Chase Smith have an extra key made for the women's room to show good faith? Will a woman ever have a cabinet that isn't full of dishes? Will a woman ever be appointed to anything but the Department of Labor?

Is Yetta Bronstein a put-on? Sure, but isn't everybody?

Chile Also on Queen's Agenda

Color Royalty Gay For Brazilian Day

LONDON (AP) — Queen Elizabeth will break a royal tradition when she visits Brazil and Chile next month by wearing hot, bright colors.

Until now, it has been a rigid rule that British royalty wears pale pastels because they stand out better and can be seen from the back of a crowd.

Royal dressmaker Hardy Amies never gives out descriptions or specific details of the Queen's clothes before she appears in them. But Amies' dresses will include hot pink, a strong lemon yellow and green.

"We thought they would be better colors to reflect the brighter climate and sun in South America," a spokesman said.

The Amies wardrobe, from which the Queen will choose what to wear, follows the look of the couture dressmaker's latest collection. This means that her dresses will be simple, straight and uncluttered, depending on color and material for impact rather than on detail.

★ ★ ★

Amies' hemlines are mostly on the knee in his fashion collection but the Queen will, as usual, wear hers a bit longer than that.

Hot pink has been used for both day and evening dresses to go on the royal tour and the wardrobe includes at least one print in cut satin.

The Queen has been a customer of Hardy Amies since 1951, when she was still Princess Elizabeth. Amies got the royal appointment as dressmaker in 1955.

Ann Landers

Dear Ann Landers: My husband has gotten another woman pregnant. I have forgiven him and told him I will stand by him and I hope we can have a good life together in spite of this tragedy.

The woman is a divorcee and knows my husband will not marry her. He agreed to pay her medical expenses and support the child.

Now the woman says she does not want the baby and my husband has asked me to take it. We have a baby of our own who will be one year old when the out-of-wedlock child is born.

I don't want the woman's baby for reasons which you can surely understand. Isn't it enough that I must live with the knowledge that my husband has done this terrible thing to our family? Must I have a reminder in our home for the next 20 years? Also I am afraid if we take the baby the woman will use it as an excuse to hang around. This would mean real trouble.

Adoption Best Answer

My husband says it is my Christian duty. What do you say?—W.M.

Dear W.M.: Christian duty, my eye. The baby should be put up for adoption through an agency. It would be infinitely better for the child if he were taken into a home and raised by two loving parents. Don't let your husband talk you into this bazarre scheme or you'll regret it.

Dear Ann Landers: I know it is wrong to be ashamed of my own mother but I can't help it. Mom has had very bad teeth for as long as I can remember. She hates to go to the dentist and has gone only when she was in such terrible pain that Dad practically had to carry her there.

Mom is now to the point where she doesn't have one good tooth in her head. She needs to have them all extracted but she won't do it.

'Toothless Hag' Hurts

Some of the mean little neighbor kids call her a toothless hag and it makes me sick. Then, too, I worry about Mom because she is terribly thin and she doesn't eat right. I'm sure her teeth are to blame. She can't chew any solid food.

Money is no problem. What Mom needs is someone to make her see that she is wrecking her health by letting her teeth go. Please say something. SORRY FOR HER.

Dear Sorry: Some people die sooner than they should because they neglect their teeth. Their health deteriorated due to poor nutrition and they become vulnerable to a variety of illnesses. Your mother sounds like a likely candidate.

Ask you Dad to insist that she go to a hospital and have a general anesthetic for the total extraction. She won't feel a thing.

Club Hears About Society

An address by University of Victoria Dean R. R. Jeffels dealing with society today highlighted a workshop organized by the Municipal Chapter IODE. Held in the Greater Victoria Art Gallery it was the first such workshop held by the IODE here.

During the morning officers of the Municipal Chapter conducted group discussions and later all members joined for general discussions.

A Lovelier You

To Arms, Milady It's Bosom Year

By MARY SUE MILLER

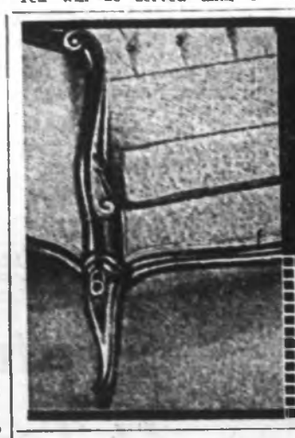

It's amazing the way the feminine figure changes with a change in fashion. Somehow women manage to be straight as a stripling one year and full-blown the next. And simply to fit the fashion image at the time!

The figure trends at present to a high, rounded bosom, for the reason that fashion accents the bosomline via darts and tucks. Of course you may not wish to wear the silhouette but if you do, figure improvements could be in order.

Of all problems, those at the bosomline require the most patience to remedy. With time and effort the conturing routines below act to firm and lift the line. Perform vigorously if you wish for a trimmer appearance; for a rounder aspect, work very slowly.

● Stand erect with feet together. Reach for ceiling with right hand, for floor with left hand. Keeping elbows straight, swing right arm down to full extension, then back as far as possible. At the same time, swing left arm up and back—high up and far back. Reverse arm swing and, without stopping continue for 10 counts. If slim, work up to 20 counts. Otherwise, 30 counts is the goal.

● Sit tailor fashion on floor and place palms of hands against inner sides of knees. Push down with hands and up with knees — hard. Continue one to two minutes, working to increase pull in chest muscles.

This Bottle Contains Enough "Youthifying Lift"

TO HELP YOU LOOK 5-10-15... EVEN 20 YEARS YOUNGER

This is not a dream about the mythical "Fountain of Youth." Scientific and medical journals have acclaimed this startling discovery, called CEF (Cellular Expansion Factor), as the first real break-through to renewed beauty for women of all ages.

Some women too readily give up and accept dry skin, lines and sag on face, chin and throat as inevitable. If you, like so many women have given up hope of ever looking young again, be assured that those facial lines around eyes, mouth and forehead are easy to cope with. Now a whole new concept in removing and reducing these facial lines, wrinkles and sag on chin and throat has been discovered.

Your lift is in this bottle containing the non-oily pleasantly scented emulsion 2nd Debut. The process of restoring fresh, youthful looking beauty to your skin is simple and natural. At night before retiring, after make-up has been removed, you smooth 2nd Debut containing CEF over your face and neck. Progressively, the skin surface appears smoother and more youthful as lines become less evident... even completely disappear. This simple daily routine will keep your face in this new state for as long as you want to enjoy this ageless look.

2nd Debut is made in two potencies . . . with CEF 600 for the woman under forty who has started to line before her time. Biafra Action

John D Sends Own Telegram

OTTAWA (CP) — Former prime minister John Diefenbaker has appealed directly to Nigeria's head of state, Gen. Yakubu Gowon, to permit relief supplies to enter Biafra.

In a telegram Friday to him to give clearance to Canadian planes now stalled in their mission to ferry supplies to war victims.

A spokesman for the former Conservative leader said the telegram urged the Nigerian leader to make good his words of an August press interview when he had undertaken to permit supplies to go to all parts of the country, including the breakaway Biafran region.

Diefenbaker said Canadians want to help Nigerians suffering from the war, without regard to political affiliation.

U.S. Bans Junipers

Diseased Oak Bay Pear Trees Blamed

Diseased pear trees in Oak Bay have caused a ban by the United States on entry of junipers from Canada.

A survey by the federal plant protection department has turned up 1,200 trees in Oak Bay with pear-trellis rust — a fungus which attacks the leaves of the fruit tree and reduces the fruit crop.

The outbreak — the only known one in Canada — appears to be confined mainly to the Oak Bay area, according to plant protection officer Roy P. Messum.

A few infected trees have also been found in Esquimalt.

Reason for the U.S. ban on junipers is that the shrubs are alternative hosts for the disease, which spreads by way of spores from pear to juniper and back to pear tree.

Juniper shrubs are shipped from this area to the United States as ornamental shrubs, Mr. Messum explained.

The only other place on the continent where the disease is present is Lafayette County, Calif., where $70,000 has been spent in the past few years to eradicate it from a four-square-mile area.

Mr. Messum said the disease will have to be eradicated to prevent its spread to commercial orchards on the mainland.

A provincial government tree-spraying program has been scheduled for this area.

TREES SPRAYED

The infection, said Mr. Messum can be controlled by spraying trees with a fungicide —Acti-dione. Officers from the plant protection department have been surveying the Victoria area looking for the tell-tale bright orange spots on the leaves of the fruit trees.

The disease does not show up on juniper at this time of year, but in late April and May infected shrubs will have gelatinous spots on them.

OTHER MEASURES

"The removal of infected juniper shrubs will be necessary if other control measures are not effective," said Mr. Messum.

He appealed to Victorians to report any signs of the disease in their home gardens by phoning 384-1915.

Chinese Life Scrutinized At Teach-In

More than 100 persons registered for the China teach-in which began Friday evening in the Education-Arts Building of the University of Victoria.

The program, sponsored by Cordova Bay United Church Council and the United Church Women for cultivation of better-informed public opinion, opened with films depicting life on mainland China.

A social hour followed, during which books and displays were inspected.

CHINA HISTORY

Prof. Charles Burchill of Royal Roads will give a talk at 9:15 a.m. today on the historical background of present-day China.

It will be followed by a discussion between four persons who have lived in or visited China—Prof. Burchill, Mrs. L. E. Willmott, Mrs. Velma Chen and Mrs. Evelyn Peaker.

Discussion groups will then be held until lunchtime.

PANEL LISTED

At 1:45 p.m. a panel on Canada-China relations will be moderated by Rev. Les Wallwork of Cordova Bay United Church. Panel members are Prof. L. E. Willmott, West China Union University (1921-32); Dr. Richard Powers, political science department, UVic; Rev. Geoffrey Smith, former minister in China and Colin Crisp, Economics and Statistics department, B.C. government.

Discussion groups will be held at 3 p.m. on the question What is our responsibility for better understanding?

The teach-in will end with a Chinese dinner at 5:30 p.m. in the cafeteria of the Student Union Building.

Break-Ins Net Cash, Goods

A rash of housebreakings Wednesday and Thursday night netted thieves more than $1,000 in cash, jewelry and other articles ranging from wallets and purses to dish towels.

Seven burglaries and one attempted break-in were reported, five of them in Victoria and two in Saanich.

Largest individual theft involved the premises of Henry Chow at 2540 Fifth, where thieves took $510 in cash from a master bedroom and office. Of this amount, $20 was taken from a children's bank.

Smack on Dome Amazes, Amuses Hypnotist Fans

A bald-headed man was kissed right in the middle of his shiny pate Friday night by an attractive young blonde girl who is still wondering why she did it.

Someone talked like Popeye the Sailor, the whole gang on the stage laughed at a non-existent TV cartoon and a girl left the stage with instructions to say "I thought I saw a puddy cat," on cue.

It all happened after a group of volunteers from the audience awoke from a trance placed upon them by the man billed as "The Great Damant, Hypnotist."

In a friendly jovial fashion the hypnotist zapped each one of his subjects into a hypnotic state, put them through the hoops then turned them loose on the spectators after bringing them to.

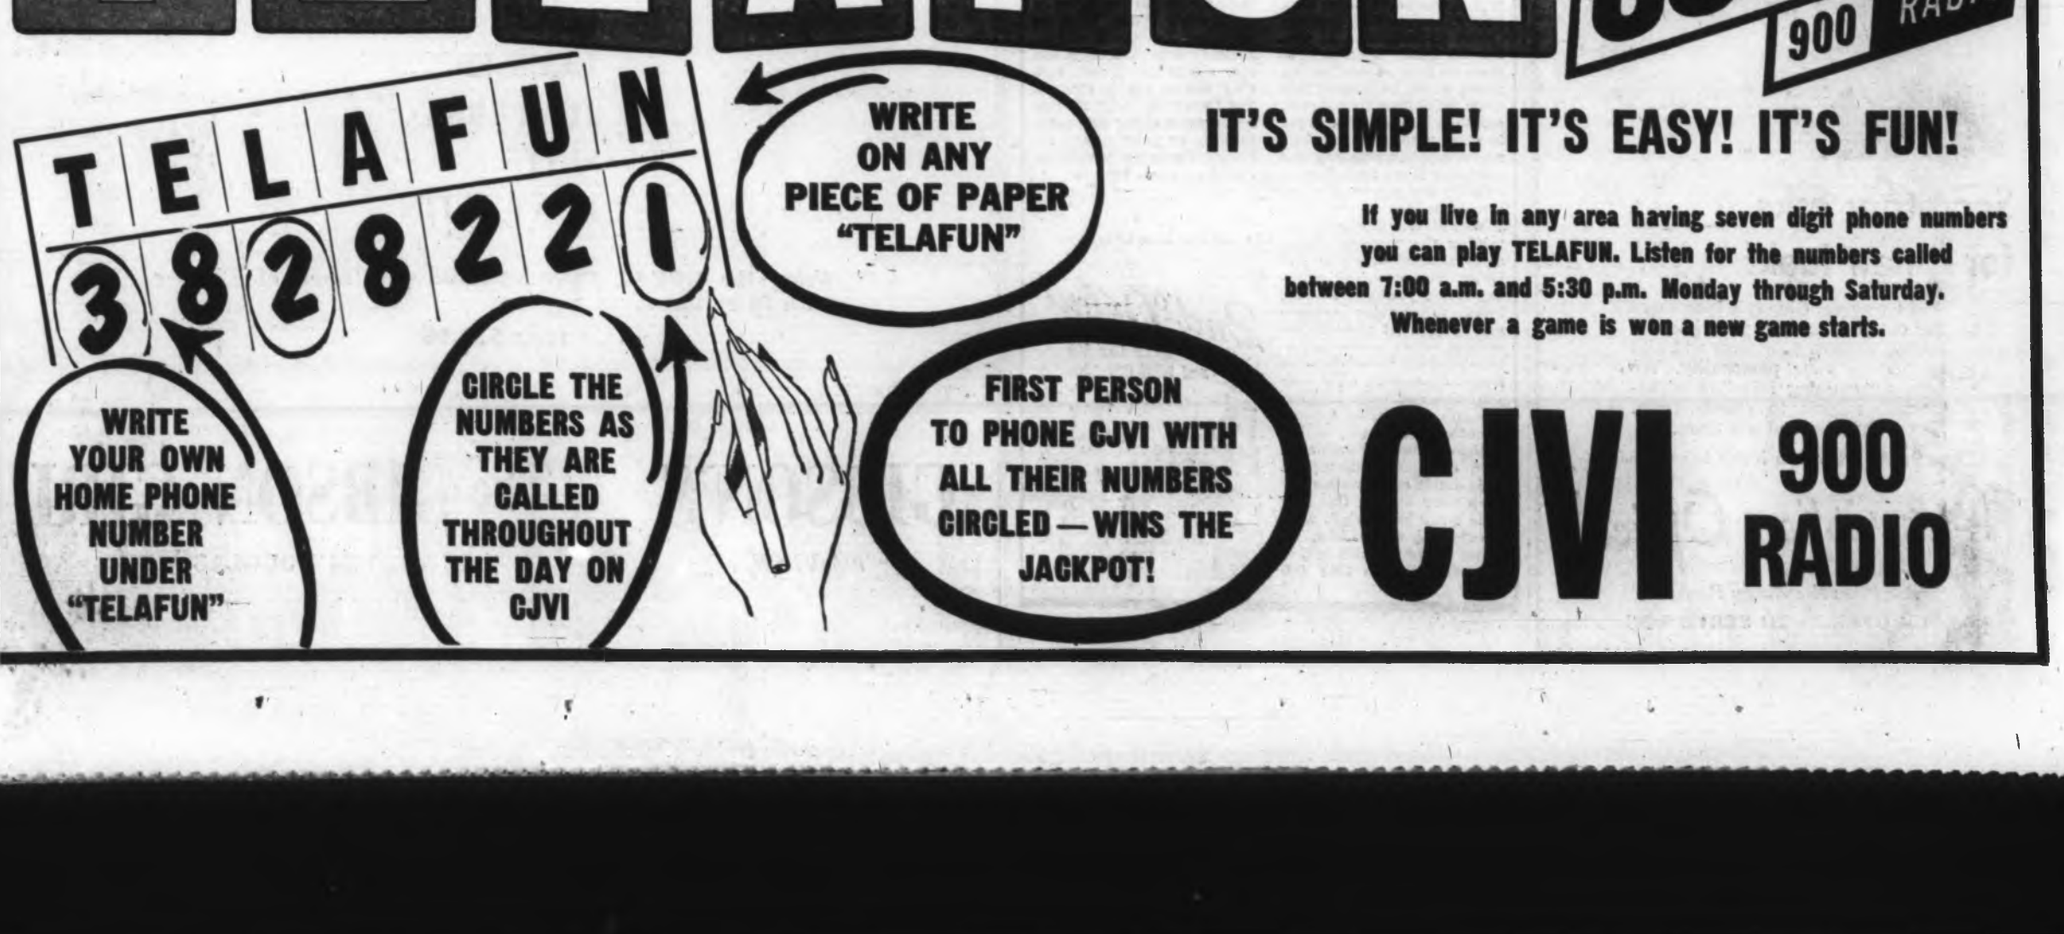

The Amazing Damant will appear at Central Junior High School again at 8:30 p.m. tonight. He is sponsored by the high school's student council.

MAKE THE BIG MOVE!
A new home can be a gold mine
Most things you spend money on are worth less next year —or even a minute after you've got them. How much is a new car worth after you drive it once 'round the block? Ever try to sell a brand-new TV you've won in a raffle? But your home is a growing asset. When you move up to a new and better home, you're making a wise investment—not just in living conditions, but in hard cash.
But even if homes depreciated like speedboats or tweed coats, your own home would still be a great buy. What else can give your family so much pleasure, so many happy memories? A home is 24 hours a day — it's the way you feel about life, the background and support for every pleasure you have. Even holidays are better because home is there to go back to!
And there's nothing else you can buy on such long-term financing — which means your payments are low for the value you're getting. Investigate now — ask any member of the Victoria Home Builders Association to show you how only a few dollars more a month may bring you a new world of living comfort.

Garden Notes

The Easy Kind

By M. V. CHESNUT

The other day I mentioned the strange fact that quite a few of the folks who read this garden column regularly don't have any gardens.

These are people who hunger for contact with the soil, but whose fate it is to be living in apartments, rooming houses, hotels or institutions.

I am more than a little touched by the letters I receive from these ex-gardeners, and I had these folks especially in mind when I wrote the last few columns on growing bulbs in pots and bowls indoors.

There is one difficulty here. Most of the bulbs commonly recommended for indoor culture—hyacinths, tulips, trumpet daffs—must have a long period in cold darkness after potting up.

It is very important that these bulbs be induced to make plenty of roots before they are permitted to push up any top growth, and this is done by keeping them in complete darkness and at a temperature well below 50 degrees for a period of between two and three months.

It is useless to attempt growing these bulbs without such a cool, dark storage place. The problem in the case of apartment dwellers and rooming house occupants is no such storage place is available.

Fortunately, there are a few bulbs—all of them narcissi—which CAN be grown successfully without a prolonged rooting period in cold darkness, and the indoor gardener without a root cellar, cold basement or cool fruit cupboard would be well advised to stick to these easy kinds.

Another advantage to the gardenless gardener is the fact that you don't need any soil for these bulbs; they will grow quite satisfactorily in bowls of pebbles and water.

Probably the best-known of all these pebble-culture bulbs is the Paper White narcissus, a grand old-timer, sweetly fragrant, and available wherever bulbs are sold for 20 cents to 20 cents per bulb.

It lends itself admirably to soil-less culture and can be brought into bloom without any rooting period in cold darkness.

I find the plants tend to get a bit floppy in the leaf when grown in a too-warm room, and it seems to me it makes somewhat sturdier growth—and the fragrant white flowers last longer in bloom—if you can give it its start in life in a coolish room, perhaps a spare bedroom, where the temperature can be kept somewhat lower than the regular living quarters.

In the same branch of the narcissus family as the Paper White is one called Grand Soleil d'Or, probably the showiest of all the bulbs that can be grown in stones and water and without cool darkness.

Bearing anywhere from eight to fourteen flowers per stem, the blooms are a rich golden yellow with a bright orange cup, richly perfumed. The bulbs are a little more expensive, 35 cents to 45 cents per bulb.

Even quicker and surer to come into bloom is the Chinese Sacred Lily, known also as the Joss Flower, Flower of the Gods, Good Luck Lily and Water Fairy Flower. These, of course, are vernacular names; the plant is not a lily but another narcissus, botanically Narcissus tazetta orientalis.

The growing of these bulbs for export is the principle industry in a group of ten villages lying to the south of the city of Chunking, in the heart of Red China.

Grown from offsets in irrigated fields, they take three to four years to make a flowering—size bulb. After harvesting, they are shipped to world markets through the port of Hong Kong.

When I was a youngster, our neighbourhood Chinese laundryman would always have a stock of these bulbs in the fall, presenting one to each of his steady customers as a goodwill gift.

Started in pebbles and water around the middle of November, the creamy white, lemon-centred flowers would be in full bloom in time for Christmas.

JACK SMITH Rejects Reunion Games

Meet Your Family, Folks!

Not a few readers keep writing in to inquire why I don't write more about politics. While I appreciate their trust in my political judgment, it is simply not my line.

I have never believed that politics as such can solve any basic problems, and any political positions I take are based on much deeper moral attitudes that go far beyond the political realm.

Indeed, one of the chief reasons I was so enthusiastic about the candidacy of Eugene McCarthy this year for the U.S. presidency was his relatively apolitical posture — a posture that apparently appealed to millions of Republicans and independents as much as to Democrats.

McCarthy is perhaps more of a poet, a teacher, a philosopher, thas he is a politician in any conventional sense of the word. And what I think the U.S. needs is a man — of either or no party — who can surmount partisanship and sectionalsim and see the country (and the world) as more than a set of political or legal institutions.

In a way, McCarthy was too good for the United States.

Americans are not yet ready for his kind of man: someone cool instead of hot, someone who would genuinely like to reduce the political power of the presidency in order to enhance its moral power, someone who refuses to make wild claims, engage in extravagant promises, or repeat the tired cliches of his party.

There is no other such man on the scene today, and has not been for a long time. All the other candidates, and their running-mates, seem to me like ventrioloquist's dummies, made of plastic and manipulated by strings, mouthing the same stupid accusations and counter-attacks, playing upon the basest fears and greediest motives within us.

It is no accident that Wallace is attracting so many followers, and frightening both Humphrey and Nixon with his popularity.

★ ★ ★

The politicians of both U.S. parties have failed to educate the electorate, failed to set an example of dedication and devotion to the needs of the country as a whole, failed to grasp the mood and the worries and the frustrations of the great mass of "little people" who are capable of reacting either with calm goodness or hysterical anger.

★ ★ ★

What is needed is an educator and an example more than a mere administrator or power-broker. This was the role McCarthy admirably conceived for himself, and refused to compromise with.

He knew that to be politically effective and relevant today, you must go beyond politics — as Wallace is going beyond politics, but in the wrong direction, to the emotional nerve-centre of the people.

Clemenceau said long ago that "War is too important to be left to the generals." Today's apothegm might be: "Politics is too important to be left to the politicians," as November will show us.

McCarthy Too Good

SYDNEY HARRIS

The family reunion must be among the most awkward and depressing of social institutions. I would have thought it was obsolete if not dead in this rootless and scattered nation.

But now I have discovered a new how-to book called Making Family Get-togethers Click, by Virginia W. Musselman. It not only insists that family reunions can be fun, but tells how to make them click.

Mrs. Musselman is an organizer with vision and grasp. She envisions not simply a casual pow-wow, with only the inner family and a couple of favorite aunts and uncles, but an all-out reunion, something like an Elks convention, with black sheep and shirt-tail cousins arriving from all points by bus, train and plane.

These loved ones are to be met by a member of the "host family" in the family car, which flies a pennant saying "Family Reunion." They are led into the host house over a "red carpet" of red shelf paper which has been pasted to the sidewalk by masking tape.

Right off, the visiting relative must be made to feel welcome by some "on-arrival activity" such as "hand-prints."

As each guest arrives, he is led to a table where there is a strip of wrapping paper and a pan of poster paint. He is made to dip one hand in the pan and press it to the paper, making a handprint which is then hung up on the wall.

Everybody is given an "identification symbol," such as stencilled T-shirts or bright red baseball caps with the family initial. "Men and boys will love these," we are assured.

After everyone is fed, they play games which are "wonderful mixers and ice-breakers." Mrs. Musselman's repertoire of games runs heavily to riddles and quizzes, like the untangling of such relationships as "your mother's nephew's daughter's son."

Other games are recommended for "changing the subject," as a "well-used method of avoiding unpleasant arguments." Good idea. What few family reunions I can remember from my childhood broke up in violent free-for-alls in which my father was invariably cursed and damned as an atheist.

The author points out that word games involve "a certain amount of thought," and so can be played "with much fun by mixed age groups." For example, here are the rules for I'm Thinking of a Word—

"One person starts by deciding upon a word and then naming something that rhymes with it. 'I'm thinking of a word that rhymes with cake.' The others take turns guessing. 'Is it lake?' 'Is it make?' 'Is it flake?' "

And so on. The one who guesses, of course, gets to think up the next word.

A game called grudges is suggested as "a silly game that challenges inventiveness." A player starts by saying "I have a grudge against you!" The other player, feigning "shocked surprise," says "You do?" And then the first player responds with some rhyme such as, "You pinned a rose on your toes," or "Your eyes look like pies," and so on.

I don't know. My kin may have been too touchy for such games. They spooked easy. My uncle Grover, for example, was suspected of being a wobbly. He also had an ex-wife and he drank.

If you had said "I have a grudge against you," even in fun, Uncle Grover would have put on his red baseball cap and gone off to the nearest saloon, there, doubtless, to join my father, who would have left when they tried to get his handprint.

On the other hand, I did have an aunt whose eyes looked like pies.

Chaplin Prepares To Star Daughter

By SHEILAH GRAHAM

LONDON (NANA) — Charlie Chaplin is preparing The Freak, to star his 17-year-old daughter Victoria, who is now attending a boarding school near Oxford. The indefatigable Charles believes that Vickie is the most talented of all his children. The Freak will be made in London.

★ ★ ★

Chaplin is also re-releasing The Circus with new subtitles and music. The Circus is one of the few Chaplin films that has not been seen since it's original release, 40 years ago.

For the BBC and French television salutes to Chaplin on his 80th birthday next April, Charlie is giving them clips from all of his films, something he has never done before. "I've got all this money," he was saying, "and I don't want anything."

★ ★ ★

Carl Foreman is preparing Mistress Masham's Repose, and he hopes Josh Logan will direct it. Carl is now getting his McKenna's Gold ready for release. "We finally hit pay dirt," said the producer who made a fortune from The Guns of Navarone and is now preparing a sequel, but he was referring to McKenna's Gold.

★ ★ ★

"We had a world premiere arranged for Dec. in Amsterdam. It was to be the biggest royal premiere of all — Prince Bernhard was sponsoring the opening for his world wide life project. Prince Philip was inivted, also royalty from Sweden, Norway and Denmark — you can imagine the security problems. So perhaps it's a good thing that it didn't work out. We got turned out of the box by Oliver which didn't finish its dubbing in time for us to complete ours in time for the December date." The lights are now burning very late at Columbia to fix another place for the world premiere.

Tony Curtis and British acrtress Susan Hampshire are on speaking terms now, but there was almost disasater at the beginning of their starring assignments in Monte Carlo or Bust.

On the second day of shooting, Susan made the fatal mistake of saying to Tony, "I've admired you since I was a little girl. I look forward to working with you." It comes as a shock to a boy who has always thought of himself as young to realize in one sentence that he isn't. Actually, Tony has always been better at working with men than with women, but Miss Hampshire has worked a great deal on the stage and she knows how to guard against scene stealing by Tony. The film has a July 4 release date.

ABOUT TV

with Bruce Lowther

". . . now, back to the Berkeley Campus."

BUREAU OF USELESS INFORMATION: Friday's flickering answer—Back in the 1930s, the movie Mr. Deeds Goes to Town inserted the word pixillated into the lexicon, at least until us oldtimers die. In the 1930s Broadway musical Of Thee I Sing, the president was Wintergreen, the vice-president Alexander Throttlebottom. Where are they now that we need them?

Today's question—One more from the 1930s. Name the Dionne quintuplets, and their parents. And just to show this whole thing is crazy, name Jack Benny's six Jello flavors. Answers Tuesday.

Saturday Highlights

★ C-5:00 p.m.—The third run hereabouts of this season's first National Geographic special, which goes to U.S. national parks—12.

C-9:30—Laugh-In's Rozmenko, Arte Johnson, "sings" in Hollywood Palace. Also on the agenda are Don Adams, Barbara Eden—4.

Saturday Sports

C-OLYMPICS competition is in its last full days. The times at 2:30, 7:30 and 11:35 p.m. on Channel 2; 1:30, 3:30 and 11:00 p.m. on Channel 4; 2:30 and 7:30 on Channel 6.

Winning Contract

By HOWARD SCHENKEN and RICHARD L. FREY

Both teams big-Clubbed their way to the correct slam contract in this deal from the Summer Nationals, but there was a heavy swing when one declarer failed to handle the problem of communications.

Vul: Both

NORTH (D)
♠ A Q 4
◇ A K J 5 4
♣ Q J 7 6 3

WEST
♠ 10 9 8 7
♡ K 9 6 4
◇ 9 3
♣ A 10 5

EAST
♡ Q 7 5 3 2
◇ Q 10 8
♣ K 9 8 4 2

SOUTH
♠ K J 6 5 3 2
♡ A J 10 8
◇ 7 6 2

The bidding:

North	East	South	West
1 ♣	Pass	1 ♠	Pass
2 ◇	Pass	2 ♠	Pass
3 ♣	Pass	3 ♡	Pass
4 ♠	Pass	6 ♠	All pass

Opening lead: Spade ten

North's sequence of bidding, culminating in the jump bid of four spades, clearly indicated a heart void. Since his heart holding was likely to be wasted, South did not explore for a grand slam but settled for six spades.

In Room 1 the trump opening was won in dummy, East discarding a heart. It was obvious that the diamond suit had got to be established, so South ruffed a club and finessed the diamond jack, losing to the queen.

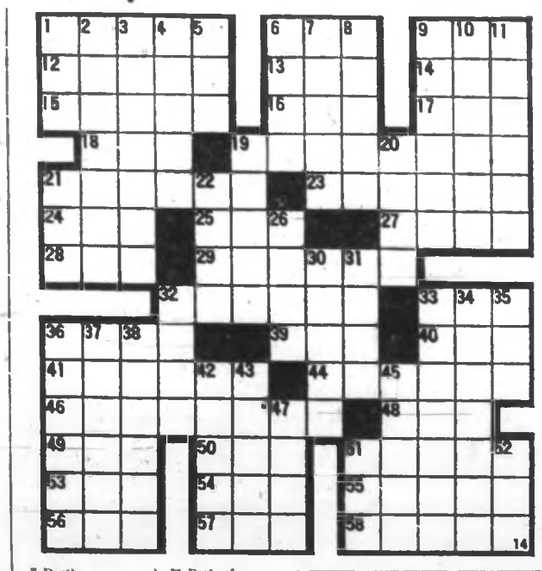

Declarer ruffed the club return and realized too late that he lacked the entries to score a heart ruff in dummy and get back to hand to draw trumps. He could make no more than 11 tricks.

In Room 2 South saw that he could afford to lose a diamond. He won the trump opening in dummy as before, but immediately led a low diamond from the table, East winning the ten.

Declarer ruffed the club return and ruffed a heart. Dummy's last trump was cashed and so was the diamond ace. (Correct, to expose the finesse in case West held Q-x-x-x originally.) A club was ruffed and there were no more problems.

A POPULAR IDEA
It might surprise you to know that your friends and neighbors purchase more real estate than you imagine. They do, of course, for a host of reasons: For example, extra income, investment, speculation, capital cost, allowances, and most of all "I just plain like real estate."
It's never a mistake to buy real estate. Add this small downtown 4-suite resident building to your portfolio — for another reason it's a good buy at $19,500. Call SIMON FLETT anytime, 385-2471. Johnston & Co.

This is an architect designed, beautiful, and unusual home of 1,438 sq. ft. Only 5 years old. There is a large living room 13x21' separated from the dining area of 11.6x12 by a floor-to-ceiling two-way fireplace, the kitchen is spacious with crafted cabinets and eating area, built-in oven and counter top range. Away from the living area there are three spacious bedrooms. Off the master bedroom, there are sliding glass doors to a delightful balcony and of course — en-suite complete with vanity. The main bathroom is spacious and a joy to see. An open stairway leads to a beautifully panelled family room (13.6x24) which boasts another fireplace. — Plus, can you believe it? There is a two-car drive-in garage, also plenty of space for two more rooms—Well, well below replacement cost at $26,500. A bonus of one of those hard to find large 6¾ per cent mortgages. May I show you this exquisite, better than new home?

This setting could be from Better Homes and Gardens. It is a beautifully landscaped lot with the ideally located to allow expansion if you wish. With the trees and shrubs, the home in white and dark red is most striking. The living room, about 20'x16' is most restful with large exposed beams and sloping ceiling set off by a raised hearth fireplace against a feature panelled wall. The wall-to-wall carpet is in a neutral shade. The functional kitchen opens to a formal dining room — 12'x13'. It is quite simple to convert this to a 3-bedroom home with an en suite master bedroom. There is a fully finished large family room just down from the kitchen a few steps. The basement bathroom and utility need only to be finished off and the vendors have reduced the price from $36,500 to $34,900 to defray these costs. There is an existing mortgage of about $20,000 at 6 per cent a $133 p.m., including taxes. Remember asking only $34,900 and Crown will sell by trade to allow you to trade up. Call F. WILLS, 385-8731. Oh yes, vendor may sell under agreement for sale to qualified client. Even forgot to mention the lovely sundeck off the daughters bedroom, making a 2-carport underneath! Also all wall-to-wall in LR, DR and halls is over lovely oak flooring.

BURNSIDE-HAMPTON

Substantial family home close to schools, parks, shops and transportation. Three bedrooms plus large living room and kitchen. Developed basement. OOM heating, plumbed for washer and dryer. Big lot with about 30 fruit trees. Asking $17,900.

5 ACRES AND INDEPENDENCE
I should mention the two fine cock pheasants we saw strutting their stuff over this acreage but I had better discuss this Parcel of land that is all level, a scattering of trees, a tranquil creek, peace and quiet. Located near Sidney in N. Saanich—all fenced with plenty of paved road frontage. One thing about this land is that it is all useable. Priced in line with current market values at $3,000 per acre—terms arranged.

AND

A COUNTRY ESTATE
That looks across to Mt. Baker, bordered by picturesque creek, fringed with trees, fine deep soil for growing. To adequately describe the neat 3 year old hot water heated home, the guest cottage, the barn and workshop would take too much reading—so call in and I'll give you the complete picture together with the layout of the 16 acres of gently rolling land near Mill Bay—an EXCELLENT investment for $29,500.

Tax Rebate Pledged

'Excellent News For Bylaw'

By KLAUS MUENTER

DUNCAN — A boost toward passage of the $850,000 recreation development bylaw arrived from the provincial government hours before today's bylaw vote.

The government advised the Cowichan Valley regional district board it is prepared to advance legislation giving the regional board power to rebate the owners of farmland the taxes imposed for recreation on land over and above the basic homesite.

About 6,000 ratepayers from the southend of North Cowichan, the city of Duncan, and the unorganized areas of Cowichan Bay, Cobble Hill and Koksilah-Cowichan Station-Eagle Heights are eligible to cast their vote.

The fate of a $32,000 ambulance building bylaw will also be decided at the polls today by the same voters, plus ratepayers of Mill Bay and Shawnigan Lake.

Cowichan Valley regional board secretary Peter Hayward said the government's announcement means that a farm of 50 acres will receive a rebate covering 49 acres at the applicable mill rate of 4.32 mills.

This can be implemented next year.

Mr. Hayward said, "Previously the regional board received a representation from the farmers in the electoral areas pointing out that they did not consider it was equitable for them to be taxed for recreation purposes on their total assessment.

Both mayors in this area, Jim Quaife of Duncan and Donald Morton of North Cowichan expressed optimism that the government announcement will help the bylaw to pass.

Mayor Quaife said, "This is a terrific breakthrough for the regional district. I feel the government has taken a major step towards establishing better relations with the regional district and the farmers in our area.

"This should prove beneficial for the farmers, who've complained for many years about unfair taxation on farm land.

"It will be a precedent in British Columbia and maybe in Canada."

Mayor Morton said: "I think it is excellent news and it could make the needed difference in passing the recreation bylaw. It will be a just alleviation of taxes on farm land.

"I hope everybody will get out and vote for the proposed recreational facilities which are so badly needed."

Province comes under fire for gym refusal

Campbell River Petition

3,000 Protest Lack Of Gym Facilities

By HELEN MITCHELL

CAMPBELL RIVER — Close to 500 adults and senior high school students crowded into Cedar school gymnasium to hear a report by school trustees on vain efforts to obtain a gym for the senior high.

Dan Campbell, Minister of Municipal Affairs and MLA for this riding, and Education Minister Donald Brothers, who had both been invited to the open meeting, did not attend.

Mr. Campbell was in Montreal and Mr. Brothers said he did not receive notice of the meeting in time.

The school board, taxpayers and students all want a gymnasium. However the government has evidently turned a deaf ear to their plea since curtailing all but essential classroom construction.

Senior students have been canvassing the district from door to door, on a petition to be submitted to the provincial government.

ORDERLY PARADE

On Thursday afternoon, about 500 students staged an orderly parade from the high school to downtown Tyee Plaza carrying placards saying "We Need a Gym" "B.C. Govt. Unfair to Students", etc.

School board chairman Bruce Saunders will take the petition and letters when he goes to Victoria to bring the matter before the education department.

The demonstration and write-in was organized by the high school student council under direction of president Wanda Lenaour.

They also arranged a free baby sitting service and free transportation to the public meeting for those requiring it.

The march was held after school and Principal John Young gave students his blessing and warned them to obey traffic rules.

NEW COUNCIL BYLAW

They were also reminded to obey the new bylaw by keeping the size of groups to less than 25.

Campbell River had passed a bylaw three days previously prohibiting protest gatherings of more than 25 persons within town limits. The bylaw is not yet in print, but the students were asked to obey it.

A similar meeting and protest was held Wednesday in Port Alberni, where trustees explained identical reasons to dissident students protesting lack of gym facilities at E. J. Dunn junior high.

Stabbing Charge Reduced

NANAIMO — Andrew Charlie Sr., 60, was sentenced to 3½ years Friday when found guilty in British Columbia Supreme Court on a reduced charge of manslaughter in the stabbing death of Joseph Mickey, 23.

Charlie, of the Opitsat Indian reserve near Tofino, had been charged with murder in the July 15 stabbing. The stabbing followed a fight between Mickey and Charles' son, Andrew, 19.

REPENTENT

Mr. Justice F. Craig Munroe said he had taken everything into consideration in passing sentence, including the fact that Mr. Charlie spoke no English and "that you are truly repentent for what you did."

He said, however, "To destroy the life of another person is extremely serious."

Arson Probed In Two Fires

BURNABY (CP) — Authorities said they suspect arson in two apartment fires. Fire broke out in the basement of a three-storey building and there was another fire a few minutes later in the basement of a building a block away. There were no injuries.

Woman Pedestrian Dies in Nanaimo

NANAIMO—A 64-year-old Victoria woman was pronounced dead in the Nanaimo hospital 8 p.m. Friday night after being hit by a car.

Police said she was crossing the Island Highway at Waddington Road at about 7:50 p.m. and was knocked down by a car driven by Robert Rathlef, 53 Nicol St.

She died of multiple, internal and head injuries.

Doctor Resigns

Dr. Symon explained that the provincial government had asked him to take a six-month public health specialist certification course. Health board duties were to heavy, he said, to handle along with the correspondence course.

The board moved acceptance with regret, and will write Health Minister Ralph Loffmark expressing satisfaction with Dr. Symon's work and adding that if he ever wished to return to the board he would be most welcome.

Tractor Kills Worker

GANGES — A 44-year-old farm worker was killed Thursday when the tractor he was towing a truck with up a hill rolled back on top of him. Ronald Reeve, married and believed to have five children, apparently died instantly.

He worked for Roger Hughes, who owns and runs Burgoyne Dairy in Burgoyne Valley. Coroner Magistrate M. F. Peiler is conducting an inquiry.

Willow Point Conflict

Fire Chief, Deputy Plan Resignations

CAMPBELL RIVER — Fire chief and deputy fire chief of Willow Point district, four miles south of Campbell River, have asked for their resignations to be accepted as a result of a dispute with trustees.

The resignations of Chief Clyde Malbon and Deputy Chief Len McKenzie followed a meeting this week between fire department officials and trustees.

The meeting climaxed months of arguments, discussions and similar meetings over the question of amalgamating the small fire brigade with the larger Campbell River department.

He has told trustees the majority of Willow Point firemen is also in favor of amalgamation, because they feel Willow Point residents are not being given adequate fire protection by the department's insufficient equipment.

The two men agreed to delay officially handing in their resignations until another meeting Tuesday with trustees.

Mr. Malbon said his reason for resigning is that he is losing sleep over the complicated problems arising from the position of chief of the 21-man volunteer brigade.

"I have no friction with anyone, but I'm just a fireman and don't want to get all involved with the politics of the job," Mr. Malbon said.

★ ★ ★

Trustees William Grycan, Richard Treherne and chairman Kenneth Forde do not favor union of the two because of an increase in costs.

Establishment Blamed

'Society Crumbling'

NANAIMO — Federal Social Credit League president Herb Bruch has told a Nanaimo constituency meeting "the establishment," not the people, are running Canada today.

He said the elected government representatives can completely ignore the people's wishes, even though it was the people who elected them. "Our society is crumbling," Mr. Bruch said.

NO HOPE OF HOME

Mr. Bruch said young people rebel because they have no hope of owning their own home because of exhorbitant interest rates, which created subsidized housing in a country with only three people per square mile.

Earl Westwood of Nanaimo, the former B.C. agent-general in London, said people in England have lost all incentive because of socialist government's economic problems.

ENGLAND'S WOES

"Anyone socialistically inclined would soon change his political views if he could see what is going on in England today," he said.

"They have seen the British empire fall down around their ears, and they resent the American status in the world today."

Mr. Westwood said workers there are only half as productive as the Canadian and U.S. counterparts, and prices and taxes are skyrocketing.

Pupils Confess

COURTENAY — Police said Thursday that two students admitted making a hoax bomb call which led to evacuation of more than 800 students at Courtenay Junior High School.

Five Years Jail

Soldier Raped 12-Year-Old

NANAIMO — In county court Friday, Cpl. John Farrior Galbraith, 34, of Victoria, was found guilty of statutory rape and sentenced to five years in jail.

He attacked a 12-year-old girl at Rathtrevor Beach near Parksville at 3 a.m. July 11.

QUEEN'S OWN RIFLES

Judge Harry McKay said he was aware Galbraith had served 14 years with the Queen's Own Rifles.

"This will mean the end of your army career and it may mean the end of your marriage, but I am satisfied you knew she was nowhere near 18 or 19 years of age," said Judge McKay.

"The crime of which you have been convicted is one of the most reprehensible of all — the ravishing of a young woman. This is the fourth case of this ... and it must stop," Judge McKay said.

SECONDARY

He said sentencing must fulfill rehabilitative needs, but added "rehabilitation must be secondary."

UBC Faculty Regains Dirty Club

VANCOUVER (CP) — An invasion of the University of British Columbia's faculty club by about 1,000 students ended Friday.

Militant students, who had occupied the private club on the campus for 24 hours, pulled out about noon to attend a rally, and cleaners moved in to tackle debris left by a party Thursday night.

RUBIN GOES

Meanwhile, Jerry Rubin, the yippie leader from the United States who sparked Thursday's invasion, boarded a plane for San Francisco.

PRIME MINISTER

Mr. Yew, who left his lodgings in the club for a dinner engagement after the students had moved in, was invited to join the "revolution."

The prime minister smiled and told the students he had been in many revolutions, but that the one they were engaged in was not real.

ACTION CALL

He later led the demonstrators into the club where officials immediately declared "open house" and invited them to stay for the rest of the day. However, they locked up the bar.

The ensuing party saw one yippie from the United States plunge naked into the club swimming pool, while some burned dollar bills, a few others "turned on" with marijuana, and the others discussed their grievances with faculty members.

London

Students Force Entry

LONDON (UPI)—Hundreds of angry, chanting students forced their way into the London School of Economics Friday in defiance of an administration attempt to close the building before a mass anti-Vietnam demonstration scheduled for Sunday.

British officials, while maintaining apparent outward cool, were known to be preparing for all possibilities — including wide-scale violence recalling the Paris May "revolution."

Simon Fraser

Censure Soon Gone?

OTTAWA (CP) — The Canadian Association of University Teachers will re-examine the operation of Simon Fraser University to see whether to lift last May's censure motion.

A three-member association team headed by the president, Prof. C. B. Macpherson of the University of Toronto, will spend two or three days on the campus next week.

The censure motion, passed by the association's governing council, was directed at the British Columbia university's board of governors and the president at the time, since departed. His departure and corrective steps have led to the re-examination.

BOARD ACTION

The censure motion accused the board of interference in academic affairs and the board since has promised to halt interference with academic appointments.

The investigating team will report to the association's governing council at its November meeting. It is up to the council to decide whether to lift the censure motion.

There were reports that there was a good chance the university would be restored to good standing in the eyes of the association.

By BILL STAVDAL
Colonist Education Reporter

● UBC students end occupation of Faculty Club; London School of Economics invaded. Page 38.

"Students have a right to take an active part in the decisions that affect them during their years at university. Students will be involved here on a basis of equality with faculty, and at once."

This is not the statement of a torch-waving campus revolutionary. It was uttered this week by Dr. Frank C. Peters, president of Waterloo Lutheran University in Ontario.

He made the statement as Waterloo Lutheran moved to include students at nearly all decision-making levels, giving them a voice in curriculum, planning, admissions and examinations.

Dr. Peters' statement reflects the opinion of a growing body in the Canadian university community — perhaps a majority. In the next two or three years the principle will be accepted universally.

Nevertheless, the sound of a university student calling for change on the campus still rouses a fearful and often nasty reaction among a large segment of the public.

We hear calls to kick them out of school if they won't stay in line, demands for police suppression of protest and threats to fire professors who support students. One would think Attila were on the horizon, judging by panic and hatred some people exhibit toward students.

Trudeau Reminds Atlantic Liberals

By RICHARD JACKSON

HALIFAX (Special) — Prime Minister Trudeau has come down to the job-hungry, contract-anxious, subsidy-needy Maritimes and told Nova Scotia Liberals that political patronage is dead.

The drive, he says, and they cheered him for saying it, must be for the best man for the job, the lowest bid for the contract — and forget about the patronage.

And it was his first major speech since his June victory with the subject pure politics.

He said that in time past, federal party politics in between elections had been a matter mostly of jobs and contracts for the faithful.

But that kind of thing wouldn't do any more.

Quality was the key-word. Quality of mind and of performance, for the taxpayers' interest must prevail.

It was "only right," he conceded, that the "hard core" of the party faithful should expect reward for their efforts. But only up to a point. And that point must neither prejudice the overall interest of the nation nor the individual stake of the taxpayer.

And he spoke of the students-for-Biafra who greeted him in a picket line when he leaped, in his leather coat, from the motorcade to enter the Lord Nelson Hotel after a foggy touchdown at nearby Shearwater armed forces air base.

"I told them we may be wrong the way we are trying to handle the problem" he related, "but I told them too, that it was a better way than getting involved in a civil war — and that I hadn't yet heard of any better way."

One of the students had cried that the war was genocidal.

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minster Trudeau told the Commons Friday it is up to the International Red Cross to obtain the necessary permission from Nigeria for Canadian planes to fly relief supplies into its breakaway province of Biafra.

For more than an hour the prime minister defended his government's policy of trying to help the starving people of the rebel province without infringing Nigerian sovereignty.

Trudeau also assured David Lewis, the NDP parliamentary leader, that the three Canadian Hercules planes at the disposal of the Red Cross will not be returning to Canada as has been feared.

Replying to Opposition Leader Stanfield, Trudeau said he is discussing with External Affairs Minister Mitchell Sharp the idea of Canada making direct representation to Nigeria to help the Red Cross obtain the necessary clearance to get the Hercules planes into Biafra.

The prime minister and Sharp met privately after the Commons question period Friday to talk about Biafra but aides to both men refused to say what decisions, if any, were reached.

Trudeau said Canada has encouraged Canadians to act generously as individuals to relieve the suffering in Biafra.

"As far as the Government of Canada's action is concerned, we only consented to put our aircraft, our official planes and our air force apparatus at the disposition of the Red Cross when the Nigerian government said that was all right, that it would not be interpreted as a hostile act," he said.

If similar Nigerian permission for church supply mission is given, then the Canadian aircraft would be turned over to them.

Opposition Speeches

Marshmallows Finish Fast

The food broke a fast begun Wednesday by the demonstrators to support their demand that Canada seek a United Nations ceasefire in the war between Nigeria and breakaway Biafra.

Three opposition MPs each took their turn on the ledge of the centennial flame to speak to the crowd of about 75 demonstrators and sumpathizers gathered to mark the end of the protest.

David Lewis (NDP-York South) said the Canadian government has a clear duty to save lives when it is possible to save them.

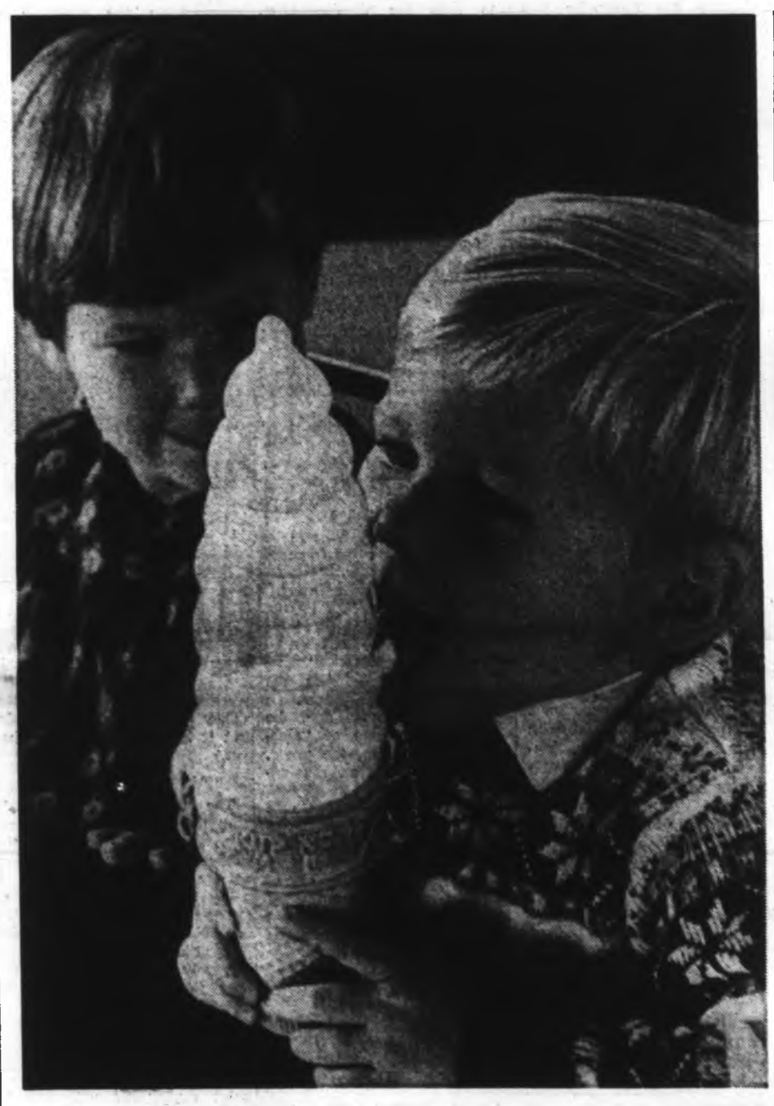

He said he did not understand why three Canadian Hercules transport planes should be allowed to "sit there doing nothing" instead of completing their mission to take relief supplies to Biafra.

★ ★ ★

Referring to the eviction Wednesday of demonstrators from External Affairs Minister Sharp's office where they had staged a three-hour sit-in, he said:

"It might have been better if the minister had been carried out."

Andrew Brewin (NDP-Toronto Greenwood) said the future of individual human beings, of Africa and of international order is at stake.

New Hampshire: 32 Die

10 Survive Crash Of Propjet

HANOVER, N.H. (AP) — A Northeast Airlines plane on a flight from Boston to Lebanon, N.H., and Montpelier, Vt., crashed and burned in fog on Moose Mountain near Hanover Friday night.

Reports from the scene indicated as many as 32 of the 42 persons aboard were killed.

A helicopter bearing medics and rescue personnel from Pease Air Force Base at Portsmouth, N.H., was at the scene to assist in rescue operations. State police called for "all medical aid possible."

Mary Hitchcock Hospital reported one survivor there and two others were at a nearby home. No information was available on their identities and condition.

HEAVY WOODS, ROCK

Persons near the scene said the plane crashed about 60 feet below the mountaintop, in an area of heavy woods and rock ledge.

A number of those aboard were reported badly burned, but four were able to walk down the mountain. The plane was still burning more than three hours after it crashed.

Northeast said a passenger list was being prepared but probably would not be complete until early morning.

Saigon Firm: No Cong

SAIGON (AP) — South Vietnamese President Nguyen Van Thieu was reported firm Friday in his refusal to let the South Vietnam National Liberal Front, political arm of the Viet Cong, have a separate role in the Vietnam peace talks.

This would set back prospects for an early breakthrough in United States efforts to get the preliminary peace talks in Paris moving.

Hanoi radio emphasized Friday North Vietnam had not accepted any U.S. conditions in exchange for a halt to the U.S. bombing of the North.

In Paris, meanwhile, Asian diplomatic sources said North Vietnam is hopeful an accord on the bombing halt will be arranged before the Nov. 5 presidential elections restrict the Johnson administration's freedom of action.

★ ★ ★

Hanoi diplomats, believed to be engaged in a new round of hard bargaining on a "peace package" with Washington, said they will study with great care a Laos statement that Washington planned to halt all bombing raids.

German Disclosure Fuels Spy Drama

Red Agents Flee Over Border

BONN (AP) — New reports added fuel Friday to speculation about a major spy case in the wake of a wave of suicides or violent death involving three senior West German officers and two government employees.

One was a statement by Conrad Ahlers, deputy chief government spokesman, that six communist East German agents were pulled quickly out of West Germany early this month.

Ahlers told a news conference two of the six left because of disagreements among their East Berlin bosses and two others fled fearing betrayal after the arrest of an accomplice.

Ahlers gave no details, but the latter two were believed to have quit the country after the arrest of an employee in a nuclear research centre at Karlsruhe earlier this month. He did not say why the other two left.

In another incident, the defence ministry reported fragments of an exploded U.S.-designed Hawk ground-to-air missile has been found on a public refuse heap in the Eifel Mountains.

The possibility of espionage first arose with the disclosure that Rear Admiral Hermann Luedke, 57, who retired as deputy chief of NATO's logistic department Sept. 30, had microfilm of secret NATO documents. He was found dead of a gunshot wound in an Eifel forest Oct. 8.

Eduard Adorno, defence ministry state secretary, told Parliament that Luedke's early retirement from NATO had nothing to do with the finding of the microfilm. He said Luedke had requested early release for health reasons last March.

★ ★ ★

Adorno said investigators so far have found no connection between Luedke's mysterious death and the suicides of two other military officers and two civil service officials.

He referred to the recent deaths of Maj.-Gen. Horst Wendland, deputy chief of the federal intelligence service; Lt.-Col. Johannes Grimm of the defence ministry, and Edeltraud Grapentin, librarian in the federal press office.

★ ★ ★

Cushing

In Wake of Publicity, 'Gutter' Mail

Jackie Defender Quits

BOSTON (UPI) — Cardinal Richard J. Cushing, Roman Catholic archbishop of Boston, said Friday he will resign at the end of this year as a result of the "gutter" mail and adverse publicity he received following his defence of Mrs. Jacqueline Kennedy's marriage to Aristotle Onassis.

The 73-year-old cardinal said he had intended to retire in mid-1970 but was prompted to quit this year because of the furor.

Cushing had condemned as "a lot of nonsense" statements that Mrs. Kennedy is living in sin and would be excommunicated

The cardinal, a long-time Kennedy family friend, said:

"Many letters I have received condemning me for asking charity for Jacqueline Kennedy have stated that I am only interested in money. Let me tell them all, please, that I entered the Catholic priesthood without a penny and I shall leave it without a penny, for I made a solemn vow of poverty many years ago as a Franciscan and I would never take for myself one cent."

Province comes under fire for gym refusal

Campbell River Petition

3,000 Protest Lack Of Gym Facilities

By HELEN MITCHELL

CAMPBELL RIVER — Close to 500 adults and senior high school students crowded into Cedar school gymnasium to hear a report by school trustees on vain efforts to obtain a gym for the senior high.

Dan Campbell, Minister of Municipal Affairs and MLA for this riding, and Education Minister Donald Brothers, who had both been invited to the open meeting, did not attend.

Mr. Campbell was in Montreal and Mr. Brothers said he did not receive notice of the meeting in time.

The school board, taxpayers and students all want a gymnasium. However the government has evidently turned a deaf ear to their plea since curtailing all but essential classroom construction.

Senior students have been canvassing the district from door to door, on a petition to be submitted to the provincial government.

ORDERLY PARADE

On Thursday afternoon, about 500 students staged an orderly parade from the high school to downtown Tyee Plaza carrying placards saying "We Need a Gym" "B.C. Govt. Unfair to Students", etc.

School board chairman Bruce Saunders will take the petition and letters when he goes to Victoria to bring the matter before the education department.

The demonstration and write-in was organized by the high school student council under direction of president Wanda Lenaour.

They also arranged a free baby sitting service and free transportation to the public meeting for those requiring it.

The march was held after school and Principal John Young gave students his blessing and warned them to obey traffic rules.

NEW COUNCIL BYLAW

They were also reminded to obey the new bylaw by keeping the size of groups to less than 25.

Campbell River had passed a bylaw three days previously prohibiting protest gatherings of more than 25 persons within town limits. The bylaw is not yet in print, but the students were asked to obey it.

A similar meeting and protest was held Wednesday in Port Alberni, where trustees explained identical reasons to dissident students protesting lack of gym facilities at E. J. Dunn junior high.

Willow Point Conflict

Fire Chief, Deputy Plan Resignations

CAMPBELL RIVER — Fire chief and deputy fire chief of Willow Point district, four miles south of Campbell River, have asked for their resignations to be accepted as a result of a dispute with trustees.

The resignations of Chief Clyde Malbon and Deputy Chief Len McKenzie followed a meeting this week between fire department officials and trustees.

The meeting climaxed months of arguments, discussions and similar meetings over the question of amalgamating the small fire brigade with the larger Campbell River department.

He has told trustees the majority of Willow Point firemen is also in favor of amalgamation, because they feel Willow Point residents are not being given adequate fire protection by the department's insufficient equipment.

Mr. Malbon said his reason for resigning is that he is losing sleep over the complicated problems arising from the position of chief of the 21-man volunteer brigade.

"I have no friction with anyone, but I'm just a fireman and don't want to get all involved with the politics of the job," Mr. Malbon said.

Trustees William Grycan, Richard Treherne and chairman Kenneth Forde do not favor union of the two because of an increase in costs.

Tax Rebate Pledged

'Excellent News For Bylaw'

By KLAUS MUENTER

DUNCAN — A boost toward passage of the $850,000 recreation development bylaw arrived from the provincial government hours before today's bylaw vote.

The government advised the Cowichan Valley regional district board it is prepared to advance legislation giving the regional board power to rebate the owners of farmland the taxes imposed for recreation on land over and above the basic homesite.

About 6,000 ratepayers from the southend of North Cowichan, the city of Duncan, and the unorganized areas of Cowichan Bay, Cobble Hill and Koksilah-Cowichan Station-Eagle Heights are eligible to cast their vote.

The fate of a $32,000 ambulance building bylaw will also be decided at the polls today by the same voters, plus ratepayers of Mill Bay and Shawnigan Lake.

Cowichan Valley regional board secretary Peter Hayward said the government's announcement means that a farm of 50 acres will receive a rebate covering 49 acres at the applicable mill rate of 4.32 mills.

This can be implemented next year.

Mr. Hayward said, "Previously the regional board received a representation from the farmers in the electoral areas pointing out that they did not consider it was equitable for them to be taxed for recreation purposes on their total assessment.

Both mayors in this area, Jim Quaife of Duncan and Donald Morton of North Cowichan expressed optimism that the government announcement will help the bylaw to pass.

Mayor Quaife said, "This is a terrific breakthrough for the regional district. I feel the government has taken a major step towards establishing better relations with the regional district and the farmers in our area.

"This should prove beneficial for the farmers, who've complained for many years about unfair taxation on farm land.

"It will be a precedent in British Columbia and maybe in Canada."

Mayor Morton said: "I think it is excellent news and it could make the needed difference in passing the recreation bylaw. It will be a just alleviation of taxes on farm land.

"I hope everybody will get out and vote for the proposed recreational facilities which are so badly needed."

During the past several weeks many different sports and cultural groups in the areas affected aligned themselves with civic bodies in support of the recreation development bylaw.

The proposed facilities to be built at Pioneer Park would give this area a covered swimming pool and a community centre with an auditorium and a variety of rooms for a broad segment of the young and old population of this area.

Polling stations will be located at: Duncan City Hall, North Cowichan Municipal Hall, Maple Bay school, Southend fire hall, Cobble Hill school on Watson Road, Old Koksilah School, Bench school, New Koksilah school and Glenora school.

Doctor Resigns

Dr. Symon explained that the provincial government had asked him to take a six-month public health specialist certification course. Health board duties were to heavy, he said, to handle along with the correspondence course.

The board moved acceptance with regret, and will write Health Minister Ralph Loffmark expressing satisfaction with Dr. Symon's work and adding that if he ever wished to return to the board he would be most welcome.

Five Years Jail

Soldier Raped 12-Year-Old

NANAIMO — In county court Friday, Cpl. John Farrior Galbraith, 34, of Victoria, was found guilty of statutory rape and sentenced to five years in jail.

He attacked a 12-year-old girl at Rathtrevor Beach near Parksville at 3 a.m. July 11.

QUEEN'S OWN RIFLES

Judge Harry McKay said he was aware Galbraith had served 14 years with the Queen's Own Rifles.

Galbraith holds the Cyprus Medal and a 12-year good conduct medal. He is the father of two children.

"This will mean the end of your army career and it may mean the end of your marriage, but I am satisfied you knew she was nowhere near 18 or 19 years of age," said Judge McKay.

"The crime of which you have been convicted is one of the most reprehensible of all — the ravishing of a young woman. This is the fourth case of this . . . and it must stop," Judge McKay said.

SECONDARY

He said sentencing must fulfill rehabilitative needs, but added "rehabilitation must be secondary."

Tractor Kills Worker

GANGES — A 44 - year - old farm worker was killed Thursday when the tractor he was towing a truck with up a hill rolled back on top of him. Ronald Reeve, married and believed to have five children, apparently died instantly.

He worked for Roger Hughes, who owns and runs Burgoyne Dairy in Burgoyne Valley. Coroner Magistrate M. F. Peiler is conducting an inquiry.

Treatment Necessary

Sewage Clause Stops Hookups

CAMPBELL RIVER—Council has learned that no further extensions to its sewer system can take place until positive plans for sewage treatment are submitted to health authorities.

A statement issued from Ralph Loffmark, health minister, says in part "It will not be in the interest of the public health to grant certificates for construction of a new sewage works relating to the development of unoccupied land unless a minimum of primary treatment is provided therefore."

CITY BLOCKS

Council's interpretation is that additions can be made to new homes in developed city blocks but that no land developer could bring a new line onto an existing sewer service.

The statement from the health department says "This department will probably be able to deal positively with licences which relate to the re-arrangement of existing facilities where there is no increase in the volume of sewage discharged."

RELAXATION

And further, "This department is prepared to consider some relaxation of its policy in individual instances where an application for a certificate is accompanied by evidence satisfactory to this department that a program for financing and constructing primary treatment facilities is under way and is being implemented with due dispatch."

Mayor Kenneth McDonald suggested that council check with local health officer Dr. G. A. Gibson for clarification of the health department statement.

Stabbing Charge Reduced

NANAIMO — Andrew Charlie Sr., 60, was sentenced to 3½ years Friday when found guilty in British Columbia Supreme Court on a reduced charge of manslaughter in the stabbing death of Joseph Mickey, 23.

Charlie, of the Opitsat Indian reserve near Tofino, had been charged with murder in the July 15 stabbing. The stabbing followed a fight between Mickey and Charles' son, Andrew, 19.

REPENTENT

Mr. Justice F. Craig Munroe said he had taken everything into consideration in passing sentence, including the fact that Mr. Charlie spoke no English and "that you are truly repentent for what you did."

He said, however, "To destroy the life of another person is extremely serious."

Woman Pedestrian Dies in Nanaimo

NANAIMO—A 64-year-old Victoria woman was pronounced dead in the Nanaimo hospital 8 p.m. Friday night after being hit by a car.

Police said she was crossing the Island Highway at Waddington Road at about 7:50 p.m. and was knocked down by a car driven by Robert Rathlef, 53 Nicol St.

She died of multiple, internal and head injuries.

These Areas Vote Today

More than $1,000 owner electors in the Capital District's seven municipalities and seven electoral districts are eligible to vote today on the $9,300,000 regional hospital referendum.

Money from the bylaw will be spent over five years at an average cost to each owner elector of $5 a year.

Passage of the referendum will provide a further 600 extended care beds, $2,500,000 to renovate and improve present acute hospital facilities, $250,000 to plan future acute hospitals and $750,000 for land acquisition.

Establishment Blamed

'Society Crumbling'

NANAIMO — Federal Social Credit League president Herb Bruch has told a Nanaimo constituency meeting "the establishment," not the people, are running Canada today.

He said the elected government representatives can completely ignore the people's wishes, even though it was the people who elected them. "Our society is crumbling," Mr. Bruch said.

NO HOPE OF HOME

Mr. Bruch said young people rebel because they have no hope of owning their own home because of exhorbitant interest rates, which created subsidized housing in a country with only three people per square mile.

Earl Westwood of Nanaimo, the former B.C. agent-general in London, said people in England have lost all incentive because of socialist government's economic problems.

ENGLAND'S WOES

"Anyone socialistically inclined would soon change his political views if he could see what is going on in England today," he said.

"They have seen the British empire fall down around their ears, and they resent the American status in the world today."

Mr. Westwood said workers there are only half as productive as the Canadian and U.S. counterparts, and prices and taxes are skyrocketing.

Clocks Go Back

Clocks will be turned back one hour at 2 a.m. Sunday as British Columbia switches over to standard time for the winter months.

The end of daylight saving time, set by order in council, means one hour extra sleep Sunday and an earlier sunset. Daylight saving time has been in effect since April 28.

Pupils Confess

COURTENAY — Police said Thursday that two students admitted making a hoax bomb call which led to evacuation of more than 800 students at Courtenay Junior High School.

Denman Island Depends on Her

Kate's Job More Than Keeping Store

By MARY MOORE

UNION BAY — "Kate, is the ferry running on time?" . . . "Kate, could I leave my parcels here awhile?" . . . "Kate, was there a letter left here for me?" . . . "Kate, would you mind putting some string around my parcels?"

Kate is Mrs. Kate Hadden. She has operated the Buckley Bay general store, now in a new building, for 12 years.

★ ★ ★

The store is located near the Denman Island ferry landing, and the comings and goings of the ferry have a lot to do with the neighborhood role Kate's store plays.

Kate's phone is the one used for all emergencies. People coming from the Islands who are sick or injured, are brought off the ferry to Kate while they wait for an ambulance to take them to the hospital. "We almost had a baby born here one night," said Kate.

"There are a lot of accidents down the road at Keenan's corner when the weather is bad," said Kate, "and they always come to me for blankets. One week there were seven of them, and it came to the point where I had to go around collecting my blankets before I could go to bed!"

★ ★ ★

The phone rang. Kate answered, spoke a few words, then hung up and made another call. "That was Jack Parnell at Hornby Spit Resort," she said.

Six months ago, Kate ran into a real problem of her own, and her friends helped to solve it.

The building was too old to be moved and used again, so Kate bought a pre-fabricated building.

Neighbors and friends came to help Kate set up the new store one Saturday morning, and the next evening, moved the stock to its new location.

Licence Prohibition to Last One Year

Driver Fined $350 in Fatal Crash

NANAIMO — Andrew Willott, 22, of Ladysmith, was found guilty of dangerous driving by county court Judge Harry McKay. Willott was fined $350 and prohibited from driving for one year. The trial arose from the death of Kenneth Hayes Judson, 17, when the car Willott was driving went out of control on the Island Highway about 2½ miles south of Ladysmith on Feb. 22.

□

GOLD RIVER — Several activities have been planned for the children of Gold River on Halloween. A party will be held at the elementary school in the afternoon for children from kindergarten to year three. The evening activities are all sponsored by the Kinsmen Club. There will be a party at the elementary school gym starting at 6:30 p.m. at which free hot-dogs and soft drinks will be provided. Five dollar gift certificates from local merchants will be given as prizes to winners of eight categories in the costume judging contest. This party is for children of all ages and there are prizes for children under 7 as well as prizes for teenagers.

Following the party there will be a giant bonfire on the vacant lot north of the shopping centre with a fireworks display from the hill atop Eagle Crescent. Kinsmen suggest that the bonfire area will be the best location for viewing the fireworks display.

LAKE COWICHAN — J. W. Lalonde, 30, of Lake Cowichan, was sentenced to 14 days imprisonment after he was convicted of driving while suspended. W. J. Meekin, 22, of Lake Cowichan, was fined $50 for a similar offence and Ingrid Doreen Dickieson, 37, of Lake Cowichan was fined $100 for impaired driving. Her licence was suspended for three months.

□

CAMPBELL RIVER— RCMP report that an attempt was made to enter Terminal Cafe in north Campbell River during the night Wednesday. A screen was pried off a rear window. However nothing was taken and police believe the intruders were scared off. The stealing of several cases of pop from the Eagles Hall in north Campbell River is also being investigated. There was no sign of a forced entry.

□

CAMPBELL RIVER— Trustees of Campbell River and District General Hospital have met with representatives of the architectural firm of Underwood McKinley Cameron Wilson Smith and Associates of Vancouver to study plans for additions to the acute care section.

The plans, submitted by Herb Wilson and Bill Camden, will now be referred to the building committee, then returned to the hospital trustees with their recommendations. After that the plans will be submitted to the health department for consideration and approval.

This will probably be after the new year. Hospital administrator Arthur Lightfoot said "The architects have been working on the drawings for three years, on a projection for the hospital that was approved on Dec. 17, 1965 by the then minister of health, Eric Martin, who gave his approval in principle to the hospital to expand its acute capacity to a total of 100 to 105 beds by 1970. Unfinished areas would be developed to enlarge this to 135 acute beds by 1975," he said.

□

CAMPBELL RIVER — A committee has been established by the Legion pipe band, including chairman Don Hood, and Ted Ferguson, Jim Smith, Bill McDonald and Art Harling. The pipe band has officially represented the branch on 26 occasions so far this year. It has been invited by the Gold River branch to play for the unveiling of the Cenotaph there November 9.

There will be a full turnout of the band for the Remembrance Day parade in Campbell River on Nov. 11.

□

CAMPBELL RIVER— The Legion-sponsored soccer team, formerly known as the Hawks, has now changed its name to Legion United.

□

COURTENAY — Eric Hughes of the Cloverdale office of the B.C. agriculture department, an outstanding authority on herbicides, will address a meeting of the Comox Farmers Institute on Wednesday.

John Zacharias, district agriculturist, said the meeting will be held at 8 p.m. in the Farmer's Hall at the fair grounds. This meeting is open to all farmers. It is hoped potato and vegetable growers, as well as the dairy and livestock men, will come prepared with questions and comments on weed control problems and experiences, Mr. Zacharias said.

□

CAMPBELL RIVER — The women's Auxiliary to Campbell River and District General Hospital has finished payments on a $5,000 loan used to complete their Thrift Shop Building. The note for the loan was co-signed by five auxiliary members and 15 local businessmen.

MAKE THE BIG MOVE!
A new home can be a gold mine
Most things you spend money on are worth less next year—or even a minute after you've got them. How much is a new car worth after you drive it once 'round the block? Ever try to sell a brand-new TV you've won in a raffle? But your home is a growing asset. When you move up to a new and better home, you're making a wise investment—not just in living conditions, but in hard cash.
But even if homes depreciated like speedboats or tweed coats, your own home would still be a great buy. What else can give your family so much pleasure, so many happy memories? A home is 24 hours a day—it's the way you feel about life, the background and support for every pleasure you have. Even holidays are better because home is there to go back to!
And there's nothing else you can buy on such long-term financing — which means your payments are low for the value you're getting. Investigate now — ask any member of the Victoria Home Builders Association to show you how only a few dollars more a month may bring you a new world of living comfort.

UVic's Civilized Revolution

By BILL STAVDAL
Colonist Education Reporter

"Students have a right to take an active part in the decisions that affect them during their years at university. Students will be involved here on a basis of equality with faculty, and at once."

This is not the statement of a torch-waving campus revolutionary. It was uttered this week by Dr. Frank C. Peters, president of Waterloo Lutheran University in Ontario.

He made the statement as Waterloo Lutheran moved to include students at nearly all decision-making levels, giving them a voice in curriculum, planning, admissions and examinations.

Dr. Peters' statement reflects the opinion of a growing body in the Canadian university community — perhaps a majority. In the next two or three years the principle will be accepted universally.

Nevertheless, the sound of a university student calling for change on the campus still rouses a fearful and often nasty reaction among a large segment of the public.

We hear calls to kick them out of school if they won't stay in line, demands for police suppression of protest and threats to fire professors who support students. One would think Attila was on the horizon, judging by panic and hatred some people exhibit toward students.

So let's get a few things straight about responsible students, particularly at the University of Victoria.

Trudeau Reminds Atlantic Liberals

Patronage Is Dead

By RICHARD JACKSON

HALIFAX (Special) — Prime Minister Trudeau has come down to the job-hungry, contract-anxious, subsidy-needy Maritimes and told Nova Scotia Liberals that political patronage is dead.

The drive, he says, and they cheered him for saying it, must be for the best man for the job, the lowest bid for the contract — and forget about the patronage.

It was his first post-election appearance at a political rally — a $25-a-plate fund-raising dinner for the Nova Scotia Liberals.

And it was his first major speech since his June victory with the subject pure politics.

He said that in time past, federal party politics in between elections had been a matter mostly of jobs and contracts for the faithful.

But that kind of thing wouldn't do any more.

Quality was the key-word. Quality of mind and of performance, for the taxpayers' interest must prevail.

It was "only right," he conceded, that the "hard core" of the party faithful should expect reward for their efforts. But only up to a point. And that point must neither predudice the overall interest of the nation nor the individual stake of the taxpayer.

And he spoke of the students-for-Biafra who greeted him in a picket line when he leaped, in his leather coat, from the motorcade to enter the Lord Nelson Hotel after a foggy touchdown at nearby Shearwater armed forces air base.

★ ★ ★

"I told them we may be wrong the way we are trying to handle the problem" he related, "but I told them too, that it was a better way than getting involved in a civil war — and that I hadn't yet heard of any better way."

One of the students had cried that the war was genocidal.

"Genocide — that's the only important question," Trudeau said. "If it was genocide, the United Nations could act. But,

Nigerian Flights Up to Red Cross

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minster Trudeau told the Commons Friday it is up to the International Red Cross to obtain the necessary permission from Nigeria for Canadian planes to fly relief supplies into its breakaway province of Biafra.

For more than an hour the prime minister defended his government's policy of trying to help the starving people of the rebel province without infringing Nigerian sovereignty.

Trudeau also assured David Lewis, the NDP parliamentary leader, that the three Canadian Hercules planes at the disposal of the Red Cross will not be returning to Canada as has been feared.

Replying to Opposition Leader Stanfield, Trudeau said he is discussing with External Affairs Minister Mitchell Sharp the idea of Canada making direct representation to Nigeria to help the Red Cross obtain the necessary clearance to get the Hercules planes into Biafra.

The prime minister and Sharp met privately after the Commons question period Friday to talk about Biafra but aides to both men refused to say what decisions, if any, were reached.

Trudeau said Canada has encouraged Canadians to act generously as individuals to relieve the suffering in Biafra.

"As far as the Government of Canada's action is concerned, we only consented to put our aircraft, our official planes and our air force apparatus at the disposition of the Red Cross when the Nigerian government said that was all right, that it would not be interpreted as a hostile act," he said.

If similar Nigerian permission for church supply mission is given, then the Canadian aircraft would be turned over to them.

Marshmallows Finish Fast

The food broke a fast begun Wednesday by the demonstrators to support their demand that Canada seek a United Nations ceasefire in the war between Nigeria and breakaway Biafra.

Three Opposition MPs each took their turn on the ledge of the centennial flame to speak to the crowd of about 75 demonstrators and sympathizers gathered to mark the end of the protest.

David Lewis (NDP-York South) said the Canadian government has a clear duty to save lives when it is possible to save them.

He said he did not understand why three Canadian Hercules transport planes should be allowed to "sit there doing nothing" instead of completing their mission to take relief supplies to Biafra.

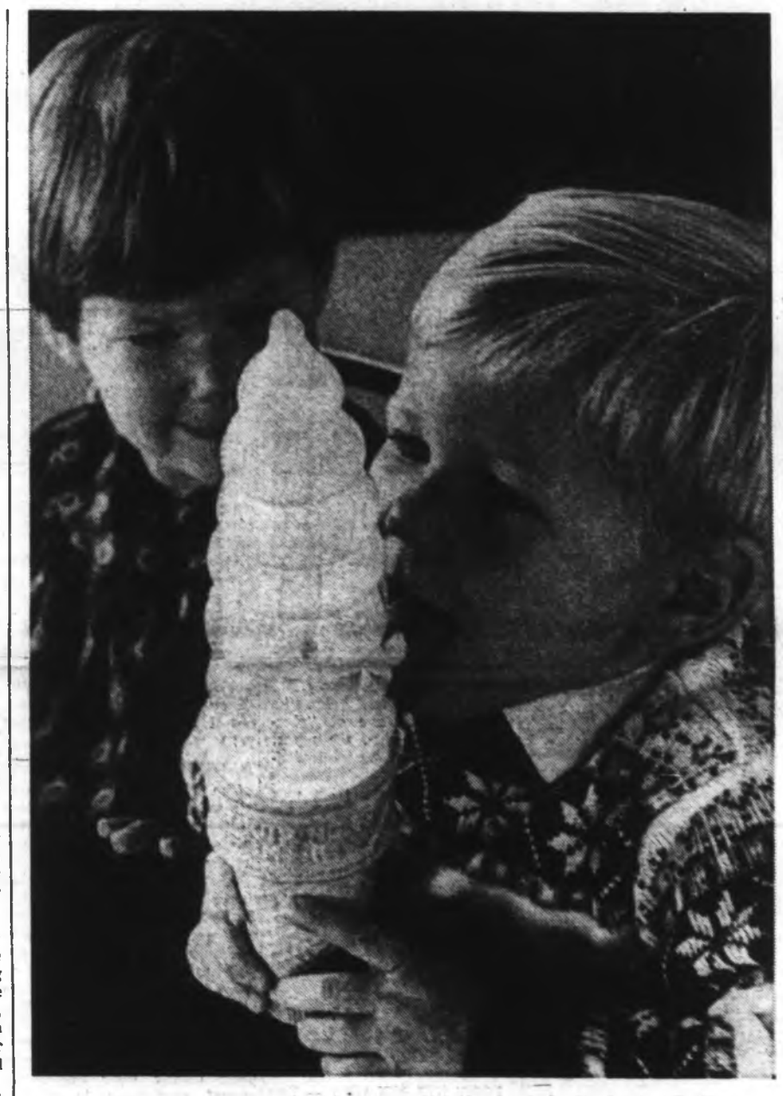

★ ★ ★

Referring to the eviction Wednesday of demonstrators from External Affairs Minister Sharp's office where they had staged a three-hour sit-in, he said:

"It might have been better if the minister had been carried out."

Three Injured

AIRPLANE CRASH KILLS 32

HANOVER, N.H. (AP) — A Northeast Airlines plane on a flight from Boston to Lebanon, N.H., and Montpelier, Vt., crashed and burned in fog on Moose Mountain near Hanover Friday night.

Reports from the scene indicated as many as 32 of the 42 persons aboard were killed.

A helicopter bearing medics and rescue personnel from Pease Air Force Base at Portsmouth, N.H., was at the scene to assist in rescue operations. State police called for "all medical aid possible."

Mary Hitchcock Hospital reported one survivor there and two others were at a nearby home. No information was available on their identities and condition.

HEAVY WOODS, ROCK

Persons near the scene said the plane crashed about 60 feet below the mountaintop, in an area of heavy woods and rock ledge.

A number of those aboard were reported badly burned, but four were able to walk down the mountain. The plane was still burning more than three hours after it crashed.

Northeast said a passenger list was being prepared but probably would not be complete until early morning.

Saigon Firm: No Cong

SAIGON (AP) — South Vietnamese President Nguyen Van Thieu was reported firm Friday in his refusal to let the South Vietnam National Liberation Front, political arm of the Viet Cong, have a separate role in the Vietnam peace talks.

This would set back prospects for an early breakthrough in United States efforts to get the preliminary peace talks in Paris moving.

Hanoi radio emphasized Friday North Vietnam had not accepted any U.S. conditions in exchange for a halt to the U.S. bombing of the North.

In Paris, meanwhile, Asian diplomatic sources said North Vietnam is hopeful an accord on the bombing halt will be arranged before the Nov. 5 presidential elections restrict the Johnson administration's freedom of action.

★ ★ ★

Hanoi diplomats, believed to be engaged in a new round of hard bargaining on a "peace package" with Washington, said they will study with great care a Laos statement that Washington planned to halt all bombing raids.

German Disclosure Fuels Spy Drama

Red Agents Flee Over Border

BONN (AP) — New reports added fuel Friday to speculation about a major spy case in the wake of a wave of suicides or violent death involving three senior West German officers and two government employees.

One was a statement by Conrad Ahlers, deputy chief government spokesman, that six communist East German agents were pulled quickly out of West Germany early this month.

Ahlers told a news conference two of the six left because of disagreements among their East Berlin bosses and two others fled fearing betrayal after the arrest of an accomplice.

Ahlers gave no details, but the latter two were believed to have quit the country after the arrest of an employee in a nuclear research centre at Karlsruhe earlier this month. He did not say why the other two left.

In another incident, the defence ministry reported fragments of an exploded U.S.-designed Hawk ground-to-air missile has been found on a public refuse heap in the Eifel Mountains.

The possibility of espionage first arose with the disclosure that Rear Admiral Hermann Luedke, 57, who retired as deputy chief of NATO's logistic department Sept. 30, had microfilm of secret NATO documents. He was found dead of a gunshot wound in an Eifel forest Oct. 8.

Eduard Adorno, defence ministry state secretary, told Parliament that Luedke's early retirement from NATO had nothing to do with the finding of the microfilm. He said Luedke had requested early release for health reasons last March.

Adorno said investigators so far have found no connection between Luedke's mysterious death and the suicides of two other military officers and two civil service officials.

He referred to the recent deaths of Maj.-Gen. Horst Wendland, deputy chief of the federal intelligence service; Lt.-Col. Johannes Grimm of the defence ministry, and Edeltraud Grapentin, librarian in the federal press office.

★ ★ ★

Cushing

In Wake of Publicity, 'Gutter' Mail

Jackie Defender Quits

BOSTON (UPI) — Cardinal Richard J. Cushing, Roman Catholic archbishop of Boston, said Friday he will resign at the end of this year as a result of the "gutter" mail and adverse publicity he received following his defence of Mrs. Jacqueline Kennedy's marriage to Aristotle Onassis.

The 73-year-old cardinal said he had intended to retire in mid-1970 but was prompted to quit this year because of the furor.

Cushing had condemned as "a lot of nonsense" statements that Mrs. Onassis is living in sin and would be excommunicated.

The cardinal, a long-time Kennedy family friend, said:

"Many letters I have received condemning me for asking charity for Jacqueline Kennedy have stated that I am only interested in money. Let me tell them all, please, that I entered the Catholic priesthood without a penny and I shall leave it without a penny, for I made a solemn vow of poverty many years ago as a Franciscan and I would never take for myself one cent."
